PALM TREE PUZZLE?

A palm tree, appearing to sprout mysteriously from the roof of a small car, actually rests majestically on a flatbed truck in the middle of Second Street in downtown San Rafael. Moving the huge tree, planted 40 years ago by Adolf Giordano of San Rafael, was all in a day's work yesterday for a local trucking and storage firm. For how it got there, and where it's going, see page 17.

Five To Be Charged In Ranger's Murder

Four Are Residents Of Homestead Valley

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Four Homestead Valley residents and a man jailed in Berkeley on bank robbing charges are to be charged with the murder last month of Park Ranger Kenneth C. Patrick at Point Reyes National Seashore.

Disclosure of the alleged connection of the five with Patrick's killing Aug. 5 was contained in an affidavit for a search warrant filed Friday by the Federal Bureau of Investigation with U. S. Magistrate Richard Goldsmith of Mill Valley and released today.

The Homestead Valley residents — arrested on a variety of drug and stolen property charges Friday at their home at 976 Vernal Avenue are: Johnathon Zachary Shoher, 28; Veronza Leon Bowers, 27; Stephanie Laura Bowers, 31, Catherine Mary King, 25. They are being held in jail in Berkeley with bail set at $25,000 apiece.

The fifth person named in the affidavit is Alan Veale, presently accused of bank robbery in Berkeley.

The affidavit indicated that the FBI's first break in the case came from a confidential informant. The affidavit said the informant told the FBI on Sept. 10 that Veale had admitted taking part in the killing.

The U.S. Attorney here has yet to file murder charges, but an FBI spokesman said they will be charged in U.S. District Court as soon as the agents' investigation is completed.

The four — being held on suspicion of burglary, possessing stolen property and check forgery — probably will not be charged in Marin even though suspected drugs and stolen property were found at their house, according to a spokesman for the Marin district attorney.

They originally were booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of possessing heroin, cultivating peyote, possessing stolen property and possessing a machine gun. But the "machine gun" later turned out to be a

Balloting Heavy In Recall; Light Turnout For Others

Voter turnout was heavy in all five voting places in the Corte Madera recall election this morning as 560 of 4,931 registered voters cast ballots in the first three hours of voting.

The heavy rush to the polls in that bitterly contested election contrasted with light turnout in three other elections being held today in Marin: a $600,000 open space bond issue in Homestead Valley; a $450,000 bond issue for improvements in Shoreline Unified School District, and an election setting a maximum tax rate for a maintenance district in Greenbrae.

Polls are open till 8 o'clock tonight and a spurt of voting is expected as voters return home from work.

"This is the heaviest I've seen, even for presidential elections," said Irving W. Hall, voting inspector at Holy Innocents Episcopal Parish and an inspector in over 10 elections.

Voters are deciding if Mayor Holmes S. Norville and councilmen Edward W. Colthurst and Harold B. Wagstaff should be recalled and how their successors will be picked if the recall succeeds.

Despite the heavy voter turnout, balloting was going smoothly at Holy Innocents, Corte Madera Recreation Center, Neil Cummins School, San Clemente School and Granada School.

"Everything has been smooth as silk," said Charles A. Greif, inspector at Neil Cummins School.

Mildred Thomas, inspector at Granada School, said voters seemed to have their minds made up and before receiving ballots took only a matter of seconds to complete the short ballot in most instances.

No challenges were reported at any of the polling places.

In contrast to the heavy turnout in Corte Madera, voting was light in all three polling places in the special election for Greenbrae County Service Area No. 16.

After three hours of balloting, 121 of 2,322 eligible voters or about five per cent had voted. Polling places include the T. L. Rogers residence, the Coldwell Banker and Co. office and Greenbrae School.

Voters are deciding if a maximum tax rate of 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation should be levied in the district for financing maintenance of road

Synanon Counsel Sees Protection

By ANNE WEST

State law will prevent Marin County government from imposing any population controls on Synanon Foundation's growing activities in West Marin, a Synanon lawyer told the county planning commission yesterday. (Another planning commission story, page 10.)

Attorney Sharon Green's assertion came after commissioners expressed concern that rapidly increasing population at Synanon's three ranches might conflict with the countywide General Plan, which calls for stringent growth controls in West Marin.

Miss Green claimed that, although the Bay Ranch on Tomales Bay is merely a "living situation" for the former drug addicts who participate in Synanon's rehabilitation program, the 1,500-acre Home Ranch and the 1,740 Walker Ranch on the Marshall-Petaluma Road are primarily devoted to agriculture.

The Walker and Home ranches house 422 people, she reported. She said nearly all are involved in taking care of 380 cattle, horses or small livestock, in cultivating fields or in support activities such as tending to water supplies or sewage systems.

"State law pretty clearly indicates that you cannot restrict the number of agricultural workers in any particular activity," Miss Green declared.

"I believe that the statutory scheme is such that if I want a ranch with all work done by hand and no machinery, if I want 950 people working on a truck farm and want them to use a fork and spoon as implements, there is no way anyone could restrict the number of workers," she said.

According to planning depart-

Auto Union Vote Set On New Pact

DETROIT (UPI) —A ratification vote on a new three-year pact for 127,500 Chrysler Corp. employes, including a 3 per cent wage increase in each year and a breakthrough 30-and-out retirement program, will take place this week.

The announcement yesterday of the three-year contract came just 63 hours after the United Auto Workers called the strike at plants in 22 states and Canada, but the union officials warned that assembly lines probably will not roll again until next week.

The new contract must be approved by the 210-member UAW Chrysler council, scheduled to meet tomorrow in Detroit, and by rank-and-file members at local union ratification meetings.

In wages, the union won a 3 per cent increase in each year, plus 12 cents an hour in the first year, which equals about 25 cents an hour for the average production worker. In addition, 35 cents of the current 40-cents-an-hour cost-of-living allowance will be added to the hourly base wage.

A new pension plan will enable workers with 30 years service to retire at any age with increased benefits ranging from up to $700 a month by 1978. Workers also obtained relief from mandatory overtime rules.

Agreement came after nearly 30 hours of marathon bargaining, interrupted only once for three hours when negotiators said they showed signs of weariness.

Besides the 30-and-out retirement plan, the major non-economic feature of the contract concerned the mandatory overtime that automakers can demand of workers.

Under the new contract, workers can refuse to work more than nine hours a day or more than 54 hours a week or more than two consecutive Saturdays. But the company retains certain limited rights to impose mandatory overtime.

Pay will increase 3 per cent yearly in each of the three years of the pact, less than the UAW sought. Woodcock said the cost of the package was "very, very high" for the UAW because of the non-money concessions Chrysler made.

Agnew Confidant Says He'll Quit

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A confidant of Spiro T. Agnew was reported today to be "99 ½ per cent sure" the vice president will resign, probably this week. The White House would not confirm or deny the report, but Agnew's press secretary said it was "far off the mark."

The Washington Post, quoting an unidentified "senior Republican figure," reported today that Agnew "has held lengthy discussions in the past two days on the advisability of resigning."

The source was quoted as saying he spent two hours last week trying to talk Agnew out of quitting, but came away "99 ½ per cent certain he will resign —and probably this week."

Agnew is under investigation by federal prosecutors in Maryland in connection with alleged kickbacks to state officials by contractors while he was Baltimore County executive and Maryland governor.

While Agnew staff members and others close to him expressed doubt that he would resign, the report raised procedural questions about replacement of the vice president should he quit.

White House press secretary Gerald L. Warren refused to confirm or deny the reports of impending resignation, and responded "no comment" when asked if President Nixon contin-

Winner, Loser Named In Gas Mileage Tests

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Drivers can expect only about 6.8 miles per gallon out of the 1974 model Oldsmobile Toronado, but the new Honda Civic will travel 29.1 miles on a gallon, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) said today.

The two cars represented the worst and the best gas mileage for the 1974 models uncovered so far in EPA tests. The agency made the figures, and scores of others, available to the industry so it can begin placing them on stickers on new cars to advise shoppers what kind of mileage to expect.

The EPA promoted the voluntary industry stickers program to make Americans more aware of the energy problem, to which cars contribute at the rate of 170 million gallons of gasoline every day. About 95 per cent of the new cars sold are expected to carry the stickers.

The agency said today's test results covered about 80 per cent of the new model cars which are now beginning to appear in showrooms. The rest of the tests will be made available to the industry when they are completed.

The miles-per-gallon figures are an offshoot of the tests the EPA conducts to make certain new cars comply with clean air rules. The cars were driven 7.3 miles at speeds ranging up to 57 miles an hour. The test is close to the average trip made by a car in the United States, the EPA said.

In the 2,000-pound weight class, the Honda Civic, with a 76-cubic inch engine and a manual four-speed transmission, showed the best fuel economy at 29.1 miles per gallon. The worst fuel economy in that

Hotel In Downtown San Rafael Proposed By Development Firm

By NELS JOHNSON

A Los Angeles-based development firm has made a tentative proposal for a hotel and office project covering an entire city block in downtown San Rafael, the San Rafael City Council learned last night. (Other San Rafael City Council stories, page 3.)

The $10 million project is the first to be proposed by a private firm under the city's redevelopment program, according to the city administration.

The proposal, in the form of a broad and sketchy "initial recommendation," consists of a three-page letter from the Realty Services Corp. to the city redevelopment agency, reported William J. Bielser, city manager and redevelopment agency executive director.

The firm is eyeing a site near Highway 101 bounded by Third, Fourth and Hetherton streets and Tamalpais Avenue, a block now occupied by the old Borden's dairy plant and the Whistlestop senior citizen's facility, Bielser said.

The project would also require construction of a parking garage on adjacent property, he said.

"It's really too early to tell what they're proposing," Bielser told the Independent-Journal, pointing to the ambiguous letter from the firm which says only that the project would fill a need for "hotel space being available to downtown San Rafael with all the attributes of meeting rooms, restaurants, etc."

The project "would act as a great drawing attraction from the freeway to bring in highway travelers to the city itself, thus allowing them to spend additional dollars for food, miscellaneous retail items, and become exposed to the attributes of San Rafael as a place to live, work, and invest dollars," according to the letter from Wallace E. Dunn, vice president of the firm.

Under redevelopment procedure to make the project "economically feasible," the city would be required to buy portions of the site owned by Southern Pacific Railroad, and the Knudsen Corp., and sell the

Ousted Air Force Civil Employee Wins Job Back

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Civil Service Commission today reinstated an Air Force civilian employee who lost his job after testifying before Congress about cost overruns on the C5A cargo plane.

The order, issued by Herman D. Stiman, the commission's chief appeals officer, held that A. Ernest Fitzgerald was improperly relieved of his $32,000 a year job as Air Force deputy assistant secretary for management systems. The ruling was final unless appealed within 15 days.

But Stiman did not support Fitzgerald's argument that he was fired in retaliation for his testimony on Nov. 13, 1968, before a congressional committee that C5A costs had climbed from $3.2 billion to $5 billion. His job was eliminated Jan. 5, 1970.

Stiman ruled that "the Air Force decision to abolish his position and separate him by reduction in force resulted from purely personal reasons and was contrary to the commission's reduction in force regulations."

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., a frequent Pentagon critic who has supported Fitzgerald since the case was filed two years ago, described the commission's decision as "a complete vindication of a dedicated public servant." Fitzgerald was employed by Proxmire after he left the Air Force.

The Air Force contended that Fitzgerald's job was abolished as part of a reorganization in which 60,000 jobs were eliminated.

President Nixon said last Jan. 31 that he made the decision to fire Fitzgerald and intended to "stick by it." But the next day presidential Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon "simply misspoke himself" and the records showed no interference by the President.

During a hearing for Fitzgerald last February, former Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seamans claimed executive privilege when he was asked to spell out the White House role in the firing of Fitzgerald. "I never received any instructions from the White House," he said, "but I will not say I did not receive any advice."

Big Firms, Unions Hit On Job Discrimination

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Four major corporations and several national labor unions were accused of job discrimination today, in the biggest such action ever brought by the federal government.

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC), which brought the charges, did not identify the defendants but other sources said they included General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co., General Electric Co. and Sears, Roebuck & Co.

The International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) said it had been named in the complaint. Other unions involved were reported to be the United Auto Workers, the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, and the United Electric Workers Union.

The EEOC job bias charges involved the four companies, all unions having collective bargaining agreements with those companies plus a major construction union and the contractors and contractors' associations that bargain with that union.

The charges specify only "job discrimination on a national scale." Presumably this could include unfair hiring and promotion practices based on race and sex.

The EEOC will first press for a voluntary agreement by all parties to end the alleged practices. The commission engineered a voluntary settlement last January in a landmark case involving American Telephone & Telegraph Co., resulting in back pay and wage scale improvements that could reach $50 million.

An outgrowth of that action has been the movement of men and women into jobs traditionally held by one sex only, such as female telephone operators and male repairmen and line men.

The EEOC is an independent government agency set up under the 1964 Civil Rights Act. It has served as a collection for discrimination complaints from dissatisfied workers.

Last year, the commission was given the power to take job bias cases directly to court rather than referring them to the Justice Department.

RETURN TO NORMALCY — An unidentified man read a newspaper while getting a shoeshine in Santiago, Chile, yesterday on a downtown street. The capital city has taken on some semblance of normality for the first time since heavy fighting last week when the armed forces overthrew President Salvador Allende. (UPI Telephoto)

Celebration Of Independence Canceled By Chilean Leaders

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)— Chile's new military rulers canceled the traditional Chilean independence day parade today and warned that the "most drastic measures under martial law" would be taken against anyone caught shooting at soldiers or carrying arms illegally.

This was taken as a threat of summary executions.

One week after the bloody coup which overthrew President Salvador Allende, the ruling four-member junta was scheduled to attend a Te Deum mass to mark the 163rd anniversary of Chile's independence from Spain, but a military source said the parade had been canceled to prevent left extremists from using it "to massacre innocent people."

Yesterday, officials said they had found papers in the Interior Ministry indicating a plot to assassinate the leaders of Chile's armed forces during today's scheduled parade.

The junta also canceled all other celebrations, which in the past have lasted for two days, and ordered workers to report for work at factories as usual.

There were signs that life was returning to a semblance of normalcy in Santiago as Chileans returned to work, offices were opened and most government services resumed one week after the bloody coup which overthrew President Salvador Allende.

Government sources said that 95 persons were known to have died during the fighting between soldiers and Allende supporters. Previous estimates had put the number of dead at well over 1,000, but military authorities discounted these estimates.

Intervention By U.N. In Chile Requested

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Five Nobel Prize winners asked United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim yesterday to intervene immediately to guarantee the safety and lives of political refugees in Chile under the new military junta.

The Nobel laureates were received by Bradford Morse, undersecretary general for political and General Assembly affairs. Waldheim said he was unable to meet the Nobel winners because of a Security Council meeting on Chile Monday afternoon.

The five Nobel laureates were Prof. George Wald of Harvard, Dr. Fritz Lipman and Gerald Edelman of Rockefeller University, Prof. Salvador Luria of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and C. N. Yang of the New York State University at Stony Brook.

At a news conference outside U.N. headquarters, the laureates expressed their concern about foreigners being held in Chile and about their eventual return to their own countries.

The group's petition asked for Waldheim's "immediate intervention on behalf of the safety and lives of the political refugees in Chile. We ask that a United Nations commission be sent immediately to Chile to guarantee their safe conduct to hospitable countries."

Cuba Charges That U.S. Was Behind Chile Coup

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Cuba accused the United States during a turbulent U.N. Security Council meeting yesterday of masterminding last week's military coup in Chile with the aid of "gangs of murderers."

In a biting denunciation of the United States, Cuban Ambassador Ricardo Alarcon accused the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and the Pentagon of being behind the coup that overthrew the Marxist regime of President Salvador Allende.

As Alarcon finished, a dozen Cuban exiles in the gallery jumped to their feet and shouted out "Let our people go." Guards evicted them.

The Cuban ambassador charged the coup was "instigated and masterminded by Mr. Nixon and his colleagues in the North American government."

"The trail of blood spilled in Chile leads directly to the dark dens of the CIA and the Pentagon," he said.

Alarcon attacked coup leaders as "animals in uniform, fascists, gangs of murderers, outlaws and the seamiest of scum."

He demanded the council condemn Chile's new ruling junta for shooting up the Cuban Embassy in downtown Santiago and attacking a Cuban ship outside Chilean territorial waters.

U.S. Ambassador John Scali responded to Alarcon's speech with a scathing denunciation of the Cuban diplomat as an "expert in terror."

"He has honored us with lie after lie," Scali said. "I consider it a badge of honor to be the target for lies from this source. I only wish he could be more inventive or interesting in his ancient litany of accusations. Surely, there must be a new speechwriter somewhere in Cuba."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Gas Protest

LEXINGTON, Mass. (UPI) — Gasoline dealers in Massachusetts began closing down today in a three-day protest of Phase IV price ceiling.

About 1,500 station operators unanimously voted late last night to close shop unless the retail price freeze is immediately lifted.

Last Friday, the Cost of Living Council announced the price ceiling would not be lifted until after Sept. 25.

Butchers Killed

BADEN-BADEN, Germany (UPI) — An explosion in a slaughterhouse today killed at least nine butchers and injured a dozen others, police said.

They said the butchers were buried under tons of concrete rubble.

Rescue officials said they thought the explosion was caused by a faulty ammonia gas container in the cold storage section of the slaughterhouse. The shockwave collapsed a concrete floor in the building, releasing clouds of ammonia and blowing doors and windows out of nearby buildings.

Swedish Deadlock

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Premier Olof Palme's Socialist coalition and the opposition bloc emerged in a potentially paralyzing deadlock yesterday in the race for control of Sweden's parliament.

In nearly complete returns from Sunday's election, the two sides each won 175 seats in the 350-member parliament.

It was the closest race in modern Swedish history.

Palme's Social Democratic party has ruled for 41 years and the premier said yesterday that "one can never reject the possibility of new elections, since it's in the constitution."

Rebel Attack

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Communist-led Khmer Rouge rebels attacked three government outposts near Phnom Penh today, one of them only six and one-half miles from the capital, overrunning one outpost and recapturing half a village, field reports said.

At the battered provincial capital of Kompong Cham 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, a Communist assault on the airport was driven back. It was the second unsuccessful Communist attack on the airport in two days.

Government troops drove rebels out of Kompong Cham, the country's third largest city, on Sept. 12 at the cost of 5,000 soldiers and civilians killed or wounded, according to the government commander.

Reneging Charge

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnam charged today that U.S. protests over delays in accounting for soldiers missing in Indochina were nothing but an excuse to renege on promised economic aid to Hanoi.

At a meeting of the four-party Joint Military Team the North Vietnamese delegation delivered a "proclamation" containing the accusation.

The United States twice this month accused the Communists — Viet Cong and North Vietnamese — of deliberately stalling the search for the missing in action in Indochina.

Cholera Probe

NAPLES, Italy (UPI) — Medical and health officers in Naples Province and the president of the port faced possible negligence charges today in an investigation into Italy's 26-day-old cholera outbreak.

Court sources said the public prosecutor's office served formal "judicial communications" on three officials yesterday, notifying them they were under investigation.

Investigators drew up similar papers naming five more suspects but they were not immediately served because they were not in the area, the sources said.

Irish Violence

BELFAST (UPI) — Five carloads of guerrillas launched a two-hour mortar, rocket and machine gun attack against a frontier police station last night, capping a day of violence that injured 16 persons across Northern Ireland.

Security officials said the attacks were aimed at challenging Monday's Dublin meeting of British Prime Minister Edward Heath and Irish Prime Minister Liam Cosgrave to discuss ways of bringing peace to Northern Ireland.

Pakistan Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is prepared to increase economic but not military aid to flood-ravaged Pakistan, whose prime minister, Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, began talks today with President Nixon.

Bhutto arrived in the United States yesterday and spent the afternoon touring colonial Williamsburg, Va.

State Department officials said the U.S. response to Bhutto's expected request for economic aid would be "generous and sympathetic." They said there would be no further military commitments between the U.S. and Pakistan.

Way Around The Issue Of Salaries

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — City commissioners get embarrassed voting themselves raises. So they found a way around it.

The commission agreed yesterday to conduct a public hearing on a plan basing the wages of five locally elected officials on the salary of the governor.

"It's to keep us from the embarrassment of having to set our own salaries," Finance Commissioner Jennings Phillips Jr. said.

The plan, if adopted, would give the mayor two-thirds of the governor's salary, commissioners 61.6 per cent, and the city auditor 80 per cent of the mayor's salary.

It would, if the governor's salary remains unchanged, give each city official a raise of about $2,000 per year.

Engine For Fighter Plane Fails Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A jet engine designed for the Air Force's new F15 fighter broke down after 13 hours and 16 minutes of a 150-hour endurance test, the Air Force said yesterday. But the test was resuming today after replacement of a broken turbine blade.

It was the third attempt to put the Pratt Whitney Corp. engine through the required endurance test. Deputy Defense Secretary William Clements has set a Sept. 30 deadline for completion.

Two Sextuplets Suffer A Setback

DENVER (UPI) —One boy and one girl joined their sister on respirators today, but doctors were still optimistic that the sextuplets born to a suburban Denver couple Sunday night would be the first of the century to survive.

The four boys and two girls are the children of Eugene Stanek, 31, an accountant, and his wife, Edna, 34.

Both girls and one of the boys were reported having breathing problems this morning and were placed on oxygen. The three were listed in fair-to-satisfactory condition. The other three boys were all reported in satisfactory condition.

Pediatrician James Strain said the next 48 hours were important in determining the odds for survival of the babies, ranging in weight at birth Sunday from 2 pounds, 15 ounces to 3 pounds, 11 ounces.

The first child was born at 10:45 p.m. Sunday and the other five were delivered by Caesarian section from 11:34 to 11:38 p.m.

"We're very happy," Eugene Stanek, 31, the dazed father said. "For the past month or so, we knew there would be five and maybe six."

They had prepared for the eventuality by picking out six names, three for children of each sex. The girls have been named Julia and Catherine and three of the boys are John, Stephen and Jeffrey.

"We still need one more (boy's) name," Stanek said. "We agreed on three for each sex but it didn't work out that way."

He said they expected a multiple birth because of the fertility drug, which Mrs. Stanek took before she got pregnant. The couple has one other child, a 4-year-old boy.

"When you're talking about numbers like that, what's another one or two?" he said. "We live in a three bedroom house now, so I guess we'll go house hunting shortly."

Engel said the odds for birth of six babies at the same time were 496,980,451 to 1. Engel, the attending obstetrician, said he knew of no other case in this century in which all six infants survived. Reference books say there have been at least 12 cases of sextuplets in the 1900s, but none survived.

Sex Shop Ban

PARIS (UPI) —Paris police today ordered the owners of sex shops selling books, magazines and sex accessories to make their windows opaque. The order also banned entry to persons under 18.

Caillouette Gets Combination Job

ELY CAILLOUETTE
Assumes combined post

Ely Caillouette Jr., San Rafael city engineer since 1965, was appointed by the city council last night to the new position of director of public works and city engineer.

The council, endorsing a departmental reorganization plan proposed by the city administration, said the 53-year-old Caillouette will head the public works department formerly directed by Norris M. Rawles, longtime city servant who has announced his retirement.

Combining the posts of city engineer and public works director will save the city $27,587 annually, according to City Mgr. William J. Bielser.

Bielser said Caillouette, who now receives $1,850 monthly, will be shifted to a salary range that pays a maximum of $1,989 monthly.

Caillouette was employed as an engineer by the state Division of Highways before being appointed city engineer in 1965. He lives at 108 Professional Center Parkway.

The council last night also approved promotion of Richard Eddy from chief public works inspector to public works superintendent, and promotion of Walter Mick from street maintenance foreman to street maintenance supervisor.

The job shifts approved last night will strengthen department management and improve supervision, Bielser said.

Ridgetop Open Space Aid Offered

The San Rafael City Council last night told staff to assist the Santa Margarita Homeowners Association in initial steps needed to establish an open space assessment district.

Homeowners are eyeing 400 acres of ridgetop that separate Sleepy Hollow from Terra Linda, and Terra Linda from Lucas Valley, as potential open space, according to association president Walt Jorgenson.

Preliminary engineering work for the assessment district will cost the city about $3,000.

Association member Gene H. Dyer, who is also president of the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District board, balked at the move, saying the association board has excluded him and met in "secret meetings" to discuss open space plans.

Review Board Seat Goes To Barsamian

The 36-year-old Barsamian is an attorney and a labor arbitrator. He lives at 16 Esmeyer Drive.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

TOWN MEETING — Endorsed the city's second town meeting, set for 9 a.m. Oct. 13 in Terra Linda High School.

CHANGE ORDER — Approved a consent calendar including a $3,000 change order for slide repair work in connection with the San Pedro Road project. The county shares half the cost.

BUS BASE — Reviewed plans for improvement of the transit district's East San Rafael bus base, and heard a parade of district staff pledge ample landscaping to screen the facility from view.

CANAL COMMITTEE — Accepted a lengthy report on the San Rafael Canal from a chamber of commerce committee, and put over appointment of a citizens advisory committee on the canal until the report can be reviewed.

CAMPAIGN — Directed staff to prepare an ordinance limiting campaign spending to 25 cents per voter, or about $6,000, limiting donations from contributors to $100, and calling for complete contribution and spending disclosure to the press before election day.

CONVERSIONS — Said conversion of apartments to condominiums, or any new condominium construction, will be banned for four months unless submitted as a planned unit development, a move giving the city tighter control of such structures.

BIDS — Awarded a $5,691 contract to DeLong Chevrolet, low bidder, for a dump truck, and a $20,266 contract to Western Traction Co., low bidder, for a street sweeper.

BIKE PATH — Tabled action on a proposed "Cross Marin Trail and Bicycle Route" pending review by city staff. The route will eventually stretch from San Francisco to Novato, link the Civic Center with Point Reyes, and include a Ross Valley leg, according to Pierre W. Joske, county director of parks and recreation.

ASSESSMENT — Filed a petition, boundary map and took other routine legal action needed to form the Rafael Racquet Club Estates Utility Undergrounding Assessment District.

FEE — Approved a $1 monthly fee for each trailer space or mobil home space in trailer parks, payable by the park operator.

BRIDGE — Set 8 p.m. Oct. 1 as the time of a public hearing to consider a proposal by several businesses that a bridge be erected over a dainage ditch near Andersen Drive.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Sept. 24.

San Rafael Man Admits Stabbing

A San Rafael man has admitted assualting a neighbor with a knife. John Lewis Gibson, 36, will be sentenced on the offense Oct. 1.

As part of a plea bargain in Marin Superior Court Friday, Judge Charles Read Best agreed to give Gibson a maximum of six months in jail and reduce the charge to a misdemeanor. The district attorney's office agreed to the bargain.

Gibson pleaded guilty of stabbing John G. Anderson, 47, of San Rafael, after an argument March 12 over a car Anderson had not returned to a mutual friend.

Police said they found Anderson bleeding from wounds in his chest and abdomen in his apartment on Paloma Street.

Pompidou Returns

PARIS (UPI) —French President Georges Pompidou returned today from a six-day visit to China, the first West European chief of state to travel to Peking since the Communist revolution.

Composting Offers A Sewage Sludge Use

BELTSVILLE, Md. (UPI) — A promising method of turning large quantities of urban sewage into compost for use on soils offers hope of easing waste disposal problems in many areas, officials said today.

"It now looks as if composting comes closer to being technically efficient, economically sound, environmentally safe, agriculturally beneficial and politically feasible than any of the alternative methods for disposing of sewage sludge," said Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz.

Butz, in a speech prepared for delivery at a demonstration of a sludge-to-compost system here, said the nation's population is now so great that natural processes are not enough to cope with waste materials.

"So we must help nature through technology. I am confident that technology can solve many, if not all, of our current environmental problems."

The demonstration project, launched on March 30, is being carried out jointly by the Maryland Environmental Service and the Agriculture Department's Agricultural Research Service (ARS) at the ARS research station.

Sludge is trucked daily from the Blue Plains sewage plant, which serves much of the national capital area, and is mixed with wood chips. A composting machine, developed by inventor Herbert Cohey and the Terex Division of General Motors, mixes the material daily for several weeks, allowing the sewage to break down without producing offensive odor, and then it is cured for about a month.

After that, the recycled sewage is ready to use as a soil conditioning compost or a lowgrade fertilizer.

Jordan's King Hussein Grants General Amnesty

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — King Hussein has granted a general amnesty and ordered the immediate release of large numbers of prisoners, including Palestinian guerrilla leader Abou Daoud, the royal court announced today.

Daoud, a former member of the central committee of the Al Fatah guerrilla group, had been serving a life term for plotting to overthrow Hussein. Palestinian guerrillas have twice staged dramatic attacks against Saudi Arabian embassies in an effort to gain his release.

The Royal court said the amnesty applied to all Jordanians. In addition to releasing those in prison, it also ordered that all pending charges be dropped. This meant standing orders for the capture of guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat and other Palestinian guerrillas will be dropped, government sources said.

The charges against Arafat and the other guerrilla leaders stemmed from the 1970 civil war in Jordan in which the army evicted the Palestinian guerrillas from their bases. This in turn led to a break in relations between Jordan and Egypt and Syria.

Today's announcement followed a meeting between Hussein and the presidents of Egypt and Syria in Cairo 10 days ago. Egypt resumed relations with Hussein's government late last week and Syria said it would follow suit. The summit conference was designed to reunify the Arab camp and revive the "eastern front" (Jordanian) against Israel.

(Observers outside Jordan said today's amnesty apparently was one outcome of the Arab summit conference and represented a concession by Hussein to ease pressure against the guerrillas.)

The court announcement said the amnesty applied to all except those charged with murder or espionage.

In a message to Premier Zeid Rifai, Hussein ordered the amnesty and said "life in Jordan has returned to normal."

Hussein said his decision "comes from our belief in forming a single united family on the path of good and toward liberation..." (of Palestine, which is now Israel).

Daoud was arrested in February with 16 companions and sentenced to death for planning to overthrow the Jordanian government. Hussein later commuted the sentence to life imprisonment.

Last March, Black September Palestinian terrorists seized the Saudi Arabian embassy in Khartoum, the Sudan, and demanded Daoud's release. Hussein refused and the guerrillas executed two American diplomats and a Belgian envoy.

In August, Palestinian terrorists seized the Saudi embassy in Paris and later took a plane to Kuwait. Their demand also was for the release of Daoud. They later surrendered to Kuwaiti officials without bloodshed.

Charges In Dope Case Are Dropped

A Belvedere woman has been cleared of drug charges, but two other persons have been bound over to Marin Superior Court to stand trial.

Judge Gary W. Thomas ordered Randee Lou Lindersmith, 27, freed after a preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court Thursday.

But he ruled there is enough evidence to try two other persons, William Reed Lane, 28, of Belvedere, and Stephen Mallon Royce, 36, of Tamalpais Valley. They will appear Monday in superior court.

Both are charged with selling cocaine, and Lane, in addition, faces counts of possessing cocaine, hashish oil for sale, marijuana and a gun silencer.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of a fourth person, Carol Millikin, address and age unknown, with bail set at $10,000. She never appeared to answer charges of selling cocaine.

The four were arrested July 27 when state and federal narcotics agents and Belvedere and Tiburon police swooped down on a house on Corinthian Island in Belvedere.

A Breeder Swine Tab: $22,000

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) —Meet Peter the Pig, the super swine who sold for $58.66 a pound and will shortly embark on a short, happy life as a breeder hog in Japan.

The 375-pound pig sold for $22,000—and that wasn't even the record at the auction where Peter was proclaimed reserve champion boar last week in Austin, Minn.

An Iowa farmer sold his boar for $30,000 to a Japanese hog raiser.

Peter will, if all goes well, sire about 24,000 piglets over the next five years.

Free Rubbish Hauling Slated

Larkspur residents can have rubbish which has accumulated around their homes hauled away free during the first city sponsored Community Clean-up on Oct. 13 and 14.

Marin Sanitary Service will provide trash boxes and compactor trucks to the city for a flat dumping fee and everything except wet garbage and tree limbs in excess of four feet will be accepted.

Asst. City Mgr. Harlan Barry emphasized that after a citizen brings his rubbish to Piper Park on Doherty Drive near the Larkspur Police Station there will be no charge for collection and removal.

Rubbish will be received between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. both days in conjunction with the conclusion of Fire Prevention Week, Barry said.

Film Comedienne Is Critically Ill

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sheila Ryan, former pin-up girl, movie comedienne of the 1940s and 1950s and wife of comedian Pat Buttram, was reported critically ill yesterday with what a family spokesman described as a mysterious lung ailment.

Miss Ryan, 52, was admitted to California Lutheran Hospital five weeks ago and doctors have not been able to diagnose her ailment.

ued to have full confidence in the vice president.

J. Marsh Thomson, Agnew's press secretary, told UPI the Post story was "very far off the mark, and added:

"I did consult closely with the vice president when I first heard of this, and I am quite sure that this is not at all what he plans to do."

Marsh was further quoted by the Washington Star-News as saying: "It's not true. It's not at all what he's thinking and it's not in keeping with his plans to fight the charges against him.

"I've been as clear as I could be on rumors that the vice president would resign and this report is just another of those speculative stories. He's prepared to fight."

ABC News reported that the source for the Post report was Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz. A Goldwater spokesman denied this, saying: "I have never known him to be the unknown source of a major story."

And Assistant Senate Republican leader Robert Griffin of Michigan told reporters there has been "no discussion" among GOP senators about a possible Agnew resignation.

Agnew has declared his innocence of any wrongdoing, and described as "damned lies" allegations that he received payoffs from contractors during the period before he was tapped by Nixon as his running mate in 1968.

The Post dispatch followed a flurry of published but unconfirmed reports about the Agnew case: that Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson had decided to allow results of the inquiry thus far to be presented to a Baltimore grand jury, but not whether to seek an indictment; that Agnew lawyers were considering going to court in an effort to block the investigation; and that a move was afoot to refer the entire matter to a congressional committee.

Agnew has had two publicly announced meetings with Nixon concerning the investigation. The last was on Aug. 21, after which Thomson said: "He has no intention of resigning and they (White House spokesmen) have said the President has no intention of asking for it."

Warren, asked this morning about the report of resignation plans, declined to say whether White House officials had been in later touch with Agnew or his assistants on the matter, and added: "My position this morning after talking with a number of people is that I am not going to comment on the entire situation."

Several members of Congress expressed surprise at the report, and the Senate Democratic leadership pondered the question of how to proceed should it fall to the President to replace the vice president under a provision of the 25th Amendment.

The amendment, titled "Presidential Disability and Succession," has only this to say on the contingency:

"Whenever there is a vacancy in the office of the Vice President, the President shall nominate a Vice President who shall take office upon confirmation by a majority vote of both houses of Congress."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he had made no contingency plans for arranging action on such an appointment and that "no one has even thought of it."

As for the report about Agnew, Mansfield said: "The first I've heard of it. I think we ought to wait and see what events divulge if anything in the weeks ahead."

The Post quoted its source as saying Agnew gave as his reasons for believing he should resign the "terrific tension and pressure" on his family and indications that the White House wants him out.

Satellite Station Site Is Selected

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —One of five stations in a nationwide domestic satellite system to be operated by American Telephone and Telegraph Co. will be built on a 45-acre site east of Camp Pendleton, Pacific Telephone officials announced yesterday.

The $9 million satellite communications station to be known as the De Luz earth station, and the other four, at Three Peaks, Calif., Hawley, Pa., Hanover Park, Ill., and Woodbury, Ga., will link three communications satellites to the Bell System network, officials said.

The cost of the entire system, which will carry telephone conversations, data information and other related messages from the satellites to the ground, has been estimated at $70 million.

Man Arrested In Sex Attack

Richard Alfonso Lee Blizzeard, 39, of 1509 South Novato Boulevard, Novato, was arrested by Novato police last night on suspicion of forcible rape.

Police said a 30-year-old Novato woman reported that she had been raped at her home at 9:30 p.m. Sunday by Blizzeard, an acquaintance who had stopped by.

Blizzeard, responding to a call from police, appeared at the Novato police station last night, and was arrested at 10:30 p.m. after being interviewed, police said. He was booked at Marin County jail, with bail set at $7,500, and was to be arraigned in Marin Municipal Court today.

The Realty Services Corp. is a subsidiary of the Knudsen Corp., according to Dunn's letter.

The firm, saying that current water pipeline extensions on the site are adequate to service the project, nevertheless asks for connection assurances from the Marin Municipal Water District. "We feel it is only equitable to be advised by the (district) that we may have their commitment to proceed with the project under the agreement that we may anticipate no disapproval by them at any later date after we have expended large amounts of time and money to put the project into final form," Dunn wrote.

City councilmen, listening with interest to the proposal, told Bielser to ask the district how the water moratorium affects the project.

In other redevelopment business, the council approved a job description for assistant director of the redevelopment agency, but set no salary for the agency staff post. The assistant director will be charged with managing the redevelopment project, Bielser said.

A Six-Month Session Seen

GENEVA (UPI) — The second and actual negotiating stage of the 35-nation European Security Conference opening today will last six months, twice as long as originally expected, western delegation leaders said yesterday.

It has not been determined if sufficient agreement will be achieved to permit a third stage at which formal declarations would be signed, the top-level diplomats said.

Foreign ministers at the first stage in Helsinki in July laid down basic guidelines, which three main commissions and 11 sub-committees will attempt to translate into legal language, they said.

The conference is divided into three major areas — security, economic and scientific cooperation, and human contacts.

Lear Research Papers Stolen

RENO, Nev. (UPI) —Inventor William Lear had $1 million worth of research material dealing with his innovative steam engine stolen from his Stead plant, police reported yesterday.

One employee recently dismissed from Lear Motors was questioned about the disappearance of the industrial secrets, according to Deputy District Attorney Cal Dunlap.

The employee opened his residence to investigators but "nothing was found," said Dunlap.

Strawberry Board Approves Classes

Plans by Marin Jewish Community Services to hold classes at the Strawberry Recreation Center were approved last night by the recreation district board.

John Berry, acting recreation manager, said the classes will include cooking, dramatics, candlemaking and Jewish cultural classes. The community group will pay the district 10 per cent of its gross receipts for use of the center.

Reviews Status

Members of the San Rafael Library board last night reviewed present status of the city library and need for expansion and a Terra Linda branch in preparation for a presentation to be made to the city council next Monday night by James H. Mayer, board chairman. Trustee Bryce W. Anderson was absent.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

No Guarantee Of Light Rights

"I spend a fortune to buy this home with a view, sunshine, and lots of fresh air," Joe Jincks tells the court. "And what happens? A few years later, neighbors on both sides box me in by adding second stories to their homes. My house is so dark and airless now that mushrooms grow in my bathtub!"

Will the courts help Joe? Depends where he's located. If in England, he could rely on the "law of ancient lights." There, a landowner has some control over land used continually for a long time. The passage of light and air would be a right which the neighbors couldn't violate.

In California, however, Joe would have no legal remedy. The concept of "ancient lights" was rejected in California long ago. "This rule would bring mischievous consequences to property owners in a rapidly growing state," said the courts.

The fact that Joe had been enjoying view, light and air for several years didn't give him a right to continue forever. Such a right is created only if Joe had or has a financial interest in the land. For example, he could have bought such a right from his neighbors. Or, if Joe had sold property to his neighbors, he could have made an "express grant," reserving the right to guarantee light and air for his land. Then his neighbors couldn't legally add the second floor. But this right must be clearly stated in the sales agreement. It must also be made a part of the deed and recorded if it is to bind future owners.

Zoning and building laws may also provide rights. But these laws may change. Or neighbors may use permits if the proposed structure serves a useful purpose. Not for malicious purposes. Like overly-high fences.

Consider Fred and Sam, who had a neighborhood feud going for years. Finally, neighbor Sam built a 12-foot-high fence between his and Fred's property. Fred complained. "The fence blocks sun from my sunflower patch!" he declared. And took Sam to court.

"Sam's action violates the 'Spite Fence Law'," said the court in effect. "Any fence unnecessarily exceeding ten feet, and maliciously maintained to annoy a neighbor, is a private nuisance."

Fred won. And the fence was removed.

A fence that is ten feet high can still be a nuisance if constructed with malicious intent. But it must be shown that the builder had no useful purpose in the fence. Or that the usefulness was just incidental to the malicious intent.

SYNANON

ment reports, Synanon's total population at the three facilities has jumped from 120 in 1970 to 558 at the present time. Members recently constructed living quarters for up to 250 residents in two separate communes about half a mile apart on the Walker Ranch, purchased from Boyd Stewart in 1972.

Planning commissioners stressed that any additional controls for agricultural communes or idealogical groups would be based on population growth patterns in the county general plan.

They noted that new concepts of "labor intensive agriculture" as practiced by some 60 Zen Buddhists on Green Gulch Ranch or the 20-member commune on Paradise Valley Ranch in Bolinas pose different problems from profit-oriented agricultural enterprises which seek to hold working populations to a minimum.

"How do we evaluate what is a bona fide agricultural operation?" asked Commissioner Jerry Friedman.

Asserting he had received numerous complaints about both the growing number of Synanon residents and the appearance of their buildings, Friedman called for development of criteria to judge agricultural communes on the basis of numbers of residents, impact on county services, zoning and conformity with the general plan.

On Friedman's motion, the commission voted unanimously to ask the county Agricultural Advisory Board for recommendations on the number of living units needed for conventional agriculture. In addition, Friedman and Commissioner Gilbert P. Murphy were directed to bring in proposed criteria for use in planning decisions.

A commission field trip to Synanon facilities was set for 9 a.m., Sept. 29, with Miss Green offering to provide a Synanon bus for the tour from Civic Center.

Course Planned In Psychology

A course in psychology called "A symposium on youth and the community" will be held Wednesday nights beginning at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 26 at the Sunny Hills School, 300 Sunny Hills Drive, San Anselmo.

Topics to be discussed include authority in the family, delinquency, drug use, sexuality and youth and teen-age development.

A Chief Master Sergeant Named

WASHINGTON (UPI) — C/M Sgt. Thomas N. Barnes was named the Air Force's new chief master sergeant yesterday. He is the first Negro in any branch of the U.S. military to serve in the top enlisted post.

VOTING

median strip landscaping and entrance to parts of Greenbrae.

The service area was created last year but came into effect Jan. 1 with no taxing power because SB 90 prohibits districts which did not tax last year from levying a tax this year.

Turnout was light in Homestead Valley this morning as voters were asked to approve a $600,000 open space bond issue in the Homestead County Service Area.

At the Tamalpais Fire Protection District station on Evergreen Avenue, 90 out of 700 registered voters there had voted as of 10:30 a.m. Another voting station at the Homestead Terrace Retirement Center where another 750 people were registered could not be reached for comment on the turnout.

Turnout was very light by 11 a.m. today in the Shoreline Unified School District's $450,000 bond measure to finance new classrooms at Tomales Elementary School.

At the Point Reyes Fire Station 24 of 350 voters had cast ballots and at the Bodega Bay Grange Hall the count was 29 of 477.

Help Eyed On General Plan

Belvedere should ask the county planning department to help the city write a new general plan, the city's planning commission decided last night.

City Mgr. William L. Cavalli said he will seek consulting firms to prepare the plan (required by state law) if the county department refuses.

Cavalli's small staff does not have time to write the plan, the city council has decided.

Report Scheduled On Reed Program

A report on an early childhood education program being started at Granada School in Corte Madera will be heard tonight by the Reed School District board at 8 o'clock at Del Mar School.

Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello said Granada principal Edward Moscone will discuss the program, which will involve about 90 first grade and kindergarten children and for which the district received a $10,000 state grant.

Minister To Speak Saturday Morning

Byron E. Eshelman, San Rafael minister and author, will present a program on transactional analysis and self-understanding at 10 a.m. Saturday at 960 Gravenstein Highway North, Sebastopol.

He is interim minister at the First Congregational Church, 8 North San Pedro Road.

Review Set On Campus Buildings

Preliminary plans for two new buildings planned for Indian Valley Colleges will be reviewed by the Marin Community College District board at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

The board, meeting in Room 101 of the College of Marin Science Center in Kentfield, will consider plans for a $2.3 million science building and a $1.2 million library.

MILEAGE

In the 2,250-pound class, the Datsun B 210, with a 79-cubic inch engine and manual four-speed transmission, came out on top at 24.9 m.p.g. Toyota's Corolla-2 sedan was worst at 18.8 m.p.g.

Here are the other weight classes and the most economical car in each one:

2,500 pounds: Subaru SW, 83 cu. inc., manual 4-speed, 22.7 m.p.g.

3,000 pounds: Chevrolet Vega Kammback, 140-cu. in., automatic three-speed, 20.

3,500 pounds: Ford Comet, 200 cu. in., manual three speed, 19.9.

4,000 pounds: Ford E-100, 240 cu. in., manual three speed, 18.9.

4,500 pounds: Chevrolet G20 Sport Van, 250 cu. inc., automatic three-speed, 12.4.

5,000 pounds: Buick Century Wagon, 350 cu. in., automatic three-speed, 16.7.

5,500 pounds: Cadillac El Dorado, 500 cu. in. automatic three-speed, 10.4. The worst mileage in this class, and among all of those tested, was the Oldsmobile Toronado, 455 cu. in. automatic three-speed at 6.8 m.p.g.

New Probe Eyed In Old Slaying

PARIS (UPI) —An investigating magistrate has ordered French movie star Alain Delon and a Corsican friend, Francois Marcantoni, to submit to new questioning about the five-year-old mysterious death of Delon's former bodyguard, justice officials said today.

Magistrate Jean Ferre summoned the two men to hearings September 27-29 at Versailles near Paris after receiving a fresh report by Inspector Philippe Bardon, in charge of the case.

It was not known whether the report contains new evidence or is simply a summary of the case which would allow a charge of complicity in murder which is still hanging over Marcantoni to be dismissed.

Bicyclists Will Aid Heart Fund

Marin bicycle enthusiasts can put their cycling talents to work Oct. 13 to benefit the Marin County Heart Association's closed chest heart massage education program.

Cyclists will travel routes ranging from 15 to 50 miles after receiving pledges of payment per mile traveled, according to Donald Reuter of the association.

Funds raised will be used to extend the association's instructional program on heart massage to the general public, Reuter said.

Education Funds Below Military

GENEVA (UPI) —The United Nations Education, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) reported today that the world spends far more each year for military purposes than it does on education.

UNESCO said in 1970, $197 billion was allocated to military spending, against $161 billion for education.

The figures did not include China, North Korea and North Vietnam, UNESCO said in a report to the International Bureau of Education's annual conference.

Sanitary Plant Permit Granted

A permit for an addition to the Tiburon Sanitary District Plant was granted last night by the Tiburon Board of Adjustments.

Philemon V. Scott, Tiburon development administrator, said that the addition will increase the plant's sewage treatment capacity.

A permit for the addition was granted in August 1972 but expired before construction could begin.

The permit approved last night calls for a 3600-square-foot structure.

Atlantic Richfield Hikes Oil Prices

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Citing higher costs for crude oil purchases, Atlantic Richfield Co. increased its wholesale price for gasoline and other petroleum distillates by one cent per gallon yesterday.

Company officials said the action followed an extensive review of cost justification data by the Cost of Living Council.

Bank Sued Over Late Charges

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A $20 million class action suit was filed against the Bank of America yesterday, accusing the firm of illegally and arbitrarily setting late-charge rates for BankAmericard holders.

The Superior Court suit said the Bank of America's practice of charging late payment fees based on a per cent of the unpaid balance was actually a penalty and bears no relationship to the actual cost incurred by carrying the debt and collecting payment.

The suit follows a state Supreme Court decision in July regarding the mortgage loan business. The ruling held that a borrower should be held liable "for the actual damages resulting from his default."

RANGER

semiautomatic weapon, possession of which is not illegal.

Patrick, 40, a veteran ranger and father of two, left his house early Aug. 5 after telling his wife he was after deer poachers.

When he did not return, another ranger went looking for him and found his bullet-riddled body lying off fog-shrouded Mount Vision Road. His patrol Jeep, engine running and lights on, stood nearby.

Three empty .9-mm shell casings and a box of crossbow arrows were the only clues to the murder. Patrick was the first national park ranger slain in line of duty.

Numerous rewards for capture and conviction of the killers were offered shortly after the discovery of the crime and by the end of August had reached a total of more than $10,500.

Heart Patient Is Satisfactory

STANFORD (UPI) — The 52-year old highway engineer who received the heart of a murdered Oakland man a week ago was listed in satisfactory condition at the Stanford Medical Center.

Blaine Wixom's new heart came from the body of Samuel Moore, 29, who was critically wounded by a gunshot in his brain last Monday.

A team of doctors headed by Dr Norman Shumway removed Moore's heart several hours before the transplant operation and kept it beating by an electric pulse.

Slaying Is Seen As Self Defense

HOUSTON (UPI) —An assistant district attorney said yesterday that Elmer Wayne Henley, indicted for killing six teenage boys, killed alleged mass slayer Dean A. Corll in self defense and will not be charged in the death.

"There is absolutely no question that it was a case of self defense," Don Lambright said.

Henley, 17, told police he shot Corll at a paint-sniffing party at Corll's Pasadena home Aug. 8. Lambright said witnesses corroborated Henley's story.

Armed Robbers Hit Restaurant

LAFAYETTE (UPI) —Two men, armed with a rifle and a revolver and using a walkie talkie radio, robbed a restaurant owner yesterday of $4,050.

Carl Niederer, who owns the La Rue Restaurant, said one man forced him to open the restaurant safe while the other held his wife, Trudy, captive outside.

During the robbery, they talked via the radio, he said.

After tying the couple to furniture, the robbers fled in a pickup truck which was recovered a short distance away.

Fundamentalist Sets Operation

COLLINGSWOOD, N.J. (UPI) —Fundamentalist preacher Dr. Carl McIntire said yesterday his pirate radio ship would begin broadcasting tomorrow three miles off the New Jersey coast.

"We think we are already to go," he said from his Collingswood office.

However, McIntire said one problem existed—a missing anchor. During last week's heavy rain, he said 20-foot waves rocked the boat and ripped loose a 500-pound anchor from sea bottom.

Relations Eyed

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan may establish diplomatic relations with North Vietnam this week, a Japanese news agency reported today.

OBITUARIES

William F. Allen Dies At 65

William F. Allen, a resident of Fairfax since 1937 and a radio dispatcher with the Marin County Communications Center for 14 years, died yesterday in a San Rafael hospital after a short illness. He was 65.

Allen was born in Butte, Mont., but moved with his family to Nevada City as a young boy. He attended public schools in Nevada City and moved to San Francisco in 1930 to work for the Harftord Insurance Co.

Allen moved to Fairfax in 1937 and met and married his wife, Caroline, there in 1938. They reared six children in Fairfax.

Allen worked as a machinist and carpenter in Marin before working for the communications center. He retired in July, 1972.

In addition to his wife, Allen is survived by three sns, William C. Allen of Tacoma, Wash., and Joseph F. and Michael P. Allen of Fairfax; three daughters, Marianne L. Allen of Tacoma, Wash., and Carolyn A. Allen and Mrs. Rita Huizen of Fairfax, and two grandchildren.

Family funeral will be held in Nevada City Thursday followed by burial in Nevada City.

MARY BARNESON

Funeral for Mary Alice Barneson of Sausalito, a resident of Marin County for 20 years, will be at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at N. Gray and Co. Mortuary in San Francisco.

Mrs. Barneson, 69, of 126 San Carlos Avenue, died Saturday at her home. According to the Marin County Coroner's office, a servant telephoned police when Mrs. Barneson did not come out of her bedroom Saturday morning. Officers forced the door and found her body. An autopsy was pending.

A homemaker, Mrs. Barneson was the wife of the late Lionel T. Barneson, an oil executive, financier and clubman. He died in October 1970. She was a native of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Barneson was a member of the St. Francis Yacht Club.

JOHN NELSON

Funeral for John F. Nelson of Novato, a former security guard, will be at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the O'Leary Funeral Home in Sebastopol.

Nelson, 51, died Sunday in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Rochester, N.Y., he had lived in California 10 years and in Marin five years, residing at 24 Lassen Lane. He was formerly a security officer for Glob Protection Inc. of San Jose.

Nelson is survived by two daughters, Monica Lenhardt of Bird Island, Minn., and Joan Nelson of San Gabriel, Los Angeles County; two sons, John F. Nelson Jr. of San Gabriel and John Timothy Nelson of Rohnert Park, and one grandchild.

Private inurnment will be in Chapel of the Chimes Cemetery, Santa Rosa.

I-J Intern Says Field Has Unlimited Horizons

By NELS JOHNSON

Paul William Cane, who recently completed a summer internship as an Independent-Journal reporter, believes that a newsman's skill is the key to unlimited horizons.

"If you can express yourself clearly both orally and in writing, then you can do just about anything," the 19-year-old Cane said Friday, the last day of his internship before returning to Dartmouth College in Hanover, Mass., where he is a sophomore.

Cane, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Cane of 5 Corte Allegre, Greenbrae, said he found his newside reporting stint with the I-J so enlightening that he wants to come back next summer.

But he doesn't necessarily want to pursue journalism as a career. "This internship may lead to a reporting career, but I'd like to try law school first," Cane said. Dartmouth doesn't even have a major in journalism so "I'm studying economics to prepare for law school," he said.

Reporting is nothing new to Cane. He worked part time as a sportswriter for the I-J during his junior and senior years at Redwood High School.

Cane, an accomplished swimmer who won All-American honors at Redwood, and is currently an All-Ivy League swimmer at Dartmouth, nevertheless said he prefers newside reporting because "sports gets routine."

The only assignment Cane found distasteful during the summer was the daily deluge of obituaries. "I don't particularly enjoy doing obituaries. They're not a very pleasant thing to do," he said.

Cane said he was impressed with the I-J's coverage of Marin, and enjoyed the experience of working under the paper's editors.

Cane, unlike some colleagues who consider night meetings to be a grueling affair, said he enjoyed covering Marin's agencies. "Sometimes meetings are a bit long," Cane said, "but I like them. Councilmen can go to bed at a meeting's end, but reporters must remain awake to sort out what happened," he noted.

He also had praise for Marin's officialdom, saying all city leaders he met appeared to be doing a good job.

What did he learn from a summer working on the I-J?

"I learned how little I knew when I started," he said.

Son Of Dellums Arrested Again

OAKLAND (UPI) — A congressman's son, who previously had pleaded guilty to robbery, has been arrested again—this time on an auto theft charge, police said yesterday.

The youth under arrest is Michael Dellums, 16, son of Rep. John Dellums, D-Calif., who was divorced in 1959 from the son's mother.

Policeman Robert Edward said he stopped young Dellums and an unidentified 14-year-old boy in a stolen car Saturday and that the youths fled but were captured in a nearby garage.

Kansas City Has New Police Chief

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Joseph D. McNamara, 38, a soft-spoken New York police detective, was named Kansas City's new police chief yesterday replacing FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley.

McNamara, a Ph.D. who was a deputy inspector in New York, will take over his new duties by Nov. 1.

Senate To Study Youth Problems

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A special Senate committee has been established to investigate the problems of child beatings, runaway youth, migrant and adopted children.

Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, DLos Angeles. a former teacher, will chair the new Select Committee on Children and Youth, which was announced yesterday.

Other committee members were Sens. James E. Whetmore, R-Garden Grove; Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland; Albert S. Rodda, D-Sacramento, and Milton Marks, R-San Francisco.

India To Begin Repatriating Pakistani Prisoners Of War

NEW DELHI (UPI)—India said today the first group of Pakistani prisoners captured in the Indo-Pakistani war of December, 1971 would be repatriated on Sept. 28 and 29.

There are currently some 90,000 Pakistani POWs held in India. Their repatriation was delayed for nearly two years by a dispute between Pakistan and Bangladesh, formerly Pakistan's eastern wing, on the fate of prisoners held by the Dacca government.

The dispute was settled last month in negotiations between India and Pakistan.

An Indian Foreign Office spokesman said the first stage of the prisoner of war issue, which involves nearly half a million persons in the three countries of the Indian subcontinent, would also include 2,000 Bengalis in Pakistan and 2,600 Pakistanis in Bangladesh.

Under an agreement signed Aug. 28, India and Pakistan agreed that India would release all 90,000 Pakistani prisoners of war except 195, whom Bangladesh insisted must be tried for war crimes.

The spokesman said today 480 Pakistani POWs, civilian internees and dependents would be sent back to Pakistan on Sept. 28-29.

The first exchange between Pakistan and Bangladesh will take place over the next 10 days, the spokesman said. Two planes, one each from the Royal Nepal Airlines and the Afghan Ariana Airlines, chartered by the United Nations High Commissioner for Rehabilitation (UNHCR) will carry the prisoners between Pakistan and Bangladesh, the spokesman said.

The spokesman said the 2,000 Bengalis that would return home from Pakistan. Most were senior civil servants and some military personnel.

Swiss Steak — Del Rio
A WINTER TIME FAVORITE

2 lbs. Swiss Steak (Approx. 1" thick)
Pkg. Onion Soup Mix
6 oz. Can Mushrooms
½ Green Pepper Sliced
Dash of Cayenne
1 tbls. corn starch
1 lb. can Tomatoes Drained and chopped. (Save juice)
½ cup juice from canned tomatoes
1 tbls. A-1 Sauce
Salt and pepper to taste

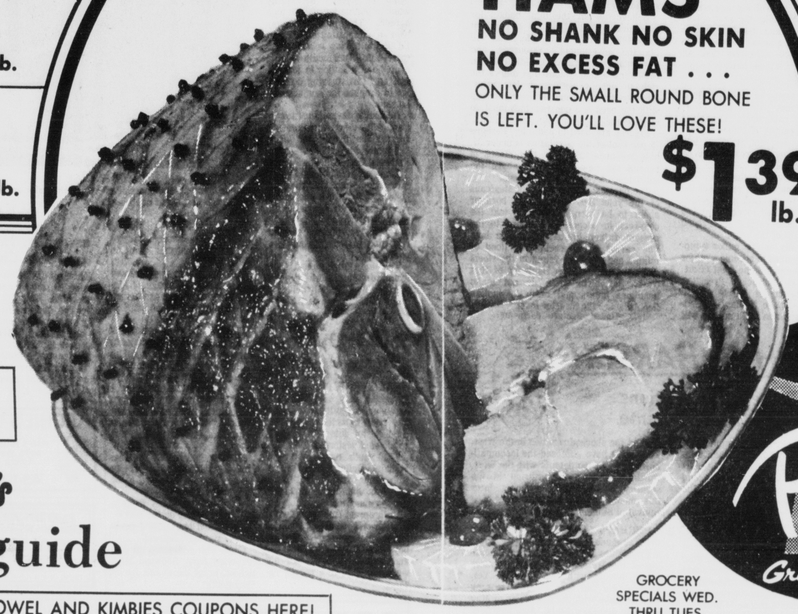

Spread butter in center of a 20" piece of heavy duty foil. Cut Swiss Steak into serving pieces, arrange on foil slightly overlapping each piece. Sprinkle with onion soup mix, mushrooms, green pepper, tomatoes and salt and pepper. Mix juice, A-1 sauce and cornstarch. Pour over Swiss Steak, wrap foil over and double fold edges to seal tightly. Place on a baking pan. Bake in oven 2 to 2½ hours at 375 degrees. Roll back foil and let brown 10 to 15 minutes.

Volunteer Military Outlook Not Dark

Some highly tentative answers are beginning to emerge to the question of whether the United States can maintain its military forces without the draft.

The answers from all four services are "yes" — with qualifications.

IF WE CANNOT, a basic tenet of this country will have been abandoned. The framers of the Constitution empowered Congress "to raise and support armies," but were so fearful of a standing army that they limited military appropriations to two years and specified that state militia should be called up to "suppress insurrections and repel invasions."

The draft in wartime has repeatedly been found necessary. The draft in peacetime helped lead us into misadventures in Southeast Asia. Repentance for those misadventures doubtless played its role in causing Congress to terminate "selective service."

But within eight months after the last draftees were called up, we have been seeing discouraging reports of the success of the new program — aimed, we suspect, at conditioning the public to return for all time to enforced military service, with all its evils.

THAT IS WHY we were pleased to read a report from the Pentagon the other day which called all-volunteer recruiting "not discouraging" — unenthusiastic as that terminology may be.

The Army made 81 per cent of its enlistment goal in August, the Pentagon reported. The Marine Corps made 83 per cent. Navy and Air Force both slightly exceeded their goals.

We checked with recruiters here in Marin and found the situation locally even better, except for the Navy, which traditionally has trouble recruiting in Marin (strange though that seems, with the county so water-oriented).

The San Rafael Navy recruiting office is "down a little" from its quota, we were told. Marine Corps and Air Force are making theirs. The Army fell short in August, but, the sergeant in charge assured us, "will make our objective for September."

Helping Army recruiting is a new policy of an additional $50 per month pay for an enlistee with two years of college, above the new, already-higher base starting pay of $307. (When to that are added meals, housing, clothes, and medical and dental care, it compares favorably with what the young man or woman might expect to get as starting pay in most kinds of private employment.)

WE REGARD such reports as a good deal better than merely "not discouraging," as the Pentagon spokesman put it.

The military embarked on the all-volunteer program while Americans were still fighting in Vietnam. A whole generation has been "turned off" on military service by the Vietnam War. To do so well in recruiting while the smoke still lingers over the bomb craters of Southeast Asia strikes us as little short of remarkable.

And it confirms thut the United States will not have to become, like the nations of Europe, permanently dependent on conscription for the fighting forces necessary for defense.

2-Year Legislature Plays The Same Old Shell Game

By EARL G. WATERS

Despite the syrupy assurances given by legislative leaders in promoting the passage of the ballot proposition creating the two-year legislature, the lawmakers are back treating the public to the same old shell game.

The two-year session, it was promised, would make the legislature more efficient. Efficiency, like motherhood, is something everyone is for. At least no one ever speaks out against it.

Exactly where it fits into the processes of a deliberative body has never been made quite clear. What the leaders intended the public to think it meant was that the legislature would take more time to consider proposals. With two years to study new laws, there would no longer be any excuse for the last-minute passage of hastily prepared bills.

IN THE PAST, as time grew near to the closing of a session, one would often see an innocuous one-page bill suddenly blossom into a multi-page document so complex it would take a battery of Philadelphia lawyers weeks to figure out.

This was done by shoving amendments into a bill which had survived committee processing and was near to final passage. It was means of circumventing the committees and thus the public. It was agreed by nearly all that it was not a desirable practice. The leaders pledged that under the two-year session it wouldn't be permitted.

But as the first part of the first two-year session drew to a close, it did happen. Not once but numerous times. Again it was a case of "now you see it, now you don't."

ONE BILL seized upon was a little Senate bill which didn't do much. For that reason it had little difficulty moving through committees and Senate passage. When it was scheduled for Assembly committee hearing in the final hours of the session, administrative officials got the author to offer some amendments.

All that the amendments would have done was rewrite the building standards. It would have affected every builder in every county in the state. While the committee adopted the amendments, it backed away from the original plan of hearing the bill even before the lengthy amendments were in print for everyone to see.

Another example of this kind of operation involved SB 238 by Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose. The measure related to regulations for the siting of power plants. It had been thoroughly reviewed by committees in the Senate and was approved as a workable plan. It was passed to the Assembly.

Meanwhile Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, had authored a bill much more far-reaching. Although vigorously opposed by the utility companies, it had passed the Assembly but was bottled up in a Senate committee.

In a fast maneuver, Warren hijacked the Alquist bill and amended in what were thought to be the provisions of his stymied bill. Examination, however, showed that while the amendments were similar, there were significant new provisions.

So again the public is being treated to a fast shuffle with hastily prepared legislation.

REGARDLESS of the merits of a legislative bill, the public is entitled to a full-blown hearing. This is what the committee system is intended to provide. This is what the leaders have promised.

It serves little purpose to have open committee hearings, roll calls and all the rest if the bills which are finally passed bear only a coincidental resemblance to those which were carefully reviewed by the committees.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

We've done our best to improve the neighborhood by moving away from it.

On moving day there's always a guy next door who gives you some lip when he should be lending a hand.

But when most of the neighbors offer to help you move, it makes you wonder about your popularity.

It's difficult to impress new neighbors when everybody on the block has already judged you by all the old furniture the movers carted in.

"I hear the volunteer army thing isn't doing too well."

Allende Liquidated Because He Meant It

Some 40 years ago when Sherwood Anderson was asked the difference between a Socialist and a Communist, he said, "The Communists mean it."

Premier Allende, an avowed Socialist, also meant it, however he may have gone about it. Otherwise he would still be around. Too bad perhaps for the junta that Spain of the '30s taught so many lessons.

Citizen Has Right To Choose Associates

Whoever arrogated to the County Human Rights Commission the power and authority to tell a citizen with whom he must associate in his private life has exceeded his authority.

Let all people of every color and race enjoy the freedom of democracy and have free access to all public areas and any occupation or trade for which they may qualify.

But it is ridiculous and an infringement on the right of a citizen to association with whom he pleases in his private, personal life.

Fraternal orders and clubs from time immemorial have reserved the right to choose their members. . .

All this order will do will be to drive the fraternities, clubs and societies underground.

We all exercise our privilege to associate with whom we please in our private lives.

We can do it as individuals or we can do it in groups and no commission in a democracy can tell us with whom we must associate. No matter what is the source of our discrimination.

I think we should unite in a common course of action to overturn this silly, stupid, undemocratic action.

Why Not Anesthetize Man Condemned To Death?

Regarding Bryce Anderson's editorial about the death penalty (I-J, Sept. 15): Mr. Anderson has taken it upon himself to be an "idea man" on how to execute people. Not only that, but he couldn't even restrain his idea even for a few weeks after the death penalty was reinstated.

It may be true that shooting causes a quicker death and presumably less suffering, but why should there be any suffering at all? Is Mr. Anderson blind to this? If the death penalty is absolutely necessary (which I doubt), why can't the condemned man (guilty or not guilty) at least have the benefit of a general anaesthetic before he is done away with? (If you want ideas.)

Overnight Parking Ban Keeps San Anselmo Clean

Compliments to my old home town of San Anselmo for retaining and enforcing the ban on overnight parking on public streets.

Whereas most cities today look like a used car lot or auto junk yard, San Anselmo still retains a delightful atmosphere of quiet, tree-lined streets and pleasant neighborhoods. I think it's the nicest city in Marin.

Farewell To Privileged Class; Congress Turns U.S. Socialist

WASHINGTON — The recent decision to eliminate the TV blackout in cities where professional football is played was a crippling blow to those of us who believe in the class system in America.

This country has very few status symbols. The one that meant the most to 50,000 of us in Washington, D.C., was that we could see the home games of the Redskins, while everyone else was shut out.

THOSE OF US who managed to buy, steal or beg tickets to the home games were an elite group of people admired and envied by neighbors and friends.

On Monday mornings we would come to work and join the poor peasants around the drinking fountain who were discussing the game they had either heard on radio or read about in the newspapers. Casually we would mention we had been at the game, then in that patronizing way most season ticket holders have developed, we would give them the highlights — filling them in on the touchdowns, the disputed plays and, if time permitted, a description of the halftime show.

In the evenings we would call up relatives who were blacked out and give them a play-by-play description of the previous afternoon's contest. What better way to get back at a brother-in-law you didn't like or a father-in-law who thought you weren't good enough to marry his daughter?

THE BEAUTY of being in this upper strata of American society was that you could pass on the status to your children and their children. Since season seats are held in perpetuity, you were assured that your family would always be among football's chosen people.

When taxi drivers, maitre d'hotels and waiters found out that you had entree to the home games, they treated you with respect. Since this country does not bestow knighthood on its favored citizens, the only way anyone had of knowing who rated in our society was through the annual printed lists of those who were season ticket holders.

The TV blackout engendered pride in local neighborhoods. People used to point out the houses of those who got to see the home games. In school, children of season ticket holders were given favored treatment by the teachers (in hopes that someday a father might invite the teacher to a game).

There was no problem with credit if you could show that you were one of the honored 50,000 ticket holders. Obviously anyone who had the clout to see a professional football game at home was a good risk for any bank or department store.

DON'T GET the idea it was all peaches and cream, though. As a season ticket holder you were obligated to contribute heavily to charity, usually to a nun who stood at one of the main gates of the stadium. And you were expected to appear in all sorts of weather. As part of the elite class, you had been an example to the less fortunate people in the country who were afraid of going out in the rain and the snow.

Season ticket holders were noted for their chivalry, good deeds, and compassion for their blacked-out fellow men.

But now, thanks to a cantankerous Congress, the ball game is over. With one stroke of the pen the President of the United States has wiped out the last vestige of status in this country. He has destroyed our finest privileged class and now made it possible for any Tom, Dick and Harry with a TV set to see football that heretofore was played only for those few of us who really understood the game.

Who says socialism hasn't come to America?

High Birth Rate Creates Tough Problem For Mexico

MEXICO CITY — The floods and the earthquake, taking such a heavy toll, made the headlines. But another kind of flood with a far more ominous meaning for the future gets little or no notice.

That is the flood of people, rising at a rate in Mexico greater than anywhere else in the world. The disaster of this flood cannot be confined to Mexico's own borders, as the affluent neighbor to the north will in the years just ahead have good reason to know. In fact, the reservoir of the jobless and the poor is already overflowing across the border.

An unofficial estimate puts the number of illegal Mexicans in the United States at one million. Customs and immigration officers recently launched a drive to push 450,000 of these illegals back across the border. The fear here is that those who are pushed back, having had even a limited experience of higher standards, will turn to violence and terror.

Moreover, it is a revolving-door operation. The expellees take the first opportunity to go back and, the long border being as porous as a sieve, this is not too difficult. Organized exploiters take all they can get to truck these hapless people to a border point.

THIS IS ONE aspect of the rising flood that should be met with a joint effort beyond political expediency. Organized labor fught the practice of United States firms on the border sending goods into Mexico for finishing at greatly reduced costs. Farm workers in California and the Southwest, defending their own low wage standards, opposed a revival of the organized bracero program under which Mexicans were allowed to cross over to do field work under careful supervision for several months of the year.

But this is really only a minor symptom of what threatens to become a major illness unless, through some joint effort, the root cause can be attacked. President Luis Echeverria in his "State of the Union" message spoke frankly — Mexico's present population of 56 million will double in 20 years and by the end of the century there will be 135 million, requiring, as the President put it, food, housing, education, employment and all types of services.

This in a country where these requirements today fall far short of the need. What with the high birth rate and the decrease in mortality, the present population growth is 3.5 per cent a year. That is higher than India — higher than any populous country in Asia or Africa.

DEFYING HIS critics, who say his policy is inflationary, President Echeverria outlined a bold policy of expanded education. He put stress on new technological schools for agriculture and livestock. During his first three years in office, 262 new such schools have been established, bringing the total to 331. He proposed creating a new university in addition to the huge institutions with their hundreds of thousands of students already in being.

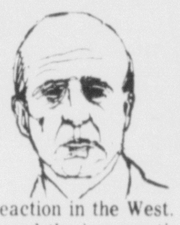

Echeverria put the total budget for education at $1.2 billion, up 91 per cent since 1970. It is a brave effort that will tax the government's resources, and particularly in light of the difficulty in reforming a tax system that allows the rich to get by with such low rates. Whether the expansion can ever catch up with the need is a question that must go unanswered.

Figures are hard to come by. Perhaps 75 per cent of the population is under 35, half are under 25. What that means in raising the new generation above the subsistence level is all too obvious.

The parents of the millions of Mexicans of the year 2000 are already born or about to be born, Echeverria told the congress in proposing additions to the present rather limited population law. The casual visitor seeing the flood of infants and the very young in the steets and squares needs no reminder of that truth. But birth rates do not make headlines unless and until the human flood reaches the disaster level.

Russia Softens Persecutions For Fear Of Losing Detente

A few days ago President Pompidou of France arrived in Peking, and the Kremlin softened its new hard line against its dissenters — and it takes no special powers of imagination to know that the two events are related.

Europe is on the threshold of negotiations in "the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe." This conference has been the earnest goal of Soviet diplomacy from the instant the startling news broke over an unsuspecting world that Richard Nixon would be traveling to Peking to end the long estrangement between the United States and China.

THE RUSSIANS want to use the conference to shore up their western flank. But several weeks ago Moscow's hopes for the conference were cloudy in the extreme.

A wave of new persecution had been unleashed by the Kremlin against intellectual dissenters. Western Europe was shocked by the appearance of what to outsiders seemed all too much like a revival of Stalinism at its worst. It even included a typically Stalinesque purge trial.

It was so bad that the Communist parties of Western Europe were deeply embarrassed and trying to disassociate themselves from it all.

Westerners can only guess at what must have happened inside the Kremlin as Leonid Brezhnev and his colleagues noticed the shocked reaction in the West. They must have glimpsed the incompatibility between the detente with the West, which they hope to enshrine in the security conference reconvening later this month, and any appearance of a revival of Stalinism.

PERHAPS SOMETHING else gave them as much or more pause.

France has long been the most amenable of the Western European countries about detente with the Kremlin. Yet, France also had been the first to seek reconciliation with the new China of Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai. And, now here was President Pompidou of France flying to Peking. Add that Washington's Henry Kissinger was to be following just as soon as his Senate confirmation was achieved in Washington.

Can Moscow afford to horrify western opinion at a time when it wants detente with Western Europe, credits and technical aid from the United States, and as much freedom to maneuver as possible in its continuing quarrel with the Chinese?

The answer is clearly no, for the reason that the more Soviet behavior shocks European and American opinion, the closer they can draw towards each other and to China.

Indeed, the Soviet Union has once more done something for the West that it was dangerously unable to do for itself. It has startled the Americans and the West Europeans back into remembering that they really do need each other. The old mutual insurance society of the NATO alliance has for far too long been coming apart at the seams.

Yet now, in Washington this last week, NATO was being recalled as a "good thing." And in Copenhagen nine West European ministers (Benelux, Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, Ireland, and Denmark) agreed on a document which, in effect, was a welcome for President Nixon. That he would have such a welcome had been in some doubt. Times change. He is now wanted.

TAKEN ALL TOGETHER — Mr. Pompidou to Peking, Henry Kissinger getting ready to go to Peking, revising western interest in the NATO alliance, reviving West European interest in a Nixon visit, rising doubts in the United States about detente — the men of Moscow have had to do some homework.

It seems that they have. The hard line of recent weeks has been tempered. Jamming of American, British, and West German broadcasts in the Russian language has been toned down, although not entirely abandoned. The pressure has been eased on novelist Alexander Solzhenitsyn and physicist Andrei Sakharov. No more purge trials are known to be scheduled.

Is the softer line only a temporary expedient to clear the way for sweetness and light at the European "security" conference in Geneva?

One can hope for something more than that. Perhaps the outcome depends in some measure on what happens when Mr. Kissinger gets to Peking.

Certainly it is now possible for the West to adjust its relations with the Russians and the Chinese from day to day as conditions suggest.

Linda Lovelace, Marilyn Chambers Are On Trial In Petaluma

Linda Loveland and Marilyn Chambers may not know it, but they're on trial this week in Petaluma.

The court docket may read the County of Sonoma versus Alan W. Finley, but the trial will focus on Miss Lovelace and Miss Chambers and their X-rated films, "Deep Throat" and "Behind the Green Door."

The jury will have the task of deciding whehether the films are obscene by local standards and whether Finley is guilty of exhibiting obscene materials in showing the films at the State Theater in Petaluma.

SOME HAVE PREDICTED that Petaluma is on the way to becoming the pornography capital of Northern California. The theater has been picketed once by a group who call it an outrage that such films can be shown in a small, basically conservative town like Petaluma and yet are banned in places like New York.

Although "Deep Throat" has been playing for many months, it continues to draw large crowds, especially on week ends. Few Petalumans admit to having seen the film and the few who do say they went to theaters in San Francisco or Larkspur to avoid a wide array of embarrassing situations that could develop.

The theater obviously is drawing customers from outside Petaluma. Either that or everyone in town has seen the movie several times to keep it running as long as it has.

A CALL FOR 100 prospective jurors — a near-record for Southern Sonoma Municipal Court — went out in hope of finding 12 people who could be open-minded about pornography as art.

Most responded to the courtroom expecting to decide on a traffic accident or a minor crime and were surprised to find the trial would deal with X-rated films. Some were disgusted at the thought, while others were pleased to sit in on a case that has received fairly wide publicity.

Should a verdict of innocent be reached, Linda and Marily can feel welcome in Petaluma even if New York has rejected them.

Negotiations Set On Extending Road

Shelter Ridge developers and the Mill Valley city staff will negotiate how much Shelter Ridge developers should contribute to a proposed extension of Sycamore Avenue, the city council decided last night.

The negotiations are an attempt to end a struggle which began in July over whether the city or developers must pay for running the road from the Camino Alto area to the development.

The city council said then that it would approve the remaining unbuilt portions of the Shelter Ridge master plan only if arrangements were completed for extending Sycamore before anyone occupied the buildings. The council repeated that stand last night.

The city has argued that Shelter Ridge should be largely responsible for building the road because it mainly will serve residents of the development overlooking Highway 101. Cost of the extension has been estimated at $200,000.

Shelter Ridge developers have argued that the city has been too vague about what their liability is in the matter. Last night, attorney Robert K. Clausen asked for specific instructions on what the city wants to do about Sycamore and repeated a previous offer from the developers to contribute $25,000 to running the road through the Mill Valley marsh.

Clausen said Securities of America Inc., which owns the site, cannot sell the land to a developing firm until the Sycamore issue is settled. He said that his client is about to sue to get the master plan approval without any strings attached. "If we can't get a definition of where we stand, you give us no alternative. What in the world do you mean?"

Further confusion arose over whether the city even wanted to build the extension anymore. Councilman Robert E. Capron said it might turn into a third arterial to Highway 101 which could damage the marsh environment.

But Councilman Edward J. Boessenecker said that the city was "morally committed" to the extension. He also pointed out that without it the city could not build an east Mill Valley firehouse which has long been planned.

Mayor Jean S. Barnard talked the council into holding a five-minute closed session during which it decided to have the city attorney negotiate with the developer about how much Shelter Ridge should have to pay.

The council voted unanimously to postpone hiring a consultant to do an environmental impact report on the extension until February when the city's general plan study will be partially completed.

The council also approved plans for a 104-unit apartment complex still to be built in the development. They had approved this project several weeks ago on condition that the planning commission went along with the plans.

A decision was postponed, however, until December on rezoning part of the Shelter Ridge site to allow an office building.

The Mill Valley City Council also:

THEATER — Heard a request from the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts for permission to open its fall season at the Mill Valley Country Club building in spite of not having finished structural improvements requested by the fire department. The council postponed a decision until Sept. 27 to allow time for a staff report.

HUMAN RIGHTS — Approved the preliminary draft of a resolution defining the duties of the human rights miniboard and asked for a report from the city attorney on the resolution.

SALARY INCREASES — Approved the following annual increases for city department heads: police chief, 14 per cent; fire chief, 12 per cent; finance director, 7 per cent; director of parks and recreation, 7 per cent; planning director, 5 per cent; librarian, 2.5 per cent; public works supervisor, 7 per cent; police lieutenants, 10 per cent; assistant fire chief, 8 per cent; secretary to city manager, 5 per cent; accounting supervisor, 7 per cent; deputy director of public works, 7 per cent; golf course supervisor, 7 per cent; treatment plant supervisor, 7 per cent, and parks supervisor, 7 per cent. Total cost to the city was not calculated.

CLOSED MEETING — Held a closed meeting to discuss negotiations on salaries being held with the firemen's association.

MEETING — Set Sept. 27 as the date of its next meeting.

Inmate Visiting Plan To Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House approved and sent to the Senate yesterday a bill authorizing federal prison officials to grant three-day passes to allow selected prisoners to visit home and "re-establish family ties."

The measure, adopted by voice vote, would extend programs which already permit home leaves for family emergencies and work training programs.

GOP Senate Boss Backs Federal Election Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Public financing of federal elections today picked up support from 30 senators including Republican leader Hugh Scott, a former critic who today called the proposal "our last best hope" for restoring confidence in government and elected officials.

The senators endorsed the principle of paying for election campaigns with public funds instead of contributions in a statement delivered to a Senate priveleges and elections subcommittee opening hearings on the idea.

In prepared testimony, Scott said he joined with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., in proposing the legislation because "it is our last hope to restore full confidence in public officials and government."

Scott said that only two years ago he believed that merely requiring public disclosure of private contributions and campaign expenditures would be enough to cure wrongdoing.

But, referring to the campaign reporting law which went into effect in April 1972, Scott said, "I misjudged that as much as I misjudged the deviousness of certain individuals who sought to humiliate the law from the day when it was enacted."

Congress last year provided that taxpayers can divert $1 of their income tax to presidential election campaigns in a check-off system. The Scott-Kennedy proposal would increase this to $2 and require candidates in presidential, Senate and House campaigns, beginning in 1976, to use public rather than private funds.

It would not apply to primaries. Congress would be authorized to appropriate additional funds if the checkoff did not raise enough.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., has a bill to limit an individual's private contibutions to a candidate in a federal election to $250.

"Watergate is only the lattest demonstration of the long — overdue need to cleanse elections of the corrupting curse of huge private campaign contributions," Cranston said.

Those endorsing the principle of public financing, but not necessarily one specific bill, were, in addition to Kennedy, Scott and Cranston; James Abourezk, D-S.D.; Birch Bayh, D-Ind.; Joseph Biden, D-Del; Edward Brooke, R-Mass.; Clifford Case, R-N.J.; Dick Clark, D-Iowa; Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo.; Mike Gravel, D-Alaska; Philip Hart, D-Mich.;

When this picture was taken in Germany in 1934, the 11-year-old boy on the left could not have guessed that his name would someday become a household word in the United States. In 1938 his family fled from Nazi Germany to New York City. Thirty-five years later, President Nixon nominated him to become Secretary of State, joining such famous names as Jefferson, Madison, and Marshall. As Secretary of State, he would be the first naturalized citizen and the first Jew ever to hold the highest-ranking Cabinet post. ABAG's COASTAL PLAN CRITICIZED

Spokesmen For Marin Groups Claim Proposal Lacks Prime Priority Items

The Association of Bay Area Government's coastal plan "lacks things we think are prime priority," Marin County planning commissioners and citizens declared yesterday.

The commission, after reviewing the regional agency's plan as it would affect West Marin, unanimously voted to ask ABAG to modify it. (Another planning commission story, page 1.)

Marin Conservation League spokesmen charged that ABAG's plan doesn't list any Marin shoreline as high priority for open space preservation, ignoring Duxbury Reef, the Bolinas cliffs and Tomales Bay's shoreline.

Judith Weston of the Bolinas Planning Group warned that the ABAG plan, calling for "intensive growth" of West Marin communities, threatened to render the new Marin County general plan efforts to limit the size of the villages, "all in vain."

Planning Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo said the ABAG shoreline study — one element of its regional plan — "begged the question" of growth by not predicting population.

The commission asked ABAG's general assembly to modify its plan to conform with the Marin and California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission plans and policies for the coast. At the same time, the commission recommended incorporating part of the ABAG plan's policy statements in the county plan.

ABAG's coastline plan draft was approved by the regional body's executive committee on July 19 and then was distributed to local government for review such as yesterday's in Marin.

The Marin County Planning Commission Also:

PLEASURE FAIRE — Continued to Oct. 15 the hearing on Sonoma County's appeal against the Marin use permit granted for the Renaissance Center and Pleasure Faire on the Veronda Ranch at the Marin-Sonoma County Line. Sonoma Deputy County Counsel Prentice Fish claimed that the commission could not act because it did not have the full environmental impact on the proposal. The commission ordered the records of the county environmental protection review panel added to the report before the hearing is held.

FAIRFAX — Recommended rezoning the Poeschl property northwest of Fairfax from A-2 to single-family residential with four-acre minimum lot size.

BLACK POINT — Eased staff-imposed conditions calling for an 18-foot paved road to serve part of Robert Bergis's property off Crest Road, which he is subdividing. Burgis opposed having to build the road, and may take his appeal to the county supervisors.

WOLFE GRADE — Denied an appeal by neighboring landowner Charles Maas against allowing Luisa Sanger a four-lot subdivision to have access via Wolfe Grade Road on its uphill side rather than from Wolfe Canyon Road on the lower side.

ADJOURNED — To 9 a.m. Oct. 1 in the planning chambers.

Garbage Rate Increases Approved For Petaluma

Increased garbage collection rates were approved last night by the Petaluma City Council.

Residential collection rates on Nov. 1 will increase from $2 to $2.20 per month for one can; from $3.25 to $3.60 for two cans; and from $4 to $4.90 for three cans. Rates for businesses will increase from $8 to $8.80 per month.

Asst. City Mgr. John Nolan said the council garbage study committee recommended the increases, saying rates had not been changed in several years while costs have increased for the Petaluma Sanitary Disposal Co.

Nolan said weekly collection of garden trimmings along with regular refuse cans will continue under the new agreement.

Nolan said the council considered making garbage collection mandatory to lower costs and improve sanitation, but agreed the move is not yet necessary.

The Petaluma City Council also:

TAXI — Asked committee study of a rate increase request by the Petaluma Taxi Service.

COURSE — Agreed to send members of the planning commission to a one-day course on environmental impact report requirements to be held Nov. 17 in San Rafael. Cost will be $65 per person.

MEETING — Adjourned to next Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. to discuss the federal lawsuit pending on the city controlled growth policy.

Pan Am Wins Court Battle On Insurance

NEW YORK (UPI) — Insurance companies will have to pay for a $24.2 million Pan American jumbo jetliner blown up by Palestinian terrorists in 1970, U.S. District Judge Marvin E. Frankel ruled yesterday.

The insurance companies will also have to pay about $5 million in interest accrued since the Boeing 747 passenger jet was destroyed at Cairo three years ago, Frankel ruled.

About 30 U.S. and British insurance companies involved in the suit argued they were not liable because a loss due to capture, seizure or war was excluded from coverage.

But Frankel said the language of the policies was ambiguous and where doubt exists as to precise meaning, "interpretation favors coverage rather than exclusion."

Woman Denies Possession Of Amphetamines

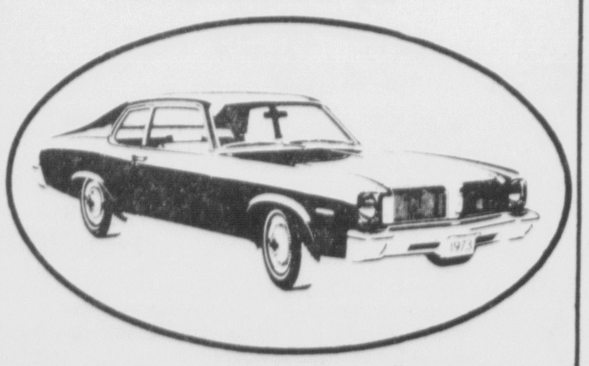

A San Rafael woman suspected of possessing amphetamines when she was booked for a traffic violation has pleaded innocent and will have a preliminary hearing Oct. 1.

Marilyn Elizabeth Little, 32, of 159 DeBois Street, has been charged with a felony count of possessing a restricted drug.

Sausalito police said she was cited Sept. 6 for driving across a double yellow line on Bridgeway, but she refused to sign the citation, so she was booked into Marin County Jail, where a sack with 41 suspected amphetamine tablets was found in her purse.

Double Pay Approved For Police, Firemen

Corte Madera police and firemen will no longer get three days off in a week in which there is a holiday, the town council decided last night.

Instead, the council ruled that the public safety employees will put in a full week's work, but will receive double pay for one of the days.

The council introduced a salary ordinance amendment which will provide police and firemen with the overtime pay whether or not they work on the holidays.

The change will also eliminate compensatory time for holidays worked. The public safety employees said this practice will actually save the town money because when a man takes compensatory time off, he must find a replacement. Since the replacement will then be working on his day off, he will have to be paid overtime.

Currently, police and firemen do not receive either double pay or compensatory time off for holidays which fall on their days off.

Several public safety employees appeared to protest the current state of affairs, saying that under the present rules they were not equal to other town employees.

Fireman Charles (Bud) Ralston pointed out that firefighters have different days off each week. "So it's just possible that a man could lose every holiday in a year since he could be off for all of them," he said.

Finally, the council agreed to make the change by eliminating the phrase "actually worked" from the holiday pay ordinance.

"I'm strongly opposed to paying double time when someone is sitting up at Lake Tahoe on a holiday," said Councilman Edward W. Colthurst but he voted for the change anyway.

"I'm voting for it and I think it's terrible, but I don't see any other solution," said Mayor Holmes S. Norville.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

NEWSLETTER — Agreed to give "serious consideration" to a monthly newsletter for the town and asked Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels to prepare a report on cost and format. The council had rejected the newsletter idea in June, saying the town hall didn't have enough staff to produce it.

MEETING — Set a public hearing for Oct. 15 on an amendment to the town's redevelopment plan which would keep commercial uses out of the redevelopment area.

PROGRAMS — Authorized these city employees to attend training programs: Police Officer Neil Mason to Police Officers Standards and Training Basic Academy in Santa Rosa, Sept. 10 to Nov. 16 at a cost of $1,165; Police Sgt. Gregory Rossoff to a course in computer uses for police in Long Beach, Sept. 14-22, at a cost of $403; Police Chief David L. McIntosh to the Federal Bureau of Investigation retraining program in Palm Springs, Oct. 21-24, at a cost of $194.

HEARING — Set a public hearing for Oct. 1 on a tentative map for the Madera del Presidio subdivision. The council will also hear Larry Weingarth's appeal of the town planning commission's approval of the map at the session.

TREES — Agreed to transfer $2,000 to a special fund for removing hazardous trees.

NUISANCES — Adopted an ordinance giving the town authority to determine where fire hazards exist on private property and to remove them.

DOGS — Adopted an ordinance making it an infraction to violate the town's animal control ordinance.

REPORTS — Adopted an ordinance requiring sellers of residential property in the town to provide the buyer with a report on the zoning and any other limitations on use of the land in question.

MAINTENANCE — Agreed to take over maintenance of a landscaped area at the entrance to the Vista del Bahia subdivision.

FLOOD CONTROL — Voted to spend $3,500 to replace a pipe and catch basin on Mohawk Avenue to prevent flooding this winter.

SIGNAL — Approved plans and specifications for a traffic signal at the intersection of Tamalpais Drive and Eastman Avenue.

REVIEW — Rejected a request from the town building inspector that the town hire an engineering firm to review engineering plans for a 14-unit condominium on Lucky Drive.

ENGINEER — Agreed to contract with two private engineers for work which may be needed until a new town engineer can be found to replace Town Engineer Arthur N. Morrison who is quitting to go into private practice. If any work is needed, the council agreed to hire Morrison or Robert W. Copple of San Rafael.

HEARING — Set a public hearing for Oct. 15 to consider amended assessments for the Lucky Drive Assessment District.

MEETING — Adjourned to Sept. 25 when the council will canvass results of today's recall election.

Support Of Scientists In Russia Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federation of American Scientists called on intellectuals everywhere yesterday to protest the repression of outspoken scientists in Russia.

"As scientists, we have an obligation to protect one another in the exercise of the freedoms we require," the federation's executive committee said in a statement. "The scientists we protect today in the Soviet Union may protect our freedoms tomorrow."

The federation, a scientific lobby representing 6,000 American scientists, referred to recent criticism in Russia of Dr. Andrei D. Sakharov, leader in the development of the Soviet hydrogen bomb and a critic of Kremlin policies. The federation said the current U.S.-Soviet detente may lead to stepped-up repression in Russia.

MGM Will Sell Culver City Lot

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer announced plans yesterday to sell its historic lot in Culver City, once the center of the largest empire in filmmaking.

MGM president James B. Aubrey said sale of the property would be part of the liquidation of some $50 million of the company's assets, including buildings and offices across the nation and overseas and company-owned theaters.

Moretti Debate Challenge Denied

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan's reluctance to publically debate his Nov. 6 tax limitation ballot measure is "becoming a big issue," according to Democratic gubernatorial hopeful Bob Moretti.

Assembly Speaker Moretti's fifth challenge for a debate yesterday brought another refusal from the governor's office, which contends Moretti is seeking "free TV exposure."

Moretti aide Eathan Wagner said the speaker is pushing the challenge "trying to point out to the governor that his reluctance to openly and candidly debate his initiative is becoming a big issue."

"The public is beginning to wonder," Wagner said in a telephone interview.

Rohnert Park Bridge Will Aid Development

The Rohnert Park City Council last night awarded a bridge construction contract to pave the way for more subdivisions in the northern part of the city.

The contract of $79,886 was awarded to McGuire and Hester Co. of Santa Rosa. The engineers estimate for the bridge on Copeland Creek was $87,460.

The bridge on Country Club Drie is part of the development plans for subdivisions to open up the northern section of Rohnert Park.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said the low bid will permit construction of extra planks on the upstream side of the bridge so the creek can be dammed in the future for recreation.

Long range plans call for summertime damming of the creek to form an old-fashioned "swimming hole" atmosphere for youngsters.

The Rohnert Park City Council Also:

PARK — Approved a $99,000 allocation for development of Lady Bug Park to include a 2,000-square-foot community center, baseball diamonds, play equipment and picnic area.

PLAY LOTS — Approved $16,000 to develop play lots in the Holiday Park section on Lyman and Lilac ways and Lydia and LaCrosse streets.

ATTORNEYS — Hired the law firm of Cotton, Seligman and Ray of San Francisco to study a possible lawsuit against the Santa Rosa urban renewal project. Councilmen said they fear plans would damage chances for a major shopping center in Rohnert Park.

GARAGE SALES — Rejected plans for k ordinance to control garage sales.

PARK — Dropped plans to acquire additional land at Alicia Park when Callinan reported costs at $12,000 per acre.

An Art Lover Forces A Tour

CINCINNATI (UPI) —An art lover, armed with a machete, forced a guard at the Cincinnati Art Museum to give him a private, hour-long tour at 3:40 yesterday morning.

Bruce Riley, 19, climbed a wall on the east side of the museum and dropped down an elevator shaft to the main floor of the building where he accosted guard McKinley Smith.

He told Smith he was just "very interested in art and wanted to look at the paintings."

Police were alerted to the break-in when Smith did not report at a scheduled time.

Protest Over No Strike Plan

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The leaders of two dissident factions in the United Steelworkers of America (USWA) presented a petition signed by 2,000 members to union officials yesterday in an effort to have the historic no strike agreement with the steel industry discarded.

USWA President I. W. Abel was not in the union's headquarters when the petition was presented by George Edwards and William Litch, leaders of the dissidents.

Edwards, chairman of the National Steelworkers Rank and File, and Litch, of the Rank and File Team, said the petition sought to declare the no-strike agreement "void and inoperative."

New Threat Seen To South Korea

TOKYO (UPI) — Deputy U.S. Defense Secretary William P. Clements Jr. said yesterday North Korean troops pose a threat to South Korea and there are no plans to withdraw any American forces from Korea.

"We think the North Koreans have enhanced their position considerably," Clements told a news conference. "The state of their hardware, their assets, the relocation of some of their forces and their movement toward the DMZ demilitarized zone all suggest an enhanced readiness and thus an increased risk for South Korea."

FOR SAFETY'S SAKE

Tighter Cosmetic Control Is Sought

By LUCIA MOUAT
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A fresh drive is under way to tighten federal controls over the $6-billion American cosmetics industry.

It's not those blissful, inflated promises to take away wrinkles and bring on lasting beauty that are getting the current attention. The focus is on such basics as product ingredients and safety.

Recent polls indicate that most Americans think their government requires testing of most or all cosmetics before they go on the market, as is the case with drug products. In fact, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has no such power, except in certifying colors that may be used.

The most that the 26-man cosmetic technology division of the FDA can do if it learns that a cosmetic product is unsafe — generally consumer complaints provide the tip-off — is to pull it back from the sales shelf.

SOME IN Congress, such as Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan (Dem.-Mo.) long have been concerned about this regulatory gap. Each year since 1954 she has introduced a bill which would require, among other things, premarket testing and FDA clearance of new cosmetics.

A NEW BILL on the Senate side, however, is generally rated as the more likely to pass; hearings on it are scheduled for November. No hearings on cosmetic legislation are expected this year on the House side.

Sponsored by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton (Dem.-Mo.) the Senate bill would require manufacturers to submit premarket testing data to the FDA, but with no provision mandating FDA approval.

The distinction between such bills appears minor to those in the industry.

"We don't feel there's any difference," comments Edward Kavanaugh, who handles legislative affairs for the Cosmetic, Toiletry, and Fragrance Association, the industry trade group representing 180 firms. He says that even with the Eagleton bill, the situation would siphon down to FDA approval or disapproval.

In his view, FDA's existing authority is "more than enough to protect the consumer."

Singling out a lipstick inhalation test required by the Eagleton bill as "absurd," Kavanaugh said, "generally we feel testing is a bad word." The industry prefers the term "evaluation."

Examination of the often extensive "literature" on a product, including consumer experience, often allows such a scientific judgment to be made, according to the CTFA spokesman. Tests may or may not be involved in the process, he says.

SOME CONSUMER-oriented groups such as the Minnesota Public Interest Research Group, a student-funded, nonprofit corporation which recently completed a year-long national study of cosmetic safety problems, estimate as much as 90 per cent of the cosmetic products on the market have been inadequately tested for potential health hazards — or not tested at all.

One major difficulty has been pinning down reliable statistics on cosmetic-related injuries — a major factor both in the lack of strengthened FDA authority and in the extreme rarity of an agency-ordered product recall.

The most commonly used figure, stemming from Department of Health, Education and Welfare tabulations, is 60,000 injuries a year. However, cuts on bottles and other similar incidents which have no relation to cosmetic ingredients are included.

Even at that, many consumer advocates are much more concerned about long-range effects of use of such ingredients as asbestos in talcum powder and metallic salts in deodorants than in immediate effects that show up in statistical accounts.

Meanwhile, the FDA is in the paradoxical position of not knowing the names of some of the cosmetic companies whose products it is assigned to regulate.

Even to get such basic information, the FDA often is forced to rely on the voluntary cooperation of industry.

A DRIVE is underway to require government testing of cosmetics before they go on the market, as is the case with drug products. The only power now given to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration is in certifying colors, and generally the tip off to unsafe products is through consumer complaints.

The strongest FDA move so far is in the area of ingredient labeling. In a few days the agency is expected to issue the final legal chapter of its proposal that such a listing be mandatory for all cosmetic products.

ALTHOUGH SOME firms such as Avon Products, Inc., long have listed ingredients voluntarily, it is expected to be a year or more before consumers notice the difference on most products.

The FDA labeling action, in large part a response to a petition from the Consumer Federation of American and two interested individuals, will require that ingredients be listed in order of predominance.

It is expected that companies will be allowed to list fragrances, flavors and colors as such, rather than breaking them down into their myriad ingredients. The point is an important one since many of the industry's closely guarded "trade secrets" fall into this categroy.

Most of the other current activity is strictly in the voluntary category.

In compiling its inventory of firm names and addresses, for instance, the FDA is waiting patiently for the companies involved to willingly supply the data. So far, 751 companies have reported in, and FDA officials estimate that with these, roughly 80 per cent of the cosmetic market is represented.

The FDA also is scouting for volunteers to give it the formulas or ingredient combinations used in cosmetic products.

In the last year or so, 7,000 of the estimated 15,000 to 20,000 such cosmetic recipes have come in.

Kavanaugh estimates that many more such formulas, including many less well-known, will be forthcoming as soon as the FDA finalizes its position on the Freedom of Information Act so that the industry knows whether it is talking solely for FDA ears or more broadly.

While most who know the cosmetic business say it is indeed possible for one firm to sleuth out the trade secrets of another by testing the latter's products, Kavanaugh stresses, "It takes money and time — and why should smaller companies get that information free?"

THE FDA also is seeking a better reading on consumer complaints. While it received 368 in the first six months of this year, almost as much as the total taken in during 1972, many consumers with product problems write directly to the companies involved, and the FDA has no power to demand access to such data.

In an effort to weld the link more directly with the troubled consumer, the FDA expects to launch a consumer public-reaction survey in January. The agency is contracting the job to a professional firm. Several thousand families will be contacted to supply information on the cosmetic products they use and any related problems they have had with them. A pilot version of the survey is due to get under way in Chicago in October.

One of the key problems, however, in all such FDA efforts is the agency's lack of authority to extract pertinent information from cosmetic manufacturers.

P-TA District Sets Workshops

A series of public workshops is being sponsored by the 14th District Parent-Teacher Association. The first will be held tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. at the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

Purpose of the workshops is to give basic P-TA information on parliamentary procedures, bylaws, programs, membership, Newsette, finance and publicity, according to the district president, Mrs. Dallas L. Wagner of San Rafael.

The second workshop will be tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. at the Cattleman's restaurant in Petaluma, and the final will be Thursday at 9:30 a.m. at the Sebastopol Veterans Memorial Building.

Workshops will be conducted by Mmes. W. W. Wood of Sebastopol, past state P-TA president; Malcolm Finley of San Rafael, past State Health and Welfare Legislation chairman; M. J. Mills of Glen Ellen, past state treasurer; and Ralph Planck of Cloverdale, a member of the California State P-TA extension department.

Speaker at the evening dinner meeting will be Mrs. Vincent Anderson of Richmond, director of the extension department. She will discuss total P-TA involvement as it relates to parents, teachers and administrators regarding total education of all students.

Mrs. Frank Graeber of Petaluma is hospitality chairman, and Mrs. Edwin Bode of San Rafael is reservations chairman for the workshops.

Mrs. Martin Vermeulen Is Easter Seal Leader

President of the Marin Easter Seal Auxiliary this year is Mrs. Martin Vermeulen of San Rafael, a six-year member.

Barbara Vermeulen, former treasurer of the auxiliary, said the group will raise funds for the Easter Seal program this year with a holiday auction and a day at the horse races at Golden Gate Fields.

A native San Franciscan, Mrs. Vermeulen was graduated from Lincoln High School there and she and her husband have lived in Marin for the past six years. Their sons are Philip, a junior at the Unversity of California at Davis, and John, a Terra Linda High sophomore.

Officers who will serve with her this year are Mmes. Joe Campbell, vice president; Roy Simpkin, recording secretary; Timothy Egan, corresponding secretary; Esther Wagner, treasurer; Albert Endriss, historian; and Emmett Stevenson, parliamentarian.

Jewish Center Plans Mother, Daughter Unit

The Marin Jewish Community Center will offer a mother and daughter group beginning Saturday that will provide an opportunity for mothers and daughters to share feelings and experiences and to clarify their relationship.

Shirley LeGant, psychotherapist, and her 15-year-old daughter, Laura, will be the instructors. The class, which will meet from 2 to 4 p.m., will explore the problem of how to provide enough space for the teenager to test herself and her increasing maturity so as not to impinge on her mother's comfort, as well as how to appreciate the unique experience of each other and how to use it to stimulate and enhance growth.

The group will be expanded for other combinations such as mother and teenage son, father and teenage daughter or son, if there is a need.

KRIS MIKLOS
Festival queen

Kris Miklos Queen Of Grape Fete

Kris Miklos of Novato will reign as queen at the Sunny Hills Grape Festival to be held Oct. 6 at the Marin County Civic Center.

She was selected on the basis of community service, poise and personality. Judges were Marin County Supervisors Peter Arrigoni, KPIX newscaster Ron Magers, Bank of Marin vice president H. Dale Sullivan and KRON newscaster Dave Valentine.

Kris has been a volunteer summer aide for three years in the Novato Unified School District and involved in 4H community projects.

Runners up were Joanie Flynn of San Rafael and Carol Tapping of Mill Valley.

Keeping Foot Problems Minor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Do some foot watching to prevent minor problems of children from becoming serious ones, the Podiatry Society of New York State says.

It recommends that parents see that children's feet are bathed and throughly dried each day. Watch for cracks between toes, excessive perspiration, blisters and warts. Do not use home remedies without consulting a foot specialist. Some medicines strong enough to kill foot fungi can harm young skin. Observe the way your child walks. If the toes point in or out, it may signal foot trouble and a visit to a specialist is in order.

Christine Bruccoleri Weds Douglas Miller

Christine Bruccoleri of Novato became the bride of Douglas Miller of San Rafael in a Sept. 9 ceremony at the Community Congregational Church of Tiburon.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bart Bruccoleri of Novato, the bride was attended by Mrs. Kathleen Roberts as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Philip Bruccoleri of San Quentin, Louise Bendik and Pam Hessington, both of Novato.

Randy Swanson of Santa Rosa served as best man. Seating the guests were David Miller of Sebastopol, Alan Miller of Vacaville and Philip Bruccoleri of San Quentin, brothers of David and Christine.

The reception followed at Hamilton Air Force Base Officers Club. The couple will make their home in Petaluma after a wedding trip to Southern California.

Christine is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and the College of Marin and she is employed by the City of Tiburon. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Philip Bruccoleri of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Ian Miller of San Rafael are parents of Douglas. He is a graduate of San Rafael High School and the College of Marin and also is employed by the City of Tiburon.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

RAP:

I like this boy and he's beginning to like me, but his girlfriend says she'll beat me up if I even speak to him.

What's more her mother gets into the act, and if he doesn't call the girl every day, she calls up and invites him over.

They broke up once, but the girl and her mother made such a fuss that he went back to her. He told her though, that if she does jump me, he's through with her. Do you think he means it? — JENNY ANN

DEAR JENNY ANN:

There's one way to find out — but you may get some lumps doing it. Do you like this boy well enough to fight for him? — HELEN

JENNY ANN:

You'd be doing this guy a favor to get the girl and her mother off his back. But maybe you wouldn't really want a boy who lets two females boss him around. — SUE

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

My two girlfriends have got into this religion where they go door to door and try to convert people. They're trying it with me too, and all I hear lately is what a "sinner" I am. They load me with tracts and booklets.

I don't want to lose their friendship, but how can I shut them up? I'm not an atheist, but I can't believe their way. It's too far-out. — TIRED OF ARGUING

DEAR TIRED:

Don't argue: walk away when your friends start proselytizing.

But also don't expect much of this friendship while they're so wrapped up in their far-out religion. If they can't convert you, they may drop you. (Or you may keep walking, if you can't take the sermons.) — HELEN

TIRED:

There's an old saying: Never argue about religion or politics if you want to stay friends. How about typing this up on cards, and when these girls hand you their tracts and booklets, hand them your rule. And change the subject. — SUE

RAP:

My mother is so nosey she even checks through my wastepaper basket. Do you think it might cure her if I got some live snails and put them in among the papers? — SPIED ON

P.S. Should I?

S.O.:

. . . Not unless you want one mad mother! — HELEN

SPIED ON:

. . . Not unless you want snail trails in your room, when the little rascals go over the top of your wastebasket. — SUE

NOTE TO "SPIED ON'S" MOTHER (And all overly snoopy parents):

How would you react if your children rummaged through your drawers and wastepaper baskets, read your private mail, etc? You've no right expecting privacy if you don't respect it where other family members are concerned. — HELEN AND SUE

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

INSIDE YOUR HOME

Swings Are Fun And Can Be Used Anywhere You Care To In Home

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
(Distributed by General Features Corp.)

Swings are fun. Not just porch swings and basket-chair swings but any kind of swing you can devise for the home. The preschool kids love them just as much as the toddlers. And adults, who dig a ride in a hammock, might also turn on to a floating seat in the playroom.

But it was to the special order of an 8-year-old girl that Virginia Fankel, AID design associate, planned this "swinging bedroom." First she covered the walls in a hand-printed floral stripe wall covering for the primary pattern interest.

Next she chose a plush, sculptured carpet that subtly repeats the floral look. Then sheer, fringe-trimmed casement curtains, two sets at each window, were made by the youngster with mom supervising, and simple tiebacks were added to one pair at each window.

INSTEAD OF the usual twin-size bed or pair of beds, everybody voted for the swaying, hammock-style bed that suspends from the ceiling by stout nylon marine rope.

The father found a simple flush solid-core door and drilled holes in four corners for the husky knots. Then mother and daughter made and covered a thick foam pad as a mattress and added pillows and trimmings.

A zingy spring-green and pink palette color scheme cheers everyone on entry. Chairs and accessories help the scheme flower.

One final decorating trick was the use of an unpainted Parsons-type table that was covered with scraps of the wallpaper. The technique is easy. Paper is placed flat against the straight surfaces of top and legs (individual pieces for each leg and for the top). Then razor cuts were made to allow the paper to fold down or wrap around, much the way you wrap a package or gift box.

Once the paper is pretty much cut to fit the surfaces to be covered, spray adhesive can be used on each surface. When tacky, the paper should be pressed into position while air bubbles are smoothed out. It takes some experimenting, but anyone who has worked with the self-adhesive papers should learn easily.

Seminar Set In Politics For Women

A seminar on politics for California women will be held Friday through Sunday at the State Capitol in Sacramento.

Sponsored by the Sacramento Chapter of the National Women's Political Caucus, the seminar will consist of a series of workshops to develop and encourage women to become active in politics as candidates for office and as campaign organizers and managers.

Co-sponsoring the seminar are the American Association of University Women, the Soroptimists and Delta Gamma sorority.

Participants in the workshops will include elected women officials at all levels of state and local government, the Sacramento chapter announced. Among the participants will be Nancy Swadesh of Tiburon.

A guest speaker will be Ivy Baker Priest, state treasurer and the only woman holding a statewide elective office.

Registration may be made through the Sacramento NWPC, 1 Shoal Court, Sacramento or at the seminar.

MIRACLE MILE CRASH

The fender of this late-model car was torn after it smashed into a parked auto on Redhill Avenue in San Anselmo at 11:55 p.m. yesterday. Driver of the car, Robert Casey olcher, 17, suffered minor injuries but was not hospitalized. He was cited by San Anselmo police for reckless driving. Officers suspect the youth, of 87 Monte Vista Road, Fairfax, was drag racing at the time his auto hit the parked car at speeds estimated at between 60 and 80 miles per hour.

Video Tape In Novatan's Civil Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A civil trial went on television yesterday in the form of videotaped testimony taken earlier from witnesses in an experiment aimed at speeding up the court process.

Attorneys for the plaintiff and defense reviewed each tape before the trial and decided which parts should be seen by the jury, eliminating the sometimes lengthy arguments during a trial about admissibility of evidence.

The testimony of five witnesses was taped over a two-day period in July in a law college courtroom with a deputy county clerk swearing in the witnesses and neither judge nor jury present.

The case involved a $50,000 damage suit filed by Lillian Liggons, 34, of Novato, against George Hanisko, 50, San Francisco, because of a 1971 auto accident in San Francisco in which she broke both legs.

A jury of eight women and four men was hearing the case in Superior Court before Appellate Justice Robert F. Kane, who said he was named to preside "because of the special circumstances."

Four television monitors were placed in the courtroom, one on the judge's bench, two in front of the jury and one for spectators.

The experimental trial was being conducted by the National Center for State Courts under sponsorship of the federal Law Enforcement Administration.

"The objective is to speed trials. By videotaping, witnesses do not have to wait to testify or return to court due to trial delays or appeals. The jury and judicial system similarly save time," the center said in a statement.

It was the second time in California history that videotape was used in a trial. A witness at a Hell's Angel murder trial in March videotaped his testimony earlier because he was dying of throat cancer. The tape was played at the trial three days after his death.

Growing Split Seen In Soviet Hierarchy

LONDON (UPI) —The Soviet hierarchy has split over the policy of conciliation with the West and co-operation with the United States, according to influential East European sources.

The split is over the merits of the co-existence strategy of Soviet Communist party Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev and the price the Soviets should or can afford to pay for Western economic assistance.

Hardliners in the Kremlin who have been consistently cool to the policy of improving East-West relations reportedly have stepped up their militant opposition with warnings that it threatens to endanger the regime's hold on the home front and on allied Communist countries.

The other camp contends, according to the sources, that co-operation with the West, notably the United States, is vital if Moscow wants to narrow the gap with Western technology.

According to the informants "a very serious debate" is now in progress within the leadership that has Brezhnev standing fast by his policy. But the hardliners were said to be gaining ground. They claim that the "detente" will heighten Western attempts to interfere in Soviet internal policies.

Hardliners were said to take the line that if current trends are allowed to continue, the regime may be severely undermined, with intolerable consequences at home and abroad. They cite also the likely adverse impact on Communist regimes in East Europe, on liberation movements and on the world Communist movement whose control they still claim.

A clarion call has come from none less than party theoretician Mikhail Suslov, who recently told an important party meeting in Moscow that there can be no ideological coexistence between socialism and capitalism.

Treatment For Woman In Drug Case

A 28-year-old woman will not be prosecuted for drug charges, a Marin Municipal Court judge has ruled, while another woman arrested at the same time also may skirt prosecution.

Michele Elizabeth Parker, of no known address, was ruled eligible Thursday by Judge David R. Baty for treatment and rehabilitation rather than criminal prosecution.

A hearing for Carolyn Rae Marsh, 33, of Sausalito, will be Oct. 12 in municipal court. The Marin district attorney's office said she, too, appears to qualify for the diversion program, which funnels drug offenders to an education and treatment program.

Sausalito police arrested both women Aug. 2 when they raided Miss Marsh's apartment and found a marijuana plant, heroin and drug paraphernalia.

Main Figure In Stock Fraud Case Sentenced

NEW YORK (UPI) —Jack L. Clark of Oklahoma City, described by the government as the key figure in the nation's largest stock fraud case, yesterday was sentenced to one year in prison.

Federal Judge Thomas P. Griesa imposed the sentence on Clark after rejecting a defense plea that the defendant be placed on probation.

Clark, former board chairman and president of Four Seasons Nursing centers, pleaded guilty last June to one count of a 33-count indictment against him. He allegedly profited by $10 million in a scheme that the government said resulted in a $200 million loss to the investing public.

Clark, who will be eligible for parole in four months, could have received a maximum of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. No fine was imposed by Griesa.

Griesa, in what was considered an unusual move, limited the area of Clark's wrongdoing to the months of April, May, and June in 1970. The indictment alleged the fraud covered a period of 3-½ years.

Clark's failure to disclose the financial troubles of Four Seasons during this time, he said, allowed Clark to get a $4 million loan. During this time, the judge said, the public invested $8 million in Four Seasons unaware the company was in deep financial trouble.

But, Griesa said, "I have to reject in good conscience the suggestion by you and your counsel that this matter can be taken care of simply by probation."

Last month, a U.S. Attorney submitted a memorandum to the judge suggesting an appropriate punishment for "the key figure in the largest criminal stock fraud ever prosecuted."

"It is vitally important that the rich, the powerful and the influential not be given preferential treatment," U.S. Attorney Paul Curran said in his 23-page memo.

Mrs. Clark, who was in the courtroom with her two sons, wept when the sentence was pronounced and had to be assisted by her sons from the courtroom. Clark is scheduled to surrender Thursday to begin serving his sentence.

Closing Of Gas Pumps Forecast

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Many of the nation's service stations will be closed by the end of this year unless gasoline retailers are allowed to pass along cost hikes to customers, an appeals court was told yesterday.

Jerry Cohen, an attorney for the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers, said at least 40 per cent of the current service station operators would be out of business by the end of 1973, unless they can recover the cost increase. "They are losing a million dollars a day, as a class," he said.

The retailers argued in favor of an earlier U.S. District court ruling that would enable them to recover the cost hikes. The lower court had agreed that pricing regulations by the Cost of Living Council treated gasoline dealers differently from other small businesses. The court ordered the council to let the retailers pass through their cost increases.

The government, however, appealed the decision, arguing that gasoline prices had risen faster than other retail prices.

Government attorneys, in arguments yesterday, asked the appeals court to overturn the district court ruling.

Meanwhile, a group of 33 senators sent a letter to the council asking it to alter its Phase 4 rules to "ensure retails of an adequate price markup."

The senators said, "retailers have had to roll back prices from those in effect all summer, and have also been prohibited from passing through increased costs even though all other sectors of the oil industry may raise prices."

In another energy-related development, Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., said that because of scarce supplies of oil and gas, the nation urgently needs to start a crash program to discover new sources of energy.

"The fuel shortage is already serious in some areas of our country and it's predicted that it will get worse when the winter months come, particularly fuel oil for heating purposes," Talmadge said.

New Standards On Cuts Of Meats Are Being Initiated

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

What's the difference between a Delmonico and a Spencer steak? There is none and shoppers will be able to buy them both as "beef rib eye steak," although probably at higher prices.

The National Livestock and Meat Board announced plans yesterday for a new standard for identifying cuts of meat to reduce shopper confusion. The plan will reduce more than 1,000 names for cuts of beef, pork, veal and lamb to about 300.

So Delmonico and Spencer steaks, as well as filet steaks as they are called in some parts of the country, will be called "beef rib eye steak."

A Kansas City steak, which also is called a New York strip or club steak, will be labeled "beef loin, top loin steak."

But filet mignon still will be filet mignon.

The new system is voluntary and butcher shops will not have to go along with it.

David H. Stroud, president of the meat board, said "It may be the most significant meat counter improvement since the introduction of self-service nearly four decades ago."

No matter what a steak is called, its price is up. In Chicago Monday, the price of round steak in a major supermarket jumped 10 cents a pound, to $1.59. Lean hamburger was 98 cents a pound, up five cents.

Safeway stores in Los Angeles raised most beef prices an average of 10 cents because of "increased cost." Premium ground beef was $1.38 a pound, up 10 cents. But lamb dropped as much as 10 cents a pound.

"I'm just glad the government is out of the price setting business," Herbert Kramer, president of the Retail Grocers Association, said in New Orleans. "I think if they let our supermarkets just operate the way they are supposed to, on supply and demand, I'm sure that in a very short time this thing is going to settle out nicely."

Airline Quiet On Story Smith Ready To Return

NEW YORK (UPI) —American Airlines today refused to confirm or deny a published report that 74-year-old C.R. Smith, who headed the company in its vigorous early years, had agreed to return as chairman of the board.

The company reported however that a board meeting was scheduled for tomorrow.

Reports that Smith, a Texan who currently is a limited partner in the Wall Street firm of Lazard Freres & Co., had been asked to again take over control of the airline have been intermittent for the past three months.

Smith would replace George A. Spater, 64, chairman since 1969. Spater's position has been made difficult by American's losses and by his revelation last July that American had made an illegal $55,000 contribution to President Nixon.

American had a net loss of $33.2 million in the first seven months of this year. It has been piling up losses since 1970. The company's troubles have been attributed in part to over-estimating future revenues and overbuying jumbo jet airliners.

Smith, a hard driving executive, who joined American when it was a young company flying 10 and 12 passenger planes, left to become President Lyndon Johnson's Secretary of Commerce.

He started his career in Fort Worth as an accountant but learned to fly and got into aviation. He became president of American in 1934. During World War II he took a leave of absence and entered the Army Air Corps, rising to the rank of major-general.

Aldrin Admits Mental Illness

NEW YORK (UPI) —Former astronaut Edwin (Buzz) Aldrin Jr., the second man to walk on the moon, recovered from the mental illness he suffered after his 1969 lunar voyage because he was open and honest about his need for psychiatric help, he said yesterday.

Aldrin said he felt himself gradually slipping into periods of "devastating depression alternating with brief emotional highs" a year after his historic moon trip.

He was in town to publicize his new book, "Return to Earth."

MIXED-MEDIA SHOW — After a hard day at the office, it is nice to come home to relax. This split-level townhouse seems to suit the needs of James Clark's "spoon people" very well. Entitled "Taking It Easy," this sculpture and others by this artist are constructed from recycled wood, and are included in a four-artist group show together with works by Lauren Elder, Seth Seiderman, and Richard Waters at the Aragorn Gallery in Larkspur.

ART REVIEW

Unusual Talents Are On Display

By ADA GARFINKEL

Lauren Elder's skill, verve, and evocative imagination are strongly reminiscent of the Baroque painter, El Greco. Like him, Miss Elder floats her personifications of states of spirituality in vast and open space.

All of her metaphors — floating figures and feathers, sculptural doves, a red velvet monk's robe on an airborne blanket — are images which, according to Miss Elder, are akin to dreaming aloud, making poetry, or expressing a peak experience.

Miss Elder uses a laborious and methodical technique of glazing with colored pencils, pastel chalks, and watercolors which produces a rich textural chiaroscuro and a fine, formal harmony.

Seth Seiderman augments his natural-finish stoneware sculptures with white china clay which adds a stark color contrast and a "veiny" textural note.

In the world of surrealism, anything is possible, the essential ingredient being the juxtaposition of familiar objects in a new and unfamiliar plane.

As with the best of his predecessors, Clark's works are meticulously crafted and of a high order of imagination and sensitivity.

Clark's world is amiably occupied by "spoon" people — and objects — most of them live comfortably in glassed boxhouses complete with furniture and electric light. Clark's stick-people with spoon-like heads are fashioned from small wooden crates which are used for shipping mice to a research laboratory on the Peninsula.

Some of his stick-people are three-legged, others are twins. They have their hobbies, games, and fantasies. There is a stalking "Emerging Spoon Man," a Rube-Goldbergian "Marble Snatcher," and also "IXL." The latter two are intricately constructed mechanical devices with progression units which include a music box, a game device, moveable claw-like arms and legs. They await encounter with the viewer.

Pragmatic innovativeness, musicality, and a free-wheeling spirit motivate musician-artist Richard Waters' unusual musical instruments. His "Waterphones," for example, are partially filled with water to vary the levels of pitch and resonance. Of stainless steel or other metals, and coated with enamels of various colors, they are held in the hand and struck with a mallet against the upright tonal rods.

All of Waters' instruments are assembled from recycled materials. A "Revolving Phonium," for example, was originally a washing-machine drum. A "Tymphonium" looks like a horizontal slice of a plumber's pipe. The latter, when held at right angles to a wall or against a flat surface, and its tonal rods set in motion with a "Superball," emits a wide orchestration of electronic sound vibrations, as do also the "Waterphones" and "Revolving Phonium."

Waters also builds hand harps and door harps — the door acting as a sounding board when activated by loosely attached striker knobs.

Windchimes — some musical, others kinetic are also included in Waters' display of sculptural assemblages. No two are alike and each work doubles as a visual art object as well as a conveyor of sound or motion.

This exhibit will continue through Oct. 6 and may be viewed Tuesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. The gallery is located at 260 Magnolia Avenue.

Army Places Woman In Major Command

By EDWARD K. DeLONG

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Exactly one week from today, Lt. Col. Nancy Hopfenspirger takes command of the U.S. Army post in Wurzburg, Germany—the first woman to hold such a major Army command overseas.

In her new job Col. Hopfenspirger, a five-foot dynamo who has no fear of tackling tough assignments, will be in charge of a battalion-size group of Army men and women who maintain the base, where the Third Infantry Division is headquartered.

That, in itself, is a step away from the old Army—where men commanded men and women commanded women. But the low-key manner in which her assignment was handled tells even more about the new role of women in the new Army.

There was no public announcement of the assignment, although Army officials confirmed it had taken place when asked by United Press International. It was, Army officials said, handled as if it were entirely routine.

"We don't announce the assignments of male lieutenant colonels around the world," one officer said. "And we don't want to make a storefront commander — something unusual — out of this gal. We want her assignment to be treated the same as if a man had gotten the job."

Col. Hopfenspirger, 47, of Delmar, N.Y. , assumes her new command Sept. 25. A veteran of 22 years in the Army, her last assignment was as congressional liaison for Army headquarters.

She will be the second woman placed in command of a predominantly male unit overseas. The first, earlier this year, was Capt. Reba C. Tyler, whoommands the 48th AG Postal Detachment at Mannheim, Germany, a much smaller outfit.

Army officials are considering what role women should play in the Army of the future, although there has not yet been any serious move toward abandoning the separate Women's Army Corps.

All the services have been opening up new opportunities for women in the United States.

Five women, three from the Army, one from the Navy and one from the Air Force, hold key command positions over both men and women in the United States. And the Army a few weeks ago approved its first woman to enter flight training early next year.

Trial For Mitchell, Stans Reset

NEW YORK (UPI) —The perjury-conspiracy trial of former cabinet officers John Mitchell and Maurice Stans yesterday was reset for Oct. 23, but U.S. District Judge Lee Gagliardi, who will preside, left open the possibility of further delay.

The trial was originally supposed to begin six days ago, but Mitchell, former U.S. attorney general, and Stans, former commerce secretary, said they weren't ready and won a postponement. Both defendants are involved in the Watergate investigation, and their attorneys have also argued that Watergate publicity has made a fair trial impossible.

Mitchell and Stans were accused in a 16-count indictment May 10 of attempting to influence a Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) investigation of New Jersey financier Robert L. Vesco. The two defendants also were accused of lying to the grand jury which indicted them.

The government has said the two defendants, who resigned from their cabinet posts last year to run President Nixon's campaign for re-election, obstructed justice by trying to stop the SEC investigation of Vesco in exchange for a secret $200,000 campaign donation.

Mitchell and Stans have indicted they would prefer trial early next year in order to allow the Watergate publicity time to subside, and there were indications the Oct. 23 trial date might not stand.

Gagliardi said before that date, "I shall make a determination as to whether circumstances warrant any further adjournment of the trial date for reasons other than trial preparation."

Record Boss For Columbia, RCA Succumbs

GREENWICH, Conn. (UPI) — Hugo R. Winterhalter, former musical director for Columbia Records and RCA, died yesterday at Greenwich Hospital, Greenwich, Conn., after a long illness. He was 64.

Winterhalter was born in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., August 15, 1909, and studied at the New England Conservatory of Music. He began his career as an arranger for many of the big bands of the 1940s, including the Dorseys Tommy and Jimmy, Count Basie, Vaughan Monroe and Ray Scott.

In 1950, after a two-year stint as Musical Director for Columbia Records, Winterhalter moved to RCA, where he acted as musical director and conductor of the RCA studio orchestra until 1963.

Hunt Now Wants To Change Watergate Plea

WASHINGTON (UPI) —E. Howard Hunt Jr., the former CIA agent and spy novelist who pleaded guilty in the Watergate burglary, now wants to change that plea to innocent, saying it was "coerced" from him by "outrageous" government conduct.

Hunt's lawyers yesterday asked U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to allow him to change his plea and to dismiss the charges of conspiracy, burglary, bugging and wiretapping on which he is now serving a provisional sentence of 35 years in a federal prison at Danbury, Conn.

His attorneys argued that he should be allowed to change his plea because the government "suborned and concealed perjury," broke into his White House safe and destroyed evidence that might have helped him.

They also argued that the burglary and bugging of Democratic headquarters at the Watergate June 17, 1972, "flowed directly and lawfully from the President's office" and was justified by national security, or that Hunt at least thought it was and therefore lacked criminal intent.

In other developments:

—The Senate Watergate committee meets in private today to plan its next round of hearings beginning next Monday.

—Donald H. Segretti, a 32-year-old California lawyer, agreed yesterday to plead guilty to a new, four-count indictment in Florida, accusing him of conspiracy and illegal distribution of antiDemocratic campaign material.

—Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., said officials of the Treasury Department, which operates the Secret Service, invoked the doctrine of executive privilege and refused to "confirm or deny" to him a newspaper report that President Nixon's brother, Donald, was wiretapped by agents.

Hunt's petition, similar to one filed recently by four Miami defendants who also had pleaded guilty in the case, claimed that his constitutional rights "were violated by the outrageous conduct of the government in depriving him of valuable evidence."

It said two of his notebooks "disappeared" and cited the removal of papers from his safe and their subsequent destruction by acting FBI director L. Patrick Gray, along with false testimony which has been admitted by former aides Jeb Stuart Magruder and Herbert L. Porter.

Hunt's petition conceded he was "responsible" for planning the Watergate break-in. But it said he had been told by codefendant G. Gordon Liddy and others that the effort was approved by then Attorney General John N. Mitchell to seek evidence of campaign contributions to the Democrats from "foreign governments."

GOP Conference

A NEW HOME FOR AN OLD TREE

A towering crane lifts a palm tree from its former home under the Highway 101 underpass near Second Street to a flatbed truck (left), which hauled the tree a block away to its new location near the northbound Irwin Street off ramp, where it is replanted (right) as part of a city beautification project. The tree will soon be joined by a mission bell, freeway landscaping and a sign welcoming travelers to San Rafael, according to Andrew J. Snyder Jr., parks and recreation director. The project, which includes sidewalks and benches on Hetherton Street from Second Street to Mission Avenue, is being funded by the city and state Division of Highways.

Cycle Crash Critically Hurts Boy

A 10-year-old San Rafael boy was critically injured yesterday when he fell from his motorcycle while riding on a dirt hillside near his home.

Hugh J. Ferguson III, of 43 Mahogany Drive, remained unconscious today in the intensive care unit at Marin General Hospital according to a hospital spokesman.

Police said the Ferguson youth and a friend, 11-year-old Gregory Ruecker, were riding motorcycles on a hillside on Mahogany Drive at about 4:20 p.m.

The Ruecker boy told officers Hugh was driving down the hill and, apparently unable to stop, was thrown to the ground after riding over a large hump in the trail.

The boy's helmet was knocked off and the motorcycle struck his head twice as it rolled over him.

The boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. Ferguson.

Bales Charged By Quentin 6

In a flurry of last-minute motions filed yesterday, attorneys for six San Quentin inmates accused Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales of interfering with the Marin Grand Jury which indicted the convicts.

Although the motion leveling the charge at Bales was immediately sealed because it deals with the secret grand jury indictment process, sources said it charges Bales discouraged or prevented some grand jurors from cross-examining witnesses.

The San Quetnin Six, as they are known to supporters, are due to enter pleas Friday to murder and conspiracy charges arising from what was called an escape attempt at the prison in August 1971.

Other motions among several dozen filed include pleas that the inmates not be shackled during their trial; that they be under the custody of Marin deputy sheriffs instead of San Quentin guards, and that impartial observers watch them during recesses.

Superior Court Judge Henry J. Broderick is expected to set dates for arguments on the motions and for commencement of the oft-delayed trial on Friday.

Yet another delay could come if the U.S. Supreme Court decides to hear arguments by an attorney for one of the six, inmate Fleeta Drumgo, that he is entitled to a lawyer of his choice.

Attorney Richard H. Breiner said the court, which reconvenes Oct. 1, has asked California Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger to respond to Breiner's petition that Drumgo be permitted to select his own lawyer.

The court is expected to rule within 10 days on the question, said Breiner. If it backs Drumgo's contention, the San Quentin Six trial would be delayed once more.

Double Winner In Art Fair

Lenona Winter of San Rafael was a double winner in the annual Novato Fair Arts Show at the Novato Fair Shopping Center Saturday, according to show coordinator Vicki Nichols.

Mrs. Winter captured first place in both the water and acrylic competitions, winning out over artists from throughout the Bay Area.

Other first place winners were John Boyd May of Pinole, oils; Joseph Kasper of Napa, drawing; Jane Santucci of San Anselmo, batik; Julianna Cunningham of Inverness, photography, and George Breck of Sausalito, woodworking.

Resurface Project On Highway 101

The state Division of Highways is resurfacing southbound lanes of Highway 101 near Terra Linda today, tomorrow and Thursday.

The work, between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. each day, will require closure of one southbound lane through the work area.

Expanded Boat Channel Excavation Is Opposed

Marin County supervisors today appealed to Sonoma County supervisors to reject plans to expand excavation for a boat channel at the mouth of the Petaluma River.

Developer of the shoreline project, Shellmaker Inc., got a permit last Tuesday from the Sonoma County Planning Department to extend the existing 1,800-foot-long channel by another 200 feet and to add several turning basins.

As permitted under Sonoma County ordinance, the permit to excavate 360,000 cubic yards was issued by the staff without an environmental impact report. Marin County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney told the Marin supervisors today this exemption from such a report "would not stand up in court."

Today's unanimous action ratified an appeal filed Friday with the Sonoma supervisors by the chairman of the Marin board, Arnold M. Baptiste. Citizens in his district, which extends to the river bank opposite the project, have objected that Shellmaker plans massive development on its 113-acre property.

William Bowland Jr., chief executive of Shellmaker, told the Independent-Journal he will file plans for the marina "and allied businesses" today with Sonoma County officials. He previously dropped plans to seek industrial development of the site.

Bowland noted he also will need permits for the project from the Bay Conservation and Development Commission and Army Corps of Engineers. The excavated boat channel in the hay field still is diked off from the river.

James was the most frequently chosen name for boys in Britain in 1972.

Petaluma Seeks Defense Funds

Petaluma has asked for financial support from other California cities for legal defense of its controled growth policy.

The plan to limit development to 500 new living units per year is being challenged in federal district court by the Construction Industry Association.

Letters went out Friday to all cities and counties in the state asking for a contribution of $250.

"This is being done on the basis that the result, whether favorable to the city or not, will be of benefit to all cities, counties and public agencies in the state of California because it will give direction and guidance in the areas of planning, zoning and environmental considerations," the letter states.

"Because of the budgetary limit of Petaluma, a relatively small city, it is believed that the cost should be shared by all who will benefit."

The suit charges that the growth limitation plan violates the constitution since some persons may be denied the right to move toPetaluma. Cost of the city legal defense has been estimated at more than $100,000.

ELKS LODGE WILL HOST POLICEMEN

Law enforcement officers from throughout Marin will be guests of San Rafael Elks Lodge at the lodge's annual Law Enforcement Day program Thursday at 6 p.m. at its Maple Lawn clubhouse.

Speaker will be Deputy Atty. Gen. Edward P. O'Brien, who heads the criminal law division of the state attorney general's office. Warden Louis S. Nelson of San Quentin Prison will be master of ceremonies.

Members of the judiciary, attorneys, and members of private patrol and security organizations have been invited, as well as law enforcement officers, reported Walter S. Filler, program chairman.

Tam Trustees Adopt Hiring Guidelines

Tamalpais High School District trustees last night approved guidelines it will adopt Oct. 1 to eliminate discrimination in hiring district personnel and made no major changes in the personal.

The trustees last week rejected the Women's Task Force complaint of sexual and racial discrimination in the hiring of a dean of students for Redwood High School. The task force made no comment last night, but is to reply to trustees Oct. 1.

Edward J. Neumeier, administrative assistant for the district, said the guidelines require the district not only to consider all applicants equally in hiring but that it recruit members of groups, such as women and minorities, which are "under utilized in the district's work force."

The Tamalpais High School District Board also:

TIBURON — Directed the superintendent to inform the city of Tiburon that lands held by the district in the Reedlands area have not been declared surplus by the district and are not being considered for development at this time.

COMMITTEE — Said the board will name 15 members to the district citizen's advisory committee at its Oct. 1 meeting.

ENROLLMENT — Heard a report that district enrollment is down 195 students from enrollment estimates which may cause the district to lose some state funds.

SUBSTITUTES — Authorized a daily pay increase from $30 to $32 for substitute teachers.

BIDS — Asked for bids to replace the gymnasium floor at Redwood High School for an estimated $9,000.

AGREEMENT — Authorized the district to particiapte in the state Department of Mental Hygiene cross age mental health project in which high school students receive credit for working with younger students with mental health problems.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to Sept. 25 at 8:30 p.m. in the faculty lounge at Redwood High School to consider architects' estimates of cost of relocating the district's continuation school from rented quarters on Tamal Vista Drive in Corte Madera.

Jurors View Films In Obscenity Trial

Testimony began today in Petaluma on obscenity charges against a theater owner whose X-rated films, "Deep Throat" and "Behind the Green Door," have played to large crowds.

After Deputy Dist. Atty. J. Michael Mullins presented a brief opening statement the jury adjourned to the State Theater to view the films.

The jury selection process ended late yesterday with eight women and four men being seated, along with three alternate jurors.

Jury selection came after four days of intense questioning by attorneys on attitudes about obscenity laws and sexually explicit films.

The jurors represent a large age span and come from all parts of Sonoma County. Jurors include four Petaluma residents, three from Santa Rosa, two from Rohnert Park and one each from Cotati, Healdsburg and Cloverdale.

Alan W. Finley, owner of the State Theater in Petaluma, is charged with three counts of exhibiting obscene materials. The misdemeanor charge carries a maximum sentence of six months in the county jail and a $1,000 fine.

Southern Sonoma Municipal Court Judge Alexander J. McMahon excused several prospective jurors when they said they had formed definite opinions on pornographic films and could not disassociate their personal feelings about obscenity from the legal definitions.

Finley's attorney, Richard L. Chesney of Oakland, said his witnesses will include psychologists, psychiatrists and film critics.

Trial Of Trustee Is Near End

The jury trial of a Lagunitas School District trustee, charged with being on the College of Marin campus illegally, entered its second day today in Marin Municipal Court.

Richard C. Sloan, 38, is charged with violating the Mulford Act, which allows college officials to bar from campus those they think may cause trouble.

The eight-woman, four-man jury heard testimony yesterday that Sloan was told to leave the campus by Dean Irwin P. Diamond on Tuesday, May 9, 1972, after the two had clashed over a defaced American flag at an antiwar rally.

Sloan returned two days later and was handed a note ordering him to leave. He did so, but came back the next day on invitation of the student government and was jailed.

A key point in the case is the time which elapsed between Sloan's first warning on Tuesday and his arrest on Friday. The Mulford Act permits potential troublemakers to be barred for 72 hours, and conflicting testimony placed the elapsed time at between 71 and 74 hours.

Both sides agreed yesterday that Sloan caused no trouble on Thursday when he was given the note, so the beginning of the crucial 72 hours must be set on Tuesday.

The trial is expected to conclude today. San Anselmo attorney Carl B. Shapiro rested Sloan's case yesterday, and the prosecution is slated to present two rebuttal witnesses before the case goes to the jury.

If convicted of the misdemeanor, Sloan could be jailed for as long as six months and be fined up to $500.

Films Based On Plays Planned

The American Film Theater, a "national theater on film" program, will present eight new films based on famous plays at the Fairfax Theater in Fairfax.

One film will be screened each month through May, a spokesman said.

Credit Card In Robbery Recovered

A credit card belonging to a United Parcel driver robbed in Marin City yesterday turned up last night in the car of a man captured by San Francisco police, Marin County Sheriff's deputies7said.

According to deputies, driver Dennis Nick was taking a package to a residence in the area of 409 Drake Avenue when he was approached by two men, one of whom said he had a weapon under his coat.

The two took his wallet and fled at about 9:30 a.m.

At 5:30 p.m., San Francisco police said they stopped what appeared to be a stolen car in the Haight-Ashbury district and arrested Donald Duane Jones, 26, of 251 Drake, Marin City. Two other men fled the the car on foot. Among items found in the car, police said, was Nick's credit card.

According to San Francisco police, Jones was booked on suspicion of possessing stolen property and resisting arrest.

Hash Charges Are Dropped

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Hashish distribution charges against a man arrested last November during a drug raid on a Lagunitas residence were dismissed yesterday by Judge George B. Harris in U.S. District Court.

Thomas Harney, 21, address unknown, was one of seven persons arrsted in the raid by federal agents which came after a planned buy of a large quantity of hashish at San Francisco International Airport failed to materialize.

Four of those arrested have been sentenced and charges against another man were dismissed. One man jumped bail in March and is being sought on a warrant.

Ex-Prisoner On Honeymoon

ALAMEDA (UPI) — Navy Lt. Gary Lynn Thornton, who spent six years in a North Vietnam prison, honeymooned today with the former Playboy bunny to whom he proposed at the White House.

Mae Alice Fagundes, 25, and Thornton, 31, exchanged vows last Saturday at the Alameda Naval Air Station chapel with six other ex-prisoners attending the groom and ex-bunny Sharhla Zanami as maid of honor.

Thornton, a native of Porterville, Calif., met his bride while recuperating at the Oakland Navy Hospital when she visited a group of returned POWs. Later, he took her to a White House party for former prisoners and it was there he proposed.

No Threat Seen From New Storm

MIAMI (UPI) —Ships far out in the Atlantic early today reported tropical storm Ellen was small and in a position unfavorable for much further intensification.

The National Hurricane Center said the position of the storm, in the eastern Atlantic more than 1,000 miles from any land, was not expected to pose any threat to land in the near future, if at all.

Do You Want A BETTER DEAL On The SAME New Car?

All new car dealers have the same models, styles, colors and optional equipment on their new cars. What is the difference between dealers on the same make of car?

THE ANSWER IS IN THE COST OF DOING BUSINESS IN ONE AREA AS AGAINST ANOTHER

Marin County new car dealers have a much lower cost of doing business than the dealers "over the bridge." This is why your new car will cost less in Marin County. WHO DON'T YOU CHECK AND SEE!

Flournoy Formally States He'll Pursue Governorship

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Controller Houston I. Flournoy today formally announced his candidacy for governor, pledging if elected to carry on Gov. Ronald Reagan's "great" economies.

Flournoy, normally perceived as a Republican moderate, said he could attract Democrats, independents, young voters and minority groups in the fall election if the GOP will nominate him in the primary next June.

This "broad appeal" contention was sure to become a principal theme of his uphill campaign.

The 43-year-old former college professor announced his candidacy for the 1974 Republican gubernatorial nomination in remarks prepared for an airport news conference. Then he planned to embark on a whirlwind, four-day, 10-city campaign swing.

"My decision is made. I am firmly in this race. I am in it to stay. And I am in it to win," he said.

Flournoy thus became the first Republican gubernatorial contender to officially announce his candidacy with traditional political flare, featuring a series of news conferences around the state.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke said 4 ½ years ago—and has constantly repeated since—that he is a candidate. Attorney General Evelle J. Younger says he "intends" to formally become one. Former Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch has said he is "seriously considering" the race and, after having failed to meet several previous personal deadlines, now promises to decide by January.

Until recently there had been speculation Flournoy might run for the U.S. Senate or seek reelection as controller.

His relatively early formal announcement — nearly nine months before the primary election—was designed both to clear the political air regarding his intentions and to gain him badly needed public exposure.

A California Field Poll taken in early August showed Flournoy running sixth among potential contenders for the GOP nomination and last among Republicans when matched against Democrats.

One of Flournoy's major political problems has been the Republican party establishment, many of whose leaders regard him as too liberal to succeed the conservative incumbent governor.

Flournoy answered some of that skepticism last Friday when he endorsed Reagan's tax ceiling initiative, a move that surprised many moderates and liberals. And in his prepared remarks today, the controller said:

Government efficiency itself is vital. Our governor has made great progress in reducing the cost of government. I, too, intend to carry on that effort for economy."

Flournoy also said, "in order to win in 1974, it is essential that the Republican nominee for governor have broad appeal, have the ability to attract not only Republican votes, but Democratic and independent votes."

And in what many might consider a subtle reference to some of his GOP rivals, Flournoy added: "He must not be politically extreme, or politically weak or indecisive."

The former state assemblyman said that based on this criteria, plus "special appeal to youth," being able "to reach out to minority groups," and experience in both the legislative and executive branches of government, "I believe that I qualify to be the nominee."

In another guarded reference, presumably aimed at wealthy "kingmakers" who would handpick a compromise nominee in hopes of avoiding a bitter primary fight, Flournoy said: "The Republican party belongs to all the voters who have registered as Republicans. It's the private property of no one."

He pledged, "this will be an open campaign."

The controller, who in nearly 14 years of elected office has been untouched by political scandal, promised to release by Oct. 1 "a detailed and comprehensive list of all contributors to my campaign, and the amounts of those contributions. Nothing will be held back. Nothing should."

Flournoy released a detailed personal financial statement last Friday which showed he is worth $62,200.

The controller said he would "campaign on issues, not personalities or partisan ideology."

Two "significant issues," he said, are the "need to improve the quality of our educational system" and "how to protect, maintain and enhance our environment without sacrificing our high standard of living or creating an economic disaster." He had no immediate answers.

Waldie Opposes Idea Of Governor's House

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, who began his quest for the 1974 Democratic gubernatorial nomination with a low-cost campaign march up the California coast, says the governor makes enough money so that taxpayers should not have to buy him an official residence.

"I don't know why the governor ought to have a mansion. Let the governor buy his own house. We pay him enough. We don't buy houses for congressmen," Waldie yesterday told a luncheon meeting of the Sacramento Comstock Club.

The governor's salary is $49,100. As a member of the House of Representatives, Waldie earns $42,500.

The issue arose when Waldie was asked whether a new governor's mansion should be built on an isolated bluff along the American River or downtown near the Capitol. Reagan advocates the suburban river site and the legislature has appropriated $1.3 million for construction.

"I think we solve it by not building one," replied Waldie, who represents Antioch in Contra Costa County.

He said he preferred letting the state's chief executive live at his own expenses wherever he wished. "I'd probably live in Antioch," he said.

But the former state assemblyman said if there must be a showplace mansion as "public entertainment" for tourists, then it should be built downtown.

Waldie added he thought taxpayers should not have to furnish homes for college presidents either.

The congressman devoted most of his formal remarks to an account of his recent 33-day campaign walk from the Mexico border to the Santa Barbara mission.

"From the surf to the sand," Waldie said he found the biggest issue was legalization of marijuana.

The Democrat said he found during the trek that "the most vexing aggravation" among citizens toward President Nixon was not Watergate, but $900,000 in taxpayer-financed improvements to his private residence at San Clemente.

"They can't even get a loan to buy a $25,000 home," he said.

Waldie declared it was "incredible and inexcusable" that the Secret Service spent $13,000 for a railroad crossing at the Western White House beach.

On the Democratic gubernatorial primary, Waldie said Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. "is quite clearly the strongest" candidate. But Waldie predicted the race ultimately would narrow to Brown, San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto and himself, with Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti of Van Nuys and Sen. George Moscone of San Francisco dropping out.

Today is Tuesday Sept. 18, the 261st day of 1973 with 104 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

British poet Samuel Johnson, writer of the first English dictionary, was born Sept. 18, 1709.

On this day in history:

In 1850, the Fugitive Slave Act was passed by Congress, allowing a slave owner with a certificate to reclaim any slave who escaped into another state.

In 1851, the New York Times was published for the first time.

In 1928, it was estimated that 4,000 persons had been killed and $30 million damage caused by a devastating hurricane which had lashed Florida and the West Indies for five days.

In 1961, U.N. Secretary Gen. Dag Hammerskjold was killed when his plane crashed in northern Rhodesia.

A thought for the day: American poet Walt Whitman said, "Once fully enslaved, no nation, state, city of this earth ever afterward resumes its liberty."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, no reading.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Definition Of Tooth Splinting Varies From Dentist To Dentist

G.W.P. writes: "Three dentists (including my own, who recently retired) have given me three definitions of dental splinting with a $1,500 price tag for six front teeth. If this is the only way to save my precious ivories, I'd like to learn more about it. Dentistry is not exactly your field, but I'd appreciate your help. I'm at a loss and very nervous."

The answer turned up in Dr. Sydney Garfield's book, "Teeth, Teeth, Teeth" (Simon and Schuster, New York). He defines splinting as . . . "the joining of teeth together so that they mutually support each other." The procedure is needed by people with periodontal disease, in which the teeth are decayed and loosened because infection has separated the tooth from the surrounding bones and gums. In other words, the tissues that hold the teeth in place are eroded and the structures must be reinforced.

ACCORDING TO Dr. Garfield, there are many types of dental splints, and I assume that it is here that the costs vary. The simplest is wiring the wobbly teeth together. At best, it is a temporary procedure because, unless the cause is corrected, the teeth will loosen after the wires are removed.

Temporary relief also can be obtained with splints made from soft plastics that harden around the teeth. Removable appliances of this type also are available.

The best splints also are the most expensive. Fixed splints are excellent, but they usually require a dentist who specializes in this technique. The teeth are treated as a single rigid unit, consisting of new crowns or jackets that surround or cover each tooth. The teeth look natural and separate, even though they are joined together and can be made to support and replace missing teeth.

EACH JACKET covers all the crown and exposed root to the gums. In addition to being cosmetically attractive, the jacket can be shaped to deflect food for maximum hygiene.

Splinting is only one phase of preserving teeth endangered by periodontia. Surgical techniques also are available, but there is no substitute for keeping the teeth clean and visiting the dentist regularly.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

NIGHT PAIN

Mrs. D. writes: Could chest pain that wakes you up at night be due to gall-bladder inflammation?

REPLY

Yes, but there are better possibilities, depending upon the location of the pain. Gallbladder distress usually is noted in the upper right abdomen.

'CHANGE' AT 35

Mrs. S. G. writes: Could the menopause at age 35 be due to rheumatic fever in childhood?

REPLY

DIABETIC KIN

A reader writes: Why is it that many diabetics have no known relative with the disease?

REPLY

Because diabetes often develops late in life and the family history is marred when the individual is killed or dies before the diabetes develops. In addition, mild diabetes often escaped detection years ago.

Rotary Engine May Someday Be Made In U.S.

CLEVELAND (UPI) —The rotary engine Mazda may someday be built in the United States, according to Vice President and General Manager C.R. Brown of Mazda Motors of America.

Brown told a meeting of sales and marketing executives yesterday that there are no definite plans for a Mazda plant in the U.S. "at this time," but such a move might be made after 1978.

Sales of the Japanese-built car in the U.S. have grown from 20,000 units in 1971 to 57,000 last year and an estimate of 130,000 has been made for this year.

He'll Remember To Check Time

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —A 31-year-old man from North Carolina had only been here a short time and he learned something yesterday — the hard way.

At 9:40 a.m. Benny Melton donned a stocking mask, pulled out a revolver and rushed the door of a Bank of America branch office, attempting to jar it open with his shoulder.

The door didn't give and Melton bounced back into the arms of a security guard, who had been watching in his car as he waited to come to work.

"In North Carolina the banks open at 9 a.m.," said a confused Melton.

They open at 10 a.m. in Los Angeles.

Hearing Scheduled On Purse Snatch

A preliminary hearing for two Richmond men charged with grand theft will be Monday in Marin Municipal Court.

Nelson Cloude Thomas, 27, and Larry Dobie Young, 24, are said to have snatched a purse from an 87-year-old woman in downtown San Rafael Sept. 10. Both have pleaded innocent.

Baptiste Urges Limits On Building

Marin County should join Novato in limiting the number of new dwelling units built annually to make the new County General Plan work, Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste urged last night.

He spoke on the population and other issues as chairman for a forum designed to acquaint North Marin citizens with the many county commissions and boards that represent them.

Unless the county takes a firm stand on limiting the building rate, voters will oppose sewer bonds, school bonds, "you name it," because of the fear of population growth, Baptiste said.

Baptiste, who represents North Marin as chairman of the board of supervisors, also called for Novatans to approve a flood control bond issue in November and to take steps to preserve open space.

"It's almost disgusting and degrading to see the flooding every year" that is a hardship on some Novato residents, Baptiste said. "If there's anything I've been totally frustrated with," it's been the flood control problem, he added.

"People look at our hillsides and feel comfortable it will always remain that way," he said of open space. "We need every tool available" from outright purchase through protection of open space by zoning and easements, he added.

He predicted that public ownership of the 350-acre Deer Island area could be secured for $650,000 and called for action on open space needs on Mount Burdell and the Loma Verde area, as well as the Ygnacio wildlife sanctuary proposed east of the Marin County Humane Center.

Baptiste also summarized the supervisors' role in county government and introduced more than 20 speakers. They described 12 commissions and advisory boards appointed by the supervisors, ranging from youth and human rights commissions through the county retirement board.

The commissioners, all citizens serving as public volunteers, almost outnumbered the audience of about 30 persons including families of several of the speakers.

One member of the audience at San Marin High School wryly pointed out that yesterday was "citizens day."

One speaker, Irving Perlman, chairman of the Marin County Housing Authority, asked Leroy J. Syrop, chairman of the Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission what his group planned to do about juvenile crime in Marin City.

"If there are problems, it's up to the people to present them to us," Syrop said. "We can only respond if we know the problem." The commission's in-depth survey last year of Marin delinquency, he added, "didn't pinpoint Marin City as a juvenile high crime area."

Oratorio Choir Auditions Planned

The Oratorio Choir of Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary will be open to membership from the public this year and auditions may be arranged through the school, according to Dr. John P. Johnson, music director at the seminary.

The choir was opened to the public for the first time last year. The group, which begins rehearsals Oct. 8, will perform Handel's "The Messiah" in December and will also give a spring concert.

Tympanist Will Give Demonstration

Elayne Jones, tympanist of the San Francisco Symphony, will present a demonstration and concert of percussion instruments at 2 p.m. Friday at the Alumnae Hall at San Domenico School in Sleepy Hollow.

Skylab 2 Team In Final Week

HOUSTON (UPI) —The Skylab 2 astronauts began their last week on the job today, taking pictures of Earth's natural resources across the central United States.

Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma also gazed at the sun with the last unused frames of film in their array of solar study instruments.

"It's too bad we don't have a few weeks more and another roll of film," Garriott said Monday, pausing between chores. "Maybe we'd have a few weeks of good activity." The sun was relatively quiet as expected, as it had been last week, and Garriott, a solar scientist, was thinking about the week before when the burning star was exploding with energy.

Bean has pleaded throughout the two-month mission with flight controllers to let the three space pilots extend their mission, but officials ruled they would splash down as planned, a week from today in the Pacific Ocean. The officials kept the schedule that way to have accurate medical data on the crew after a record of two months in weightlessness.

But the Japanese islands were "socked in" by clouds, the astronauts said, and they believed they took only a very few good pictures.

The orbiting researchers also photographed a swath of the eastern United States, The Atlantic Ocean and Europe, gathering data on natural resources, but still had to operate without one of their sensing devices. The antenna on the device, which measures heat from Earth, has malfunctioned and will have to be repaired by the next space station crew, set to fly to the 118-foot long lab beginning Nov. 11.

Flight controllers promised they would try to improve the performance of a private communications line the spacemen use for talks with their families, after Bean said he thought the continuing problems with the line had been "an unprofessional way to operate in the space business."

Bean got a phone call with his wife through last night, but Lousma was unsuccessful because of more complications with the line.

Syrian Takeover Plan Tipped Off

BEIRUT (UPI) —Jordanian authorities tipped off President Hafez Assad of Syria about a plot aimed at overthrowing his regime during the past few months, the Beirut newspaper An Nahar said today.

The An Nahar report, datelined Cairo and quoting "informed Egyptian sources," said:

"Syria's decision to reconcile with Jordan was partly out of gratitude for a favor by Jordan.

"A few months ago, the Jordanian intelligence received information about a plot to overthrow the regime of Assad. A high-ranking Jordanian intelligence official visited Damascus and handed Assad a list of names of the conspirators."

The An Nahar report did not say when the plot was to be carried out and whether the alleged plotters were arrested.

Town Meeting Topics Given

Four topics will be considered at San Rafael's second town meeting Oct. 13 in Terra Linda High School, the town meeting association announced yesterday.

The format will include a brief introductory meeting at 9 a.m. followed by four discussion sessions: redevelopment, open space, limited growth, and neighborhood pet peeves, according to Richard C. Fox, town meeting publicist.

After discussion on each topic is completed, residents may remain to discuss the other topics, he said. The format will allow residents to discuss matters of concern in small groups, he noted.

Joint Sessions Set In Fairfax

The Fairfax Planning Commission, park and recreation commission and design and environmental review board will meet in joint session at 8 p.m. Sept. 25 to discuss plans for a new police and fire facility, according to Town Administrator Robert E. Crowe.

The meeting will be held in the Fairfax Women's Club.

Senate Panel Approves Kissinger Confirmation

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved Henry A. Kissinger's nomination as secretary of state today. The vote was 16 to 1, with Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S. D., casting the lone dissenting vote.

The action cleared the way for Senate confirmation of Kissinger later in the week.

The committee endorsed Kissinger after a week of hearings dominated by questions about his role in national security wiretapping and the concentration of power in his hands when he enters the Cabinet while retaining his role as chairman of the National Security Council.

McGovern said he voted against Kissinger as a "symbolic protest" against administration policies in Indochina.

Several members contended that Kissinger's dual role as secretary of state and as a White House adviser would make him the single most powerful man in the government next to the President.

But the committee chose to support him on Kissinger's assurances that he will consult fully with Congress on major foreign policy decisions and not use his White House post as an excuse for claiming executive privilege when he testifies on Capitol Hill.

The committee —after sending a two-man delegation to examine a secret FBI file — satisfied itself that Kissinger's part in the wiretapping controversy was not a bar to his confirmation.

Sens. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., and John Sparkman, D-Ala., a subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, reported to the full panel yesterday on Kissinger's part in the wiretapping of 17 newsmen and government officials.

"In the circumstances ... the subcommittee is of the opinion that Dr. Kissinger's role in the surveillance was not such as to bar him from confirmation by the Senate," the two senators said.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Great movie actress — Helen Hayes could be enjoying retirement at her rural home at Nyack, N.Y. But this "First Lady of the Stage" isn't comfortable in a rocking chair. Soon to be 73 (on Oct. 10), she comes back this fall on NBC's Wednesday Mystery Movie in the "Snoop Sisters," a comedy-detective series. The widow of Charles MacArthur, newspaperman, she is proud their adopted son, James MacArthur, has carved out a successful career for himself starring on TV's "Hawaii Five-O" series. Helen got her start at 5 in "The Royal Family." Later she played "Victoria Regina" and the Dowager Empress in "Anastasia." Few realize this woman who impersonates tall stately queens is only five feet tall and weighs a mere 105 pounds.

Who's Pisces? (Feb 19-Mar 20): People watch you on TV irritating your best friend. Yes, neatness counts but you're much too tidy. You're driving your friend mad, son! Pick up your ex-wife instead of the rocks your marriage landed on. You won't win an Oscar the way you're acting. (Answer: See below)

Famous birthdays today (Sept 18): Test your knowledge of great people born today. Answer true or false.

1 — EDDIE ANDERSON, 68 today, Oakland-born comedian, is best known as the hoarse-voiced "Rochester," valet and chauffer to Jack Benny.

3 — SAMUEL JOHNSON, 18th century scholar, can thank James Boswell for taking down and publishing much which has made him famous.

Defense Must Never Give Declarer Absolute Certainty

A naive defense allowed South to make his contract easily. Good defense would have put South to the guess. It's all very well to say that South might guess correctly anyway; nothing is gained by giving declarer an absolute certainty.

LUCKY CHOICE

West opened the ten of hearts, a very lucky choice. South held off until the third round, but finally had to take his ace of hearts.

Declarer then led the queen of clubs for a finesse, losing to East's king. East cashed the last heart, and West discarded a club. East then returned a club, leaving it up to South to develop his own tricks.

South ran his clubs, forcing West to discard. West saw that his diamonds could not possibly win a trick. His queen of spades, he thought, might be worth something. Hence West discarded his three low diamonds.

This was just the information that South needed. South took the king of diamonds in dummy, then finessed with the jack of diamonds, making his game contract.

HOW TO DISCARD

West can afford to discard one spade at an early stage. By this time he knows that South has a five-card club suit and the ace of diamonds. (If East held the ace of diamonds, he would have taken it.)

South can surely win four clubs, two diamonds, one heart and one spade. If South also has the king of spades, the contract is unbeatable.

KING IN EAST

West must therefore take it for granted that his partner has the king of spades. Therefore West can afford to discard a second low spade and only then a low diamond. This method of discarding forces South to guess which opponent has the queen of diamonds — and if South guesses wrong, he loses the game contract.

Go, Go Offense, Say Shriners

The trend in professional football has put the emphasis on defense and a strong running game. It's like the old days, when winning teams used the simple formula: "Three yards and a cloud of dust."

It is paying off in the win-loss column, but is taking too much of the excitement from the game. From the spectator's standpoint, it's much more exciting to watch a 25-yard pass play than to see some brute of a fullback smash through the center of the line three times to get 10 yards and a first down.

LYNN (PAPPY) WALDORF

The Shriners who are responsible for putting on the East-West football game each year in Candlestick Park want to make sure this doesn't happen to this game.

The Shriners got off to an early start for the Dec. 29 game by putting on a kickoff Luncheon yesterday in San Francisco. John Troxel, chairman of the East-West executive football committee and potentate of Islam Temple, said the stress of the 1973 game will be on offense.

LYNN (PAPPY) WALDORF, the man in charge of picking the players for the West team, told the gathering of press people that in all his talks with the West coaching staff, headed by Houston's Bill Yeoman, he has emphasized the need for offense in this game.

Last year the East won the Shrine game, 9-3 in a game in which only one touchdown was scored. The Shrine people got tired of seeing so many of the fans trying to stifle yawns. About the only spectators who were turned on by the lack of offensive fireworks were the NFL coaches and scouts who were eyeballing many players who would fit perfectly into the new NFL mold.

Nothing has been decided for sure, but the East-West people are considering changing some of the rules, one of which would have the trailing team receive the kickoff regardless of which team scores.

That would make it difficult for a team to run the other off the field, but it wouldn't help score touchdowns. To do this, there would have to be some tinkering with the defenses, such as prohibiting zone defenses and blitzing linebackers. Or they could go so far as tying an arm behind each of the members of the defensive team.

AT LEAST IT IS comforting to know that the East-West people are trying to do something to juice up the offensive part of this all-star game. It would be a shame if they fell into the trap of the conservative game as practiced by the play for pay boys.

Troxel said the Shrine committee was also working hard to increase the attendance for the game which went from 31,000 in 1971 to 40,000 in 1972. The goal for '73 is 50,000. This would be quite an attendance since the game will again be televised nationally by the Hughes Sports Network, with no blackout, regardless of the number of seats sold.

Oakland Raider defensive tackle Art Thoms, who played in the East-West game in 1968 as a representative of Syracuse University, was a special guest at the luncheon meeting and brought along his four-year-old son, Art III. Thoms recalled some of the stars he played alongside of in the '68 game, pros Joe Greene, Ron Johnson, Gene Washington, Ted Kwalick, Bill Enyart and Thoms' own teammate, offensive guard George Buehler.

AND THOMS WAS truthful when he said the players realized a good showing in this game was a stepping stone to the pros. "They are hitting hard for a good reason, in addition to helping the kids." Yes, they enjoy playing to help the crippled youngsters of the Shriners' hospitals, but they aren't forgetting their chance to fatten their wallets.

So far the East-West games have contributed more than $7 million to the Shriners' hospitals for crippled children. That's good reason the games should continue to be a success.

OVER BLACKOUT LAW

Edge Of Bitterness Among NFL Owners

NEW YORK (UPI) —National Football League clubs say they're making every effort to comply with the new nonblackout law, but there still was an edge of bitterness creeping into the football fraternity today.

The fact that 1,801 ticket holders did not show for the Minnesota Vikings-Oakland Raiders game at Bloomington, Minn., Sunday was expected by Vikings officials.

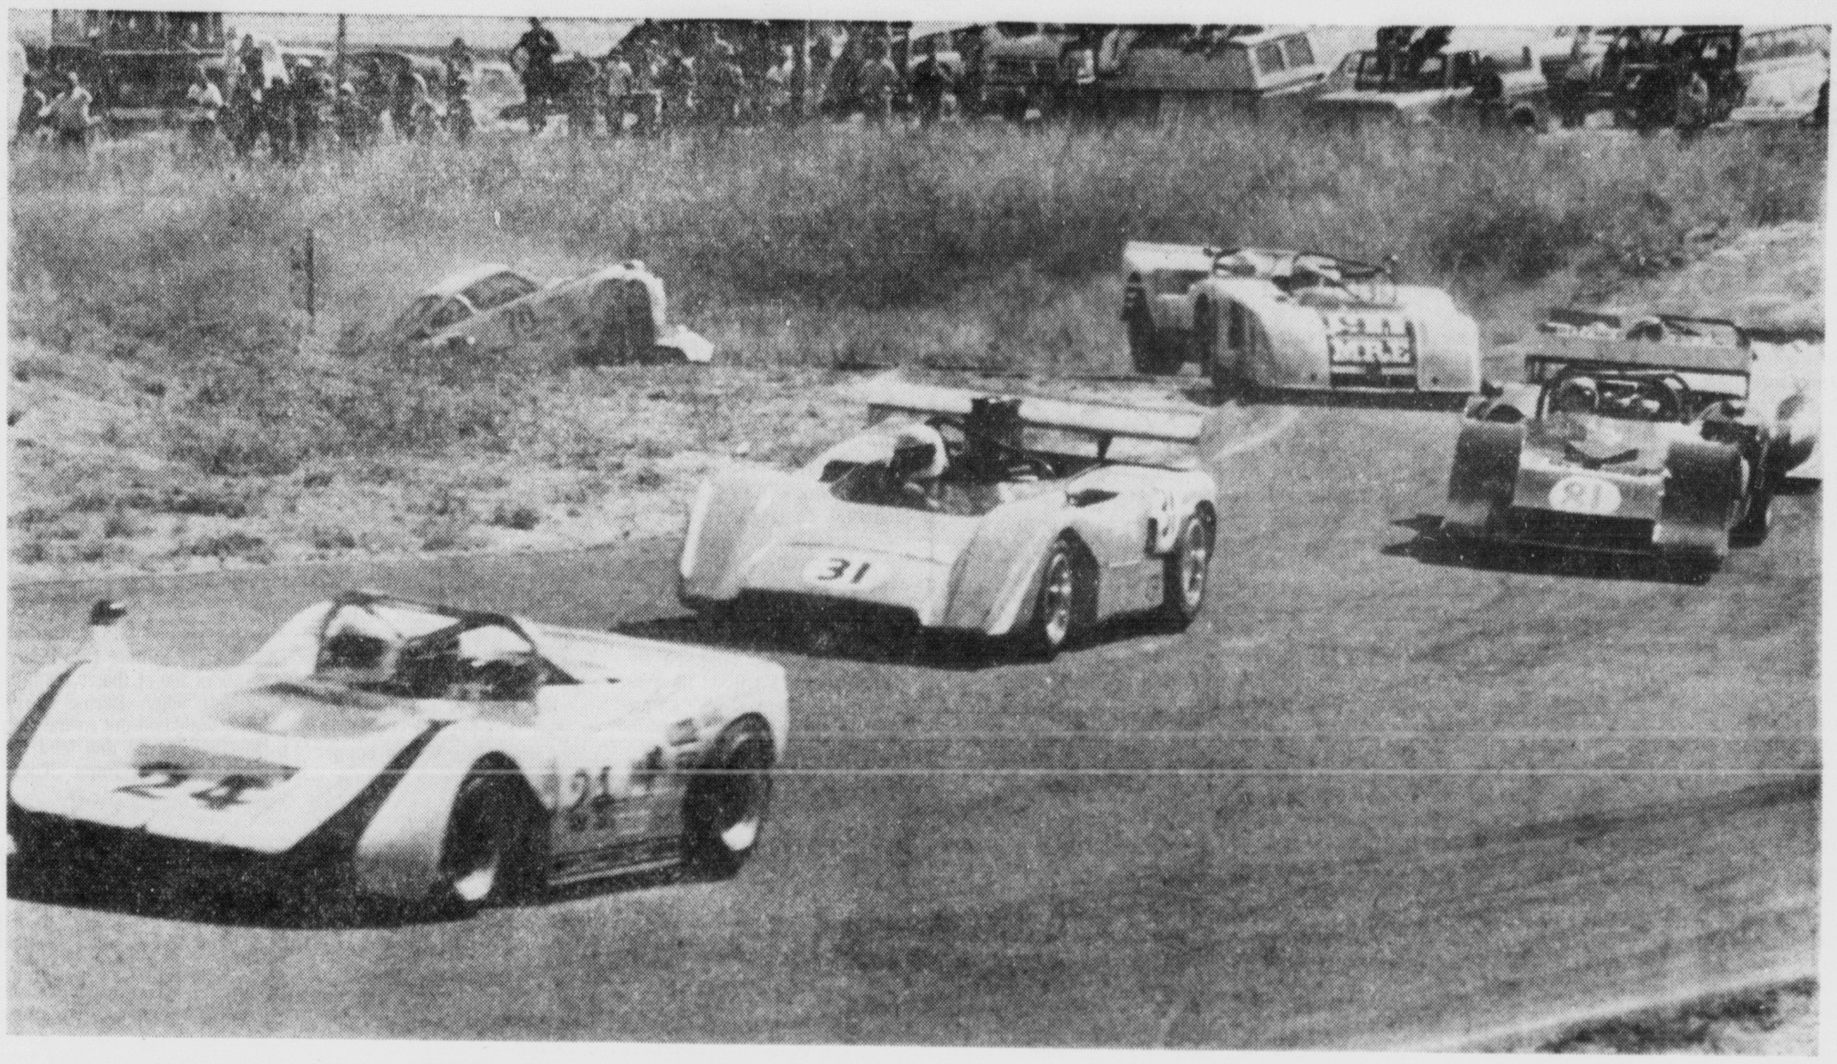

"This was average for our home games in the early season," said a Viking spokesman. "But the 'no-show' situation is bound to increase as the weather worsens."

There have always been noshows at NFL games, but many clubs have arbitrarily set their official sellout figure below the actual number of seats available because many seats have either an obstructed view or are situated in bad areas.

The Kansas City Chiefs said all clubs were told by Commissioner Pete Rozelle to say they were completely sold out if just a few seats were available.

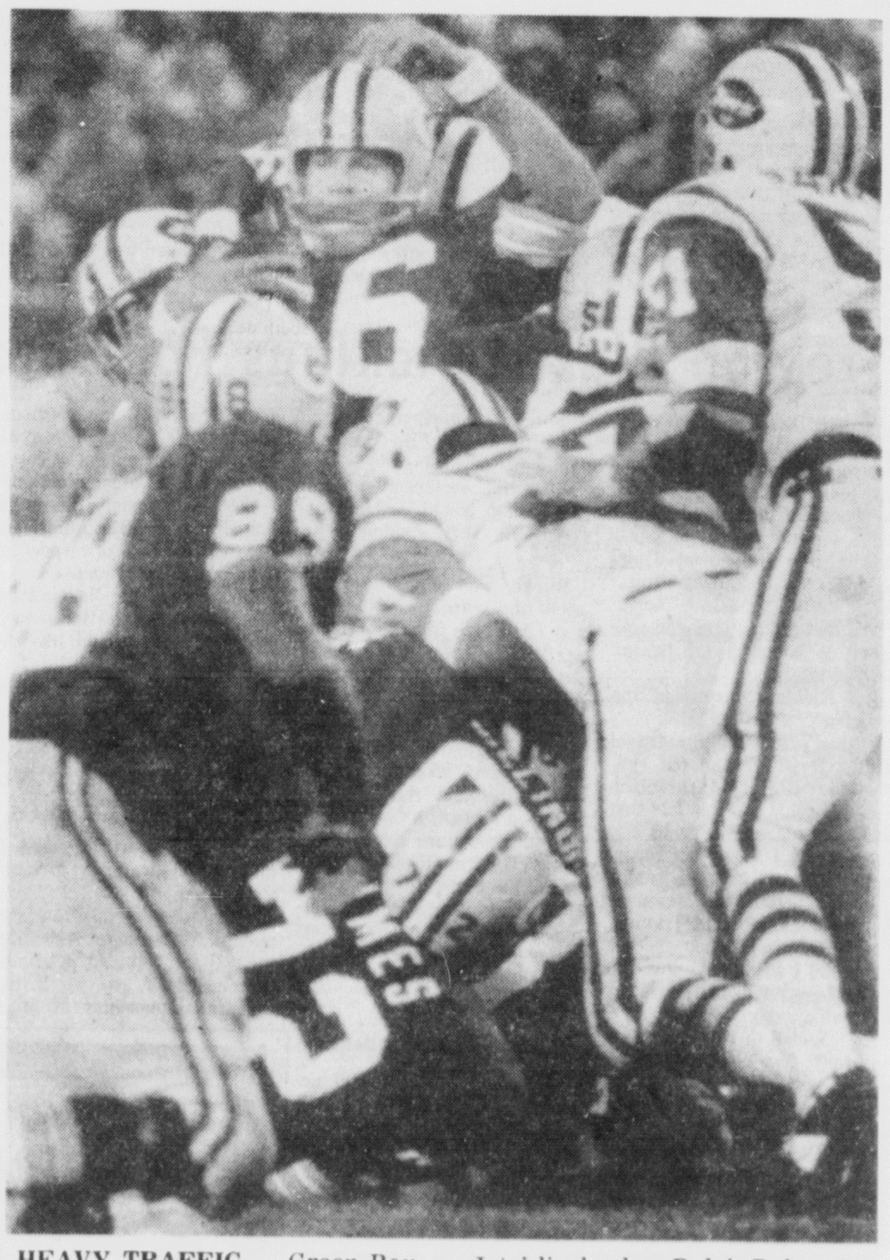

There were a few unsold seats when the Los Angeles Rams played at Kansas City Sunday. In actual attendance, however, the Chiefs said that rain and cold weather kept

While cars zipped around the second turn during the third race Sunday at Sears Point International Raceway, Robert Harmon of San Francisco in car number 70 switched from competitor to spectator. Harmon had spun out and ended up on the dirt inside the asphalt track. Car number 24, a Porsche driven by G. W. Wright of Redondo Beach, shown leading the field, was the eventual third race winner, both overall and for Class A Sports Race. HEAVY TRAFFIC — Green Bay Packer quarterback Scott Hunter (16) was surrounded and dropped last night by a bevy of New York Jet defenders after running up the middle for a first down in the second quarter at Milwaukee. Jets' linebacker Ralph Baker (51) and Packer tight end Len Garrett (88) closed in on the play during the National Football League opener for both clubs. The Packers won, 23-7.

Namath Gains No Consolation

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The New York Jets narrowly averted their first shutout in two years last night but a determined Green Bay Packer defense prevented Joe Namath from enjoying that small consolation.

The Packers, rolling to a 23-7 victory in the season opener, dogged Namath for almost the entire game before Broadway Joe finally yielded to reserve Al Woodall, who took the Jets over the goal line on a 17-yard pass to rookie David Knight with 33 seconds left in the game.

"Man, after that first drive, those cats really came on," Namath said of the Packer defenders who sacked him three times for 35-yards and intercepted one of his 32 passes.

Namath finished with 16 completions for 203 yards but time after time was unable to sustain a drive long enough to

Lucky A's Get All Breaks In Victory

Angels Succumb In 13th

OAKLAND (UPI)—They say only the good baseball teams are lucky.

That never was more obvious than last night when the Oakland A's, now in the countdown stage toward locking up their third straight American League West title, got all the breaks in a 13 inning, 3-2 victory over the California Angels.

Rudy May, who has had a little bad luck along the way during the 1973 season, never was unluckier as he suffered his 15th defeat compared to seven victories.

The A's scored a gift run off him in the fifth and another in the eighth to send the game into extra innings with the A's winning it on a bases-loaded walk to Bert Campaneris.

A three-base throwing error by Rudy Meoli on a smash to short by Angel Mangual set up Oakland's fifth-inning run which Ray Fosse delivered with a sacrifice fly.

Then in the eighth, after the Angels had gone ahead 2-1, the A's got lucky again. Sal Bando hit a line drive to left on which Ken Berry fell and it went for a double. A sacrifice and a sacrifice fly by Joe Rudi got Allan Lewis, running for Bando, across for the tie.

Jose Morales singled leading off the 13th and John Odom, running for him, went to second on a wild pitch and to third on an infield out. The Angels walked both Fosse and pinchhitter Deron Johnson intentionally to fill the bases and Bill North flied out.

But May walked Campaneris to end the 3 hour, 14 minute game.

It was the A's fourth straight victory and their sixth in the last seven and it gave them a 7½ game lead over Kansas City with 13 left to play, thus reducing the title clinching magic number to six.

Dodgers Are Not Giving Up Chase

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was after the Los Angeles Dodgers had dumped San Francisco and Dodger manager Walt Alston was asked if he'd heard that Cincinnati had lost to Houston.

"It's something I haven't heard much lately," he said after the 7-2 win last night. Only the Dodgers' fourth in their last 17 games.

"But I don't think anyone of this club is ready to give up."

The win still leaves the Dodgers 5½ games behind the Reds in the National League's Western Division but, perhaps more significantly, it improved their shaky hold on second place to three full games over San Francisco. The Giants trail the Reds by 8½.

Tonight at 8 o'clock the Dodgers try to improve their advantage over the Giants another notch when Tommy John, 13-7, starts against the Giants' Juan Marichal, 10-13.

Don Sutton won his 17th game, giving up eight hits but only three over the first seven innings.

"He pitched a great game," Alston said of Sutton, and he was probably overthrowing in the seventh when he still had the shutout and struck out Willie McCovey and Dave Kingman.

Sutton's chances of winning 20 games, something he's never managed in eight seasons with the Dodgers, appear remote. He has two starts remaining but could get a third if Alston alters his rotation in the final 11 games.

Sutton had missed two starts following his last win on Aug. 26 in Philadelphia when he had to leave the game prematurely because of a stiff right shoulder. He had started twice since then, losing one and getting no decision in the other.

"We've still got an outside chance," he said of the Dodgers' chances against the Reds rather than his against winning 20.

Sutton was backed by a 12-hit attack which included Willie Davis' 16th homer and first since Aug. 23.

Sutton got into it, too, with two singles and also drove in a run. That was in the fourth inning when the Dodgers had one run in and runners at second and third with only one out.

Los Angeles put it out of reach with a four-run fifth inning that included Davis' bases-empty homer.

ON WILT'S FUTURE

Smith Swap May Prompt Decision

INGLEWOOD (UPI) — It was just a few short weeks ago that Jim McMillian, the Los Angeles Lakers' skilled fourth-year forward, was asked what the National Basketball Association team would be like without its superstars—Wilt Chamberlain and Jerry West.

"In a way the future worries me," McMillian said. "It certainly won't be the same when Jerry and Wilt are gone."

Today the 25-year-old McMillian, a first round draft pick from Columbia in 1970, was on his way to the Buffalo Braves after being dealt for 7-foot-1, 250-pound center Elmore Smith.

Yesterday's straight player trade increased speculation that Chamberlain once the game's most awesome star, might be going to accept a multimillion dollar offer to jump leagues and join the American Basketball Association's San Diego Conquistadors as a playercoach.

There was also some talk that the trade might have been a concession to West, who was criticized in Chamberlain's new book, "Wilt: Just Like Any Other 7-Foot Black Millionaire Who Lives Next Door."

But a Lakers club spokesman denied the deal was in any way connected with the status of West, who is attempting to renegotiate the second year of his two-year, $600,000 contract. Also not reporting to the Lakers' camp, which opened last week, has been Chamberlin and swingman Keith Erickson.

"I have absolutely no comment on the trade," said West.

Chamberlain, who led the team to its first NBA championship in 1972 and was the Most Valuable Player when the club was beaten in the final series this year by the New York Knicks, has been playing under a one-year, $500,000 pact.

He has been with the team since 1969, but in recent years has been an unknown quanity around contract time, threatening more than once to retire from basketball.

The Lakers don't know if he's going to sign another contract, the club spokesman admitted.

"We have no idea what Wilt is going to do," he said. "We're thinking of the future as well as the present. Let's face it, we had to protect ourselves. Wilt is 37, not under contract, is considering an ABA offer and has various other interests.

"We just can't sit on our thumbs. The trade for Smith, who is capable of holding his own at center in the NBA is going to force Wilt into some kind of decision."

What the Lakers are getting in the 24-year-old Smith is a strong defenseman and rebounder, who says he doesn't care if Chamberlain signs or not—he wants to be the team's No. 1 center.

"I'm thrilled to death coming to Los Angeles," said the third-year center from Kentucky State. "I feel this team can go all the way this season and I want to play a part in its success.

"I'll be trying as hard as possible to win the starting center position."

Not having reported to Buffalo because of contract problems, Smith was on hand for the Lakers' morning practice yesterday. He will play in Los Angeles' exhibition opener against Golden State at Santa Barbara, Calif. tonight.

Smith became expendable in Buffalo when the Braves signed rookie center Kevin Kunnert, another 7-footer, to a contract, after he was acquired in a trade with Chicago.

McMillian, who Laker general manager Pete Newell called "one of the best forwards in the NBA," averaged 18.9 points a game last season. His fluid movement on the court enabled him to take over for the fabled Elgin Baylor just before he retired and be the Lakers' starting forward the last two seasons.

THURSDAY NIGHT

King Is Confident For Riggs Battle

HOUSTON (UPI)—Billie Jean King, confident she is in peak mental and physical condition for her $100,000 winner-take-all tennis match with Bobby Riggs, accepts his flamboyant self promotions, but wants no part of them on the court Thursday night.

"Up to the point of the match I am for how much show biz there is," the five-time Wimbledon champion said last night. "Once we start this match I feel it is for real. Very much for real. Bobby feels the same way."

Riggs, admitting he has staged "the greatest hustle of my career," maintains Billie Jean will crack under the pressure of the high stakes and the belief she must win for the women's lib movement. She says "Roberta" is cracked.

"The fans don't care how much show biz they have during a match as long as the match itself is for real," she said. "For me it's real. I'm not messing around. I want to hit great shots and show people that women can play great tennis."

She also warned the loquacious Riggs to stay quiet during the best three-of-five sets match that will be televised nationally and promoted by Jerry Perenchio.

"He better not B-S me at all," she said. "I've given strict instructions to Mr. Perenchio that he had better play tennis."

Billie Jean, 29, said she had recovered completely from a virus and had strengthened her right leg, injured in August, by lifting 16 ¼ pound weights. She proved her condition by easily winning first and second round matches yesterday in the Virginia Slims tournament.

"I'm a very healthy girl. I am very much ready for Thursday night. In a way I think I am probably the best prepared for any match."

Riggs is 55 and won the Wimbledon singles title in 1939 before Billie Jean was born. He defeated Margaret Court in a $10,000 Mother's Day match and promoters lured Billie Jean to play him with the $100,000 purse. Ancillary rights are expected to give winner $200,000 and the loser $100,000.

2 Players Miss 49er Practice

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers resume practicing today in preparation for Sunday's National Football League game against the Denver Broncos, but center Forrest Blue and free safety Mike Simpson will remain sidelined for another day.

Simpson and Blue were two of the many 49ers who suffered heat prostration in a 21-13 loss at Miami. They were hospitalized briefly but were released Monday and were expected to practice later in the week.

Offensive linemen Randy Beisler and Jean Barrett suffered fractured wrists in last Sunday's game, but both are expected to play at Denver.

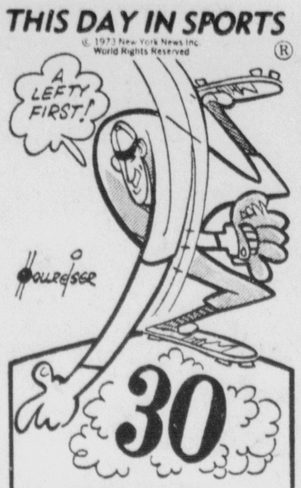

Punt, Pass, Kick Registration Set

Registration for the 13th annual Punt, Pass and Kick competition for youngsters aged 8-13 will continue through next Friday, Sept. 28, at three sites in Marin.

The competition, co-sonsored by the National Football League and the Ford Dealers of America, will begin at the local level next weekend and move to zone, district, area, divisional and national levels, with national champions being crowned in various age brackets.

The sites are Novato Ford, 6995 Redwood Highway, Novato; J&B Ford, 5860 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera; and Lyons-Ryan Ford, 619 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael.

score. Woodall's TD pass saved Namath from his first shutout in 75 pro games

Namath got the Jets to the Packer 34 on his first drive but Bobby Howfield's 41-yard field goal attempt was wide and that was the last time the Jets threatened until late in the game when Namath directed a 70-yard drive to the Packer five-yard line.

But the threat ended in Namath's most frustrating series of the night. Three times he threw to his favorite target of the evening, Jerome Barkum, and three times cornerback Ken Ellis batted the ball away to keep the Jets scoreless.

"I thought Ellis wouldn't expect it three times in a row," a frustrated Namath said after the game.

The Packers apparently expected just about anything from Namath and that anticipation, plus crucial mistakes by the Jets, proved to be a winning combination for Green Bay.

"We know they can score from anywhere," said safety Jim Hill. "We just tried to do things to eliminate that possibility." Hill recovered two fumbles that led to Packer scores.

Chester Marcol kicked field goals of nine, 37 and 10 yards, the latter coming in the third quarter after a New York fumble. Another Jet fumble late in the first half led to the Packers' first touchdown on a 19-yard pass from Scott Hunter to Rich McGeorge.

The final Packer score, a one-yard run by John Brockington, who finished as the game's leading rusher with 73 yards, followed Ellis' interception of a Namath pass that bounced off Barkum.

FAIRFAX'S TOGNOLI HONORED

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Steve Tognoli's victory in the weekend's 171-mile San Francisco powerboat race has earned the 24-year-old Fairfax pilot rookie of the year honors and runner-up status in the American Power Boat Association's 12-race championship standings.

New York officials confirmed yesterday that the young driver's win jumped him from fourth to second Saturday behind Bob Magoon of Miami, who cinched his fifth individual title Sept.

Marin Academy Wins Cross Country Meet

Marin Academy swept the first five places to defeat Shattuck School of Faribault, Minn., 15-50, in a postal cross country meet Friday.

Tom Calhoun, Drew D'Anneo and Ross Parmenter of Marin Academy tied for first place in 17:00. The schools ran their respective three-mile courses simultaneously, then compared times by mail.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Pop Drops In, Expos Top Cards

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

There were almost more guys chasing a pop fly on the pitching mound in Montreal last night than were in the stadium in Atlanta watching Hank Aaron hit his 711th homer.

Five St. Louis players converged on a popup to the mound with two out in the ninth inning but they let it drop for a run-scoring single that gave the Montreal Expos' a crucial 5-4 victory over the Cardinals in the hectic Eastern Division pennant race.

Blowing that game cost the Cards a shot at a doubleheader sweep since the salvaged the second game 5-3 in 12 innings. That left them 2 ½ games behind Pittsburgh while Montreal is a game behind.

In Atlanta, only 1,362 fans—the smallest crowd ever to see a Braves' game in Atlanta—were on hand when Aaron hit his 38th homer of the season and 711th of his career to pace the Braves to a 7-0 victory over San Diego.

The crowd was held down by rain before the game but if this keeps up, there may be more baseball officials, newsmen and TV technicians on hands than fans if Aaron hits 714 in Atlanta this year.

St. Louis went into the ninth inning with a 4-3 lead over Montreal in the opener but the Expos tied it on Jim Lyttle's single, a wild pitch and Ted Simmons' wide throw on Felipe Alou's grounder. Alou took second on the play but the game seemed headed for extra innings when Ron Woods popped to the mound.

Pitcher Al Hrabosky, first baseman Joe Torre, shortstop Mick Kelleher, third baseman Terry Hughes and Simmons all converged on the ball but it fell in as Alou scored.

Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst said, "it was a foolish mistake. My team fell asleep on that play. Five players converged on the ball but nobody called it. At the last second, Hrabosky yelled at Hughes to catch it, he made a lunge and missed. The pitcher should have called the man much earlier."

In the second game after an hour and 12 minute rain delay, only about 200 of the 20,168 fans were left when Bernie Carbo singled with two out in the 12th to break a 3-3 tie and lead the Cards to the triumph. There were two on and one out when the game was delayed.

Aaron has 10 games left in his race to catch Babe Ruth's record of 714 this year. He said he wants to play in as many as he can but he doesn't want to play when he tired because he's afraid he'll hurt the team.

"The important thing is not whether I get a homer but whether I can help the team. You may not believe this, considering that we are out of the race, but no matter where we stand, that's the way I feel."

In the other games, Pittsburgh routed New York 10-3, Houston beat Cincinnati 5-2 and Los Angeles routed San Francisco 7-2.

Willie Stargell, the guy who carries Pittsburgh, drove in four runs with his 40th homer and three extra base hits to pace the Pirates to the victory over New York. Tom Seaver, 17-10, was belted for five runs in three innings. Stargell broke the National League record by collecting four extra hits for the fourth time in one game. Richie Hebner, Richie Zisk and Milt May also homered for the Pirates.

Cesar Cedeno and Bob Watson homered to pace Houston over Cincinnati. Dave Roberts picked up his 15th victory with a seven-hitter while Jack Billingham, 18-9, took the loss.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Managers Busy Battling Umpires

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Now that all the competitive edge has been removed from the American League, about the only excitement left for the contestants is to challenge the umpires.

That was the name of the game at Baltimore last night when the two opposing managers lost decisions to a pair of umpires. By the time the Orioles took a 5-4 decision from the New York Yankees in a 10-inning affair, Earl Weaver of Baltimore and Ralph Houk of New York had been evicted from the premises.

Weaver was bounced by second base umpire Bill Kunkel in the eighth inning for what Kunkel termed "using profanity," and Houk joined him on the sidelines in the ninth after engaging in a violent argument with first base umpire Russ Goetz for disputing a call that would have given the Yankees a victory.

While Weaver took satisfaction in winning the game, he gave full credit to Houk for putting on a better performance against the umpires after watching the Yankee boss dance and scream and throw his hat in the air.

"Houk's the best at that—he can really do it," Weaver said.

Weaver's ouster was his seventh of the year and the third time by Kunkel.

By winning, the Orioles boosted their first-place lead in the AL East to 7 ½ games over idle Boston and lowered their magic number to six. The situation is just as dull in the West, where the Oakland A's also reduced their magic number to six by nipping the California Angels 3-2 in 13 innings after Kansas City dropped an 8-3 decision to Minnesota. Oakland leads the runnerup Royals by 7 ½ games.

In the only other game played, Texas scored five runs in the first inning as Toby Harrah, Bill Madlock and Jim Fregosi all homered and the Rangers went on to rout the Chicago White Sox 10-3.

Earl Williams' leadoff homer in the bottom of the 10th gave Baltimore its win over the Yankees, although Houk still believes his club won it in the ninth.

New York carried a 4-3 lead into the ninth but pinch-hitter Boog Powell and Al Bumbry singled. With two out, Tommy Davis hit a chopper to second baseman Horace Clarke and Goetz said Davis beat the throw to first. Pinch-runner Curt Motton scored from second on the play.

"The runner was out by half a step and that cost us the game," Houk said. "What else can you say?"

In the previous inning, Weaver protested a call at second on which Kunkel called Yankee catcher Thurman Munson safe on a steal.

"Only Kunkel and I know I didn't curse at him," Weaver said later. "I swear to it. Kunkel knocked my hat off and he stepped on my foot and he ground it (the foot) into the ground. It wasn't an accident."

Williams' 21st homer provided Mike Cuellar, who went the distance, with his 16th victory against 13 losses. Wayne Granger, in relief of Lindy McDaniel, took his first loss without a win.

A three-run double by Tony Oliva in the seventh inning lifted Minnesota past Kansas City and enabled Ray Corbin to stretch his record to 6-5.

Trevino Blasts Nicklaus For Late Arrival

EDINBURGH, Scotland (UPI) —Jack Nicklaus faced strong criticism from American Ryder Cup team teammate Lee Trevino when he arrived here last night for the contest against Britain and Ireland at Muirfield, Scotland, starting Thursday.

But Nicklaus dismissed the criticism.

"I had discussed my travel arrangements during the Professional Golfers Association Championship and was told that there did not appear to be any reason why I should not report until Tuesday," Nicklaus said.

"I don't think the team is happy about it," said Trevino. "My wife has just had another baby and I would have loved to have stayed at home on Saturday and Sunday.

"I traveled to Washington on Saturday. I was told to be there and I was there," he said. "If one player can do it, why not the others?"

"His (Nicklaus) obligation to me is to be here and play on Tuesday morning," said the U.S. team's non-playing captain Jack Burke Jr. "His preparation is his own concern."

Burke was non-committal about the outcome of the contest. Although the Americans are 3-1 favorites, Burke would not say how highly he ranked his team's chances.

"I have not seen all your players play," he said. "But there are 12 good players on each side, and that is what makes a contest.

"I think we are going to see some classic matches. We have one of the best teams for a long time. There are a lot of veterans on the side. It is an interesting team. Half are long hitters and half medium.

"I think the majority are good putters," Burke said. "All had good tournament records, and they will be going all out."

"We do not underestimate the British players. The Americans have a great deal of respect for them on the golf course."

Burke and the British-Irish captain, Bernard Hunt, both confessed they would like the course soft.

It would appear their wishes have been granted, for rain cut short some of the British players practise and in the afternoon, a thunderstorm broke over the exposed links.

"We prefer to have the course wet as we are used to playing on watered greens," Burke said.

While most of the American players decided to rest after their flight, Trevino, who won the second of his two British Open championships at Muirfield in 1972, was out practicing a couple of hours after his arrival at his hotel.

When told the British and Irish players were on the course, he quipped, "where are they? I'll play their better ball."

College of Marin is still accepting signups for its football team, head coach Dick Read has announced. Individuals wishing to sign up should contact Read at the school.

BLACKOUT

The Chiefs say, despite some singles remaining for future games, the club will go on record as calling them sellouts.

Chicago's Soldier Field, home of the Bears, usually has about 3,000 seats that never go on sale because they are in low and distant sections of the stadium. Bears President George Halas Jr., says these could be put on sale, knowing they wouldn't be bought, just to avoid enforced television of home games. But the Bears say "we have no intention of doing it. We will live with the home television for 1973."

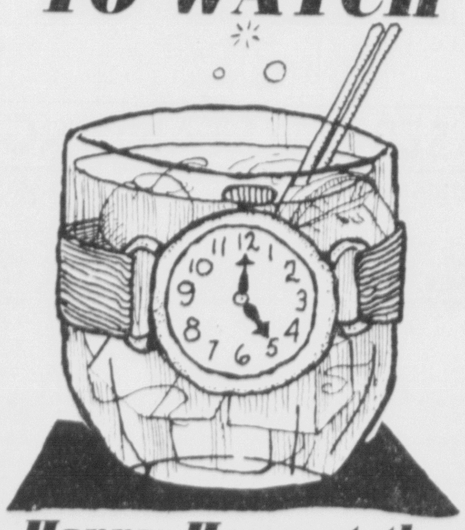

The Cleveland Browns reported a "normal pattern of 2,566 no-shows for their home opener. There were 4,879 seats vacant as 2,313 tickets remained unsold.

In Washington, Sen. John D. Pastore, D-R.I., said that only the scalpers were hurt by lifting the TV blackout after it was reported that there were about 50,000 no-shows at nine sold-out NFL parks on Sunday's opening day schedule.

"I'd like to see the number of tickets left in the hands of scalpers," Pastore said, "before we make a quick decision to change the law."

Pastore said he understood that 3,000 persons had purchased all 60,000 seats at Kennedy Stadium for the Washington Redskins home opener.

Lucky Andy Does It Again

If you are a deer hunter you won't believe this story. Last week just before the deer season came to a close in Marin County, my son, Andy, suddenly announced that he was ready to go on his first hunt of the season. If you remember, last year here at home, he went once, fired one shot and had his buck. A neck shot too! Then we went to the high Sierra country, and the first morning he got his second buck, again with a neck shot, just three minutes after shooting time started.

This year, I got him a new gun, sighted it in, and then prodded him to go for a hunt. In fact, we all prodded him but he was working as a summer ranger at Taylor Park, and probably dating girls (we never see him!) so the hunt never materialized. He had even made a $1 bet with Marty Medin on the biggest buck, and 25 cents for each shot missed. So when he made this announcement, we were all elated. We hadn't seen a buck in two weeks. We felt he would get his comeuppance!

THIS IS A reconstruction of the hunt as true as I can relate it:

Marty, Ben Selfridge, one of the Woodacre Fire House gang, and I drove out to our ranch about 3 p.m. I figured we would put Andy in one of the thickest, brushiest canyons of the ranch. I dropped the three of them off on the top side of the rugged canyon. They were each to work one of the hog-back ridges. I drove the 4-wheel drive back down to meet them at the bottom, and also to take a stand as they moved downward. I saw them start; the stand I took gave me a good, commanding view. When they had moved down, perhaps a quarter of a mile, they started jumping some deer.

Ben yelled, "There goes a buck!" But no shots. This happened twice and still no shots. At times, I would really get frustrated — none of these bucks could I see! Then the fellows all stopped for at least a half an hour. I wondered, "What are they doing?" Finally I heard Ben say that he had lost his wallet! It was a fiasco, not a buck hunt. Then it happened! Andy had finally moved down a couple of steps. I'm watching him. I see him raise his gun, then shoot! Would you believe that the biggest buck, that I've seen this year, a three-pointer, was laying just 20 yards below him; it had been there all this time. Andy again had his buck with another neck shot. It's unbelievable the luck that kid has. Marty made his way over to Andy and the buck, and he was sick because he had lost the bet.

IT MADE HIS buck, which was a good one and which had taken him three weeks to get, look small. Marty and Andy then started to drag the buck down through the brush toward me and the car. I could hear Marty talking to himself. At one point, he called to me telling me that the buck was in poor shape; that it must have had polio. I figured he was going mad.

Well, we finally got the deer to the car. It was a dandy! Of course, the trip was spoiled, with Ben losing his wallet in that impenetrable canyon. It was about 6 p.m. by this time, but we decided to drive back around and give it a look for the wallet.

Andy and Ben hiked back to the top — and with no guns this time, though Ben still had his tag. Marty and I again drove back to pick them up. Well, just about dark, Ben and Andy came out. That Andy had found that wallet hanging on a manzanita bush about half way down. Again it's unbelievable! That kid lives right and poor Ben, he's in a rut. After they found the wallet, they took an easier trail out of the canyon.

THIS IS what they said: "As we started through the other brushless canyon we rounded a small knoll. There, right in front of us, stood the biggest buck in Marin County". The buck (and this they both swear to) was twice the size of Andy's I don't believe it! The horns on Andy's buck measured 18½ inches across and were 11 inches high. Now that's a big rack for this country. Anyway, with their guns down at the car, there was nothing they could do. I think you could have bought Ben's rifle for $1 when he got back to the car, and the realization of how he goofed finally hit home.

That evening around the fireplace, the guys put the question to Andy as to what he did owe his success. Andy's answer: "It must be my speed and cunning," sent everyone off to bed in a roar.

Stanford Deemed Set For Michigan

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

STANFORD — Coach Jack Christiansen says that Stanford should be ready for Michigan Saturday with apparently no one seriously hurt after the Penn State game.

The Cards worked out yesterday with the first-team offense running non-scrimmage plays against the first team defense since the coach says Stanford's basic defensive sets are similar to Michigan.

However, Christiansen noted that Penn State had success with multiple defensive patterns against Stanford's young offensive line last Saturday and said that Michigan might also vary its defenses.

Brigham Young

PROVO, Utah — Orrin Olsen, the last of the football Olsens, has been lost to Brigham Young for an indefinite period with an injured hand.

BYU Coach Lavell Edwards said Olsen's hand was operated on Monday. The younger brother of Merlin and Phil Olsen of the Los Angeles Rams will be out for four to six weeks, said Edwards.

The junior offensive tackle reinjured the hand in BYU's season opening 21-13 loss to Colorado State Saturday night. He had been a starter as a sophomore.

California

BERKELEY — California, undaunted by a 66-0 loss to Alabama last week, yesterday started "just another practice week," according to Coach Mike White.

"We aren't going to jump on any players," White said. "We are 0-1 like many other teams and our players want to win No. 1 for the season. I think it showed in our practice today—it was sharp."

California faces Illinois in Berkeley Saturday.

The Bears' coaching staff named two players of the week, split end Dave Bateman, praised for his "usual heads-up game," and linebacker Ivan Weiss, who "played an excellent game for a guy playing his first game as a linebacker."

Oregon State

CORVALLIS, Ore. — Coach Dee Andros worked Oregon State heavily on defense yesterday in an effort to blunt the Southern Methodist running attack in the season home opener Saturday.

Andros was particularly concerned about stopping Alvin Maxson, who gained 139 yards in 10 carries as the Mustangs thumped Santa Clara 49-7 Saturday.

NO-SHOWS, OTHER PROBLEMS

TV Blackout Ban Called 'A Rock'

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) —Pete Rozelle was busy watching Pittsburgh gradually chew up Detroit at Three Rivers Stadium when Dan Rooney of the Steelers tapped him on the arm and directed his attention to one of the banners hanging from the second deck.

Rozelle looked through his binoculars and read the words on the banner:

"Will swap two season tickets, umbrella and Steeler pennant for color TV set."

Pete Rozelle broke up.

This was last Sunday when, for the first time er, National Football League games which were sold out were required to be televised in the cities where they were being played.

Here in New York where the Giants manhandled the Houston Oilers that same day, the game was televised locally and some "typical" football fans were solicited for their opinions about this monumental breakthrough.

One fellow sitting at a bar directly across from Yankee Stadium where the Giants and Oilers were playing was asked how he felt about getting the opportunity finally to see the home team perform on TV.

"Great!" he said. "This is something I've been waiting for many years. Before this you'd have to go up to Poughkeepsie or someplace like that to see the game on TV."

"Have you been watching the game on that set over there above the bar?" the interviewer asked the guy.

"Oh yeah," said the patron.

"What's the score?"

"I'm not sure."

"Who's winning?"

"Uh ... the Giants?" he finally took a stab like some contestant on a quiz show trying to come up with the right answer.

The point in all this is that Congress seems to be far more concerned with the football blackout which existed before last Sunday than perhaps those constituents it represents.

In nearly 30 years here at United Press International, I never have received a single letter from a fan complaining because he couldn't see his home team on TV. I have to wonder how many letters any of the Congressmen ever received.

Sunday's NFL no-shows totaled a much greater than anticipated 49,551 and in Miami, where 11,775 less than capacity showed up at the soldout Orange Bowl, some spectators even walked out at halftime. This despite the fact the Super Bowl champion Dolphins were behind the San Francisco Forty Niners and faced their first regular season defeat in 18 games.

Pete Rozelle, the commissioner, says he feels the total number of no-shows will increase. Remember, every club had a perfect record Sunday.

"I think the total number of no-shows will increase as the clubs get more blemishes and the weather grows worse," reasons Rozelle.

That makes sense.

Pete Rozelle enjoys football but once in awhile he stays home and watches the game on TV himself. Why not? He had plenty of games to choose from even before the blackout was lifted and so did everyone else.

I think Congress pulled a rock.

My heart doesn't bleed a bit for the football owners, but it seemed to me there was enough pro football to satisfy any TV viewer every Sunday plus another game he could see Monday night.

I think the legislators had nothing better to do so they sat down and enacted a law against football. But why pick on football, which employs the so-called "carryback policy" whereby fans back home always have the opportunity of watching their team when it's on the road?

Congress has promised to review its new law against the blackout. I think that's a good idea. It should review it hard.

The lifting of the blackout has injured football already and will hurt it even more in the long run. How? Here's how:

Pro football's expansion committee has been studying the feasibility of adding cities like Tampa, Seattle, Honolulu and Mexico City to the NFL. The committee was going to have some "important" announcement pertaining to expansion this February.

You can forget about it now.

TV income is a vital aspect to the continued health of pro football since all clubs share the revenue equally. With the blackout lifted, the owners are more than merely shaken, they're downright worried. Enough so that expansion now becomes the last thing on their minds.

That means some cities that might've been incorporated into the NFL structure now will find their chances that much more dim.

One more thing:

In England, the fans aren't nearly as lucky as they are over here. They get one live soccer game on TV during the entire 10-month season.

That's something for Congress to think about when it has a little time.

Aaron To Throw Out 1st Ball At World Series

Combined AP & UPI

ATLANTA — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn yesterday announced that Atlanta outfielder Hank Aaron, who hit his 711th career homer last night in a game against the San Diego Padres, will throw out the first ball of the 1973 World Series.

Aaron, three home runs shy of Babe Ruth's career record, will become the first active player ever to perform that chore.

CINCINNATI — Johnny Bench, Cincinnati Reds star catcher, has been granted a hearing with National League President Chub Feeney to appeal a two-day suspension and $200 fine imposed on him as a result of his argument with plate umpire Andy Olsen Saturday night.

The hearing will be held Thursday when the Reds are in San Francisco to play the Giants. Feeney said the penalties imposed would be rescinded pending the outcome of the hearing.

ARLINGTON, Tex. — Frank Lucchesi, former manager of the Philadelphia Phillies, yesterday was hired as a third base coach by the Texas Rangers.

Hockey

FITCHBURG, Mass. — Center Derek Sanderson yesterday became the first training camp casualty of the Boston Bruins when he hurt his back while checking Gregg Sheppard during a scrimmage.

The National Hockey League Bruins said Sanderson was admitted to Burbank Hospital here for an examination. The extent of the injury was not immediately known.

Tennis

PITTSBURGH — Evonne Goolagong, the Australian tennis star, has been signed to a multiyear contract by the Pittsburgh Triangles of the new world Team Tennis League, it was announced yesterday. Terms were not disclosed.

APTOS — U.S. Davis Cup star Erik Van Dillen of San Mateo has been named director of tennis for the Aptos Seascape Racquet Club, site of this week's national Hardcourt Championships.

An honer

Van Dillen, 22, said he would try to spend as much time as possible at the club between international tourneys to make the club "one of the best tennis centers in Northern California and maybe in the whole state.

Football

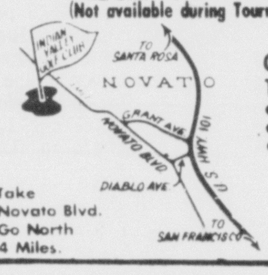

OAKLAND — There are still 9,000 seats left in the 75,000-seat Cal Stadium for Sunday's Oakland game with Miami. Raider officials said today that unless there is a sellout by 1 p.m. Thursday, the National Football League game will not be televised locally.

Golf

NEW YORK — Hale Irwin and Forrest Fezler have became the eighth and ninth players to surpass the $100,000 mark in earnings this year according to figures released yesterday by the tournament players division of the Professional Golfers Association.

Irwin earned $30,000 for his victory Sunday in the Heritage Classic at Hilton Head Island, S.C., where Fezler tied for 10th place and picked up $3,300. For the year, Irwin now has earned $102,226 and Fezler $102,361.

Bears' Gibron Says He'd Do It Again

CHICAGO (UPI)—Abe Gibron would do it again.

The Chicago Bears' coach Sunday called for a line plunge on a fake punt in a fourth-and-inches situation with less than four minutes to play against Dallas and the attempt failed.

The move gave the Cowboys possession deep in Chicago territory, leading to a game-winning 11-yard field goal by Toni Fritsch in the 20-17 decision.

"I had an option," Gibron said. "All I wanted to do was get close enough for Mirro Roder to kick a 50-yard field goal.

"I'd still go for it," he said. "But maybe I'd to do it a different way. The fake punt never missed for us."

Gibron's comment came after he had studied films of the play. He said they showed that Bob Parsons, the up man who took the snap from center and tried to break through the line, lined up two yards deeper than he did on a similar play which worked previously. He veered toward Billy Joe DuPree, who made the tackle stopping him short of first down.

The Bears last year had punter Bobby Joe Green pass from his position 14 yards behind the line on a fourth down against Minnesota and the play worked.

Linebacking star Dick Butkus cited the play against Minnesota and said today, "I think Bobby should have thrown it."

Gibron said he was "pleased" with the Bears' general performance.

"There was a lot of good things in the gae," he said.

He cited the five lost fumbles and a pass interception as costly errors and said, "the offense was moving the ball except for the mistakes and the defense did a hell of ajob.

"I was trying to win. If I was trying to keep it close, I would have run the clock out at the half."

Two of the Bears' errors late in the first half helped Dallas score twice on pass plays of 18 and 21 yards in less than two minutes for a 17-3 halftime lead.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Hamilton Fund Swap Proposed

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Please advise on the suitability of Hamilton Funds HDA for retirement income. We hold 1,100 shares. Also what is the growth potential for this fund? — W.F.

A. The Hamilton group of funds includes an Income Fund which would be a more appropriate investment for you. Your Series HDA shares are exchangeable at net asset value plus a $5 fee for the Hamilton Income Fund shares. This latter fund yields 4.3 per cent currently on its 26 cent annual income dividend rate and in January, 1973, distributed 14 cents in capital gains, up from 11 cents the previous year. Established in 1970, the fund increased net asset value by 24 per cent in 1971 and 12 per cent in 1972. In the first seven months of 1973, NAV declined 9 per cent. The HDA series showed a 10 per cent and 5 per cent gain in 1971 and 1972 and a 15 per cent decline in the comparable 1973 period.

Q. My mother is 67, a widow with her only income from Social Security. In addition she has $10,000 in capital and $10,000 equity in her home where she would like to remain. What is the best type of investment for maximum return and safety? Should she try to live on her interest or gradually draw from the principal? — R.G.

A. Because your mother's capital is limited she should try not to draw on it if possible. However, if the $10,000 is invested at 8 per cent and she withdraws $1,000 or 10 per cent annually it will last 20 years.

There are at least two types of investments which are suitable for your mother, U.S. Treasury bills, yielding 8.7 per cent for six-month maturities, and four-year savings certificates paying around 8 per cent. In the case of the latter, however, check carefully all the terms under which these certificates are issued. Early withdrawals are subject to penalties and in some cases interest must be left in for the full term in order to collect the higher interest rates. With Treasury bills, because they are short term, the rate of return is subject to money conditions existing at the time of issue. Therefore, in six months when these expire the return could be higher or lower.

Long Distance For A Short Call

NOME, Alaska (UPI) — Alaska's Little Diomede Island, which is just two miles from Soviet territory, has obtained telephone service through a hook-up with RCA Communications, Inc.

But if the Eskimos there want to ring up their neighbors on Russia's Big Diomede, they will have to call around the world to do so. RCA says the village bush phone offers almost the same service available anywhere else, including long distance service. But there is no direct connection across the Bering Strait which separates the two islands.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

Two New Savings And Loan Offices Are On Tap In Marin

The savings and loan business definitely is growing in Marin. One new savings and loan office will open next Tuesday, and plans for another have just been announced.

Citizens Savings and Loan Association will celebrate opening of its new building at 950 Northgate Drive, San Rafael, next Tuesday from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. F. Marion Donahue, chairman of the board, and Anthony M. Frank, vice chairman, will be on hand for the opening. George Edwards will be vice president of the San Rafael branch.

Meanwhile, Home Federal Savings and Loan Association of San Francisco announced plans to open a branch in the Red Hill Shopping Center in San Anselmo.

Opening of the Home Federal office is planned for Oct. 2. This will be the organization's fifth new branch opened this year, others being in Oakland, Sacramento, Ukiah and Modesto.

TWO MARINITES have been named vice presidents by Great Western Savings and Loan Association. They are Charles Lewis, Novato resident and manager of Great Western's Novato branch at 999 Grant Avenue, and Kenneth J. Daugherty, San Rafael resident and manager of the Great Western branch at 25 Stockton Street, San Francisco.

IT ISN'T OFTEN that a home with a $225,000 price tag comes on the Marin market, but that is the price Don Suhr, San Rafael realty broker, is asking for Windentide, a one-acre Belvedere Island estate. The two-story house, remodeled and expanded in 1965, has five baths, dining room that seats 26, marble fireplace in the living room, game room with second kitchen, two maids' rooms, and, according to Suhr, "dozens of other features."

BBB HONOR — The Independent-Journal has been presented with a certificate of merit by the Better Business Bureau of San Francisco in recognition of its cooperation in furthering consumer education and maintaining high advertising standards.

ECONOMICAL COMET

Lincoln-Mercury's Comet offers exterior and interior design refinements and new optional front disc brakes for 1974. The Comet's luxurious custom trim option is improved for 1974 with the addition of silver blue interior trim, color-keyed leather wrapped steering wheel and a dome map-reading light. The sporty GT model has cut-pile carpeting and a leather-wrapped steering wheel as standard equipment. Options include a new AM/FM radio. Local dealers are Marin Bay Lincoln Mercury in San Rafael and Larry Brink Motors in Mill Valley.

Shareholders Support Merger

SEATTLE (BW) — Airborne Freight Corp. shareholders have voted approval for the worldwide company's proposed merger with I.U. International Corp.

Approval was given by shareholders and proxies representing 77.25 per cent of the outstanding shares. Negative votes accounted for .24 per cent.

CASSINI MATADOR COUPE

American designer Oleg Cassini's influence is reflected in American Motors' 1974 Matador Brougham coupe. The overall effect of design harmony is achiefed by the subtle use of exterior paint and striping as an extension of interior colors and fabrics. Black knit nylon upholstery with copper buttons, copper-color carpeting and instrument dials are highlights of the Cassini interior. Three body colors are available — white, copper and black. American Motors' Marin dealer is San Rafael American.

1974 OLDSMOBILE OMEGA

Oldsmobile's compact Omega continues with three models — the hatchback coupe (above), two-door coupe and four-door sedan. They will be on display in dealer showrooms Sept. 20. New grilles, front turn signal lamps, center hood molding and optional body side moldings give the Omega a new look for 1974. A new Omega S sports package is available on the coupe and hatchback models. Marin dealer is Scripture Oldsmobile in San Rafael.

Profit Grab Cuts Short Stock Rise

NEW YORK (UPI) —Some profit-taking after more than a week of gains turned stock prices mixed today in moderate activity on the New York Stock Exchange.

The market moved higher at the start, helped by news short-term Treasury bill yields had come down a bit from last week's record high levels. The advance deteriorated, however, as some investors moved in to consolidate the gains of the last six sessions.

Analysts also felt investors may be concerned by the 26-point drop Monday by International Business Machines. They said the apparent legal vulnerability of the computer giant—which lost a $352.5 million court decision to Telex Corp.—may have adverse implications for other blue-chip firms.

On the American Stock Exchange, prices moved irregularly in light trading. Leading the actives, Herff Jones was unchanged at 14 on 41,900 shares.

Aircrafts moved slightly lower. Other groups —Steels, motors, rails and airlines— moved both ways in fractions.

Glamors moved broadly lower. Polaroid dipped 4 ⅛, Avon Products 1 ¾, Walt Disney 1 ⅝, Upjohn 1 ½, Ara Services 1 ¼.

Sears Highway Passenger Tire Guarantee

If you do not receive the number of miles specified because of your tire becoming unserviceable due to (1) defects, (2) normal road hazards, or (3) tread wear-out,

We will: At our option, exchange it for a new tire or give you a refund charging in either case only the proportion of the then current selling price plus Federal Excise tax that represents mileage used. If the tire is unserviceable due to any of the above causes before 10% of the guaranteed mileage is received, the replacement or refund will be made with no charge for mileage received.
